Pointers For Electors Of Canada to Remember

The Reciprocity Pact is the First Step on the Road to Washington—Reciprocity is a Yankee Trick and Canada Should Leave it Alone—We do Not Need it and Should Not Run the Risk—Scheme For the Expulsion of Great Britain From the American Continent.

(Halifax Herald.)

If Canada is "at the parting of the ways," as Mr. Taft has said, then every elector must make sure that he works and votes for the right "way"—the "way" that stays in the Empire, not the "way" that leads out of the Empire.

No Conservative can vote for the Taft-Fielding Pact, for every Conservative is in favor of Canada's National Policy of Protection to all Canadian industries, and the Taft-Fielding Pact would mean, sooner or later, "Canada for the Yankees."

No Canadian, be he Liberal or Conservative, who believes in "Canada for the Canadians," can vote for the Taft-Fielding Pact, for that Pact means, sooner or later, "Canada for the Yankees."

When the Laurierites succeed in explaining how it is possible for all farmers to get higher prices for their food products, and all the people who buy from them to pay lower rates, then the Laurierites may have some chance of winning this election; but not till then.

Don't forget that a Yankee Meat Trust, or a Yankee Fish Trust, can oppress or squeeze both the producer and the consumer, and that that is just what would happen in Canada under Reciprocity.

Under the Taft-Fielding Pact the products of twelve other foreign nations besides the United States would be admitted free into Canada. That provides unlimited competition for both our farmers and our fishermen. Among those twelve are Norway and Sweden, whose fish export is about equal to the entire fish production of Canada. If it's competition our fishermen want, Mr. Fielding has provided it galore. But, what do the fishermen say?

"The Pact," is the first step on "the way to Washington." Don't take it by your vote unless you really mean it. Don't stultify yourself by voting for what you don't want.

If our fishermen sell their fish, green, in Boston, then the dryers and curers of fish, the coopers and shippers along the shores, will lose their occupation and their livelihood.

If our fishermen sell their fish, green, in Boston, then the "hay fever" supplies in Boston, and our merchants and farmers will lose accordingly.

The only "argument" the Laurierites have presented in favor of Reciprocity, is the statement that somebody talked in favor of it thirty or forty years ago!

No man has yet been able to prove any certain advantages to come to Canadians from the Taft-Fielding deal, while the disadvantages and dangers attending it, both economic and national, are numerous and conspicuous.

Taftism, supported by Laurier, means the absorption of Canada by the United States. Chamberlainism means that Canada would stand to become the greatest country in the greatest Empire of the world.

The Dominion Government pays lecturers to go about instructing farmers as to the ruinous effect on the farm of exporting hay instead of feeding it to their own stock. And yet the Laurier Ministers are trying to force through a deal to encourage the export of hay to the United States. They are quite willing to ruin Canadian farms in order to please Mr. Taft.

It is said that a few people up in Cumberland have the "hay fever." They think that they have some hay to sell and that they would get great prices in the United States under Reciprocity. Well, if they did, all the buyers of hay in Nova Scotia would soon have to pay the increased price. That fact affects many thousand times as many people in this province as those who have the "hay fever" in Cumberland. Besides no farmer who knows his business exports hay.

Canada has wide possessions, vast natural resources, fertile lands, a rapidly increasing population, growing industries, prosperous business, ample markets at home and abroad, political freedom, civil and religious liberty, absolute security under the British flag, and the greatest outlook, as a part of the British Empire, of any country in the world. Why should Canadians of today jeopardize all this, divide these possessions and prosperity with out neighbors; throw all this into the lap of the Washington schemers?

"The Pact" is a Yankee trick, and Canada should leave it severely alone, and thus keep themselves safe.

Canada is in no need of Reciprocity; then, why run any risk?

The more Canada trades with the Republic the less she will trade with Britain, and a break in British Empire trade would prove a breach in the chain of Empire. "The Flag follows trade."

Acceptance of "The Pact" would be Canada's first wrong step. It is the first wrong step that leads to ruin.

"The Pact" is a step towards Washington and a step towards Washington is a step away from the British Motherland.

The acceptance of the Taft-Fielding Pact, would be the abandonment of the Canadian ideal—Independence of our neighbors.

The three prime factors in securing the present greatness of Canada were and are: the acquisition of the Northwest, the building of the "Canadian Pacific" Railway, and the establishment of the Canadian National Policy—every one of which the Liberal party opposed. Laurier has claimed that he made Canada a nation; but the fact is that all the nation-making in Canada was accomplished by others, in spite of him and his party.

"It is all very well to talk about home markets, but the natural trend of trade is not East and West, but north and South." So says Dr. Blackadder, one of the Taft-Fielding candidates in Halifax. He evidently wants to destroy inter-provincial trade and break up the Canadian Confederation. He must be a graduate of the school of Repealer Fielding. But that whole school, headmaster and all, are booked for defeat.
