BOY GETS $100 A WEEK FOR LIFE

Daring Rescue of Kidnapped Girl 16 Years Ago Brings Reward.

ACHILLE, Okla., July 7—Charles Brown, a farmer of Bryan County, now has an income of $100 a week because sixteen years ago he saved the life of a child and the father did not forget.

Sixteen years ago Charles Brown then a mere boy, was working for a lumber company in Tennessee. The owner of the mill had a daughter, a little child, fair and winsome, who was the pet of the lumber camp. Two bandits with a ransom in view, kidnapped the child and made away with her toward the Cumberland Mountains. A posse was organized swiftly, but Charles Brown, because of his youth, was deemed unfit for service and left behind. Brown knew what route the posse had taken, and was horrified later on learning from a pedestrian that the posse had taken the wrong trail.

Arming himself with two revolvers, he set out on foot to overtake the bandits. All that night and next day the boy sped on his way. Suddenly while lying under a tree, he placed his ear to the ground and heard sounds of horses' hoofs beating on the rocks. Presently he heard voices. Brown knew the bandits, he recognized their voices. Evidently the bandits were backtracking. Brown hid behind a tree.

As the bandits came alongside him he stepped out, a revolver in each hand, and commanded them to throw up their hands. Each bandit had a Winchester under his stirrup, but each knew Brown and realized the result of resistance.

Forcing his prisoners to leave the horses, Brown placed the girl astride one horse and himself mounting the other drove the two outlaws ahead of him to the nearest railway station, a distance of twenty-two miles, from which he telegraphed the Sheriff's office.

The other day Brown received notice from a firm of lawyers in Tennessee informing him that his old employer, who had come to be a multimillionaire had recently died and had left to him an allowance of $100 per week for life.

WHOLE WORLD HELPS TO FEED JOHN BULL

British Isles Imports $1,375,000,000 Worth of Food-stuffs Each Year.

LONDON, July 7—The provisioning of the British Isle is one of the marvels of the world. The foreign produce imported is by far the largest item in the national food bill. It is imported from practically every country on the globe and totals $1,375,000,000 a year, rather less than a third of which is credited to British overseas possessions.

The largest individual contribution $175,000,000 worth of food, comes from Argentina. Of other countries outside of Europe the United States comes next, with about $10,000,000 less, followed by India, with $125,000,000; Canada with $100,000,000; Australia, with $70,000,000; New Zealand, with $50,000,000 and so on through a list of eighty or ninety separate countries down to Afghanistan's modest contribution of $3,180 worth of dried raisins.

In these bills—the figures given are for 1912—the largest amounts paid to the respective countries were for meat from Argentina; wheat and tea from India, wheat from Canada, wheat and meat from Australia, mutton from New Zealand and wheat and bacon from the United States. There is still one figure to be added which surpasses all the rest in interest, not on account of its magnitude but for precisely the opposite reason. Eight years ago the imports of chilled and frozen meat from the United States were valued at more than $125,000,000. In 1912 they had sunk to $75,000,000.

In Europe there are three countries—Denmark, the Netherlands and Germany—each of which exports to us food to the value of 50,000,000 or more. The Danish and Dutch exports total $105,000,000 and $70,000,000 respectively. It seems almost incredible that Denmark, one of the smallest countries of the world, should be able to supply us with food, chiefly butter and eggs, worth more than a quarter of the value of our food imports from all the British possessions abroad, even though some allowances must be made for the fact that Denmark draws from Russia part of the supplies which she exports to this country.

The case of Ireland is even more striking. Not many persons realize that she is Great Britain's largest provisioner, with a total of $150,000,000 worth of food yearly. In 1912 she supplied the sister island with $10,000,000 worth more meat than Argentina; with more butter than any other country but Denmark; more eggs than any but Russia and four times as much poultry as her nearest competitor.

WILL DEPORT THEM

OTTAWA, Ont., July 7—There is to be no delay over deportation of the Sikhs at Vancouver. The department had already ordered its officials there to act so soon as the judgement of the British Columbia court of appeal was rendered, if it was favorable, and it is presumed here that steps to that end are being taken to-day. The men may have to be sent home in batches.

SAGE—MARKLE.

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday, July 4th, at the residence of Mrs. A. Markle, 709 Park Avenue, when her only daughter, Eric Alberta, was united in marriage to Mr. John Frederick Sage, of Brantford, by Rev. W. E. Bowyer, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church.

The home was a picture in decorations of pink and white with festoons and arches of pine branches, marjoram, sweet peas and roses, banked with ferns and palms.

While Mendelssohn's wedding march was being beautifully played by Master Harold Vansickle, the bride entered the room escorted by her uncle, James Elliott of Scotland. She looked lovely in her wedding veil and gown of white-crepe de chene trimmed with seed pearls and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Eliza Patter-son, of Scotland, was becomingly attired in pink crepe de chene. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Gordon Sage of Brantford.

During the congratulations, Master
