The Labrador Boundary Dispute

The speech delivered yesterday by the Minister of Justice naturally discloses nothing of details discussed in Montreal during the Labrador Boundary Conference, but in an unmistakable manner he has made it clear to everyone that the Government at any rate do not share the view that, because the value of our dependency is problematical, therefore it is valueless, or because our ownership is still in dispute, therefore we have no claim.

The Minister's remarks will, we feel certain, allay any apprehension that may have been felt on this score, and will satisfy the public that this very important question is receiving the consideration which it deserves. The matter may well be left there until such time as the House is given an opportunity to decide whether a settlement is to be made, and what shall be the basis of settlement.

Opinions of Milk Question

The comments made on the Milk question in the paragraphs which follow are intended to show how vital is the issue with which we are dallying. The views expressed are those of men who are in a position to speak with authority, and the statistics only too accurately bear out the truth of their assertions.

We invite the members of our own medical fraternity and others similarly qualified to send us their opinions on this question, in order that it may be brought home to the public and to the authorities that it is one which must be dealt with in a practical and effective manner. Montreal Star:

"Against the purification of our milk supply a prejudice against all efforts at improvement was created on behalf of the small vendors who visioned an injury to their trade, and this prejudice held down the authorities for some years."

Dr. D. A. L. Styles' Protest:

"Health conditions in Montreal are altogether unsatisfactory, presenting unlimited opportunities for rectification. An educated public opinion in this respect would rapidly delimit our morbidity and mortality rates by forcing responsible authorities into protective action. An adequate milk pasteurization by-law, properly enforced, would go a long way in curtailing the spread of certain milk-borne disease, —as, Typhoid Fever, Tuberculosis, Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, whose prevalence in Montreal is presently overtaxing the capacities of our contagious disease hospitals, besides, causing the outlay of public and private funds in treatment."

As matters stand, the Montreal milk situation is a terrifying proposition. With much impure milk distributed and consumed, our infant deaths are unparalleled throughout the Continent, and our contagious disease index is notoriously high. We have milk producers and distributors whose product is decidedly dangerous, and the consumer has no adequate safeguards against this condition of affairs. It is high time action in the pasteurization by-law was taken by the Civic Executive as safeguarding the welfare of the citizens of Montreal."

Dr. Lapierre's Protest:
 Dr. Gaston Lapierre, graduate of the School of Paediatrics of the Faculty of Medicine of Paris, and Assistant Professor at the infantile clinic of St. Justine's Hospital says:

"Impure milk is a killer of children and a sower of tuberculosis."

"All who can contribute to the spreading of sound ideas regarding the feeding of children, and the problem of cow's milk in particular, fulfil an eminently high social duty, for they contribute in a decided way to reducing the general contamination and the mortality of children in their first years."

"Without having knowledge of the fullest details of the draft milk by-law drawn up by the director of the municipal Health Department, Dr. S. Bouchet, we know that the principal recommendation, and the basis of the by-law, is the protection that can be given by pasteurization or sterilization of milk."

"In a big centre, like Montreal this question of milk is complicated further by the fact that the milk delivered to the consumer is gathered by the milk dealers in hundreds of different places."

"Raw milk is rarely innocuous. It is interesting to speak of 'aseptic milking,' but if we come down from the clouds and get into even the most perfect stable, it will be seen that for a long time yet, perhaps even for ever, it will be the exception."

"We have to deal with the microbes coming from the cow, from the milk and its hands, from the receptacles in which the milk is kept, from the insects that can bring to the milk pathogenic germs, from the air and its impurities, and from the water which is fraudulently added to the milk."

Dr. J. A. Ledue, titular professor of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Montreal, and member of the Council of Hygiene of the Province of Quebec, says:

"I think that if milk could be obtained under completely aseptic conditions, pasteurization or sterilization would not be necessary."

"However, either sterilization or pasteurization is imperative when market milk is used, because such milk is seldom or never obtained under aseptic conditions."

Dr. A. Grant Fleming, M.B., managing director of the Montreal Anti-Tuberculosis and General Health League, says:

"As everyone agrees that children need milk, it certainly seems a very reasonable and logical thing to expect that the milk sold be free from any danger for the child."

"Milk should be obtained from healthy cows and produced and handled in the most cleanly manner. It should then be made safe by pasteurization, which is the only known practical way that we have to make sure that milk is safe, and that any disease germs which may have gained entrance into the milk have been destroyed."

"Health officers all over the world are united in saying that pasteurization is a practical measure of health insurance. The results are seen in the reduced infant death rate that follow wherever it is properly carried out. Education of the mothers and a safe milk supply will bring Montreal's infant death rate down to the level of other cities."

"One thousand children who died last year from diarrhoea and enteritis would have been saved if milk had been better informed as to health needs. The future health of a child was determined in the first two years of its life."

La Presse:

"Examples set by other cities where pasteurization is de rigueur should encourage this city to adopt similar legislation. In Toronto for instance from 1914 to 1924 the death toll as a result of typhoid tumbled from 124 to 99 per thousand. In 1914 tuberculosis was responsible for 102 deaths per 1000 of the population. Last year the deaths from this source were only 62 per thousand. The infant mortality rate in 1914 was 112 per thousand; in 1924 it was but 70. These are established facts and speak eloquently in favour of the pasteurization of milk."

CHILD WELFARE

HEALTHY BABIES.

"An Ounce of Prevention is worth a Pound of Cure."

"Habits"—There was a meadow, and across this meadow a man used to walk every day to his work. Of course, he took the same way every day, which was the shortest way. Very soon there was a streak across the meadow like a ribbon—very little later there was a beaten path and every day the path became firmer and more useful."

From Babyhood we are "beating paths" which are going to be of use to us, that is if we make them for the purpose of "work"—by work we mean Health and Strong Character.

So these "paths" or habits are very important. Just as you give baby his food at regular intervals so that he gets the habit of good digestion, train him in all other habits that are good too.

I will name some of them:

1. Sleep—Fourteen hours of sleep in twenty-four hours.
 2. Obedience—Teach him, don't let him teach you.
 3. Fresh Air—Take him out every day.

4. Daily Getting Rid of Waste Matter—When baby is only a few days old he should be held out every day, so as to establish this habit.

5. Exercise—A bath every day, so that baby can kick in it. Shorten his clothes as soon as you can, so that he can have plenty of movement.

6. Cleaning of Teeth—Before baby is a year old his teeth should be cleaned every day.

Competition—We hope all those who have competition papers are interested in it. Anyone wanting the details can obtain them at the Welfare Centre.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Feb. 27th.—Up betimes and abroad, the day somewhat cold yet fine, so I wear my light top coat with comfort.

To Water Street, and meeting Mr. Willis, he to show me the new offices that Bowring Bros. do make for themselves, and are indeed very fine.

Talking with Povey this day, I did tell him how the Government will change the rule of the road for vehicles from left to right, which displeases him mightily, since it did take him such a long time to learn to control a car, that he doubts if he will not have the greatest difficulty to make the change. This a ridiculous thing, as I did tell him.

The House this day still debating the Address in Reply, and Mr. Hickman speaks the greater part of the afternoon, and is followed by Mr. Higgins, he confining himself to two matters, being the Labrador Boundary and the Bell Island situation. Among other things he do say how our case in connexion with the boundary claims is now in readiness for presentation, but of the outcome, he can say nothing. Discouraging of Besco, he says how Mr. Wolvin, the President of the Corporation, did tell him that the smelting clause in the last contract was but a form of camouflage and was never intended to be put into force.

This night my wife and I abroad to play at Bridge, but the women do naught but discourse of the latest decrees of Dame Fashion, and do learn, from what I hear of their discourse, how skirts will not only be knee length, but the dreadful bustles will again be worn. But Lord, though I did say nothing at the time, I am determined as I never was in anything before that my wife shall not disgrace me by wearing such clothes.

C. I. System Effects Considerable Saving

The value of the criminal identification system introduced some time ago by Inspector General Hutchings has on many occasions saved considerable expense in securing the records of culprits who come before the local courts. On one occasion it cost the dept. $600 to secure a prisoner's record and on another the expense amounted to about $300. Under the finger print system now in operation the above records might have been obtained for a few cents. Recently it was desired to obtain information of a man now serving a term in the penitentiary. For the cost of postage this was obtained from the Criminal Identification Bureau at Washington. The prisoner in question had no record here but it was learned that he had been convicted at Atlanta for a breach of the Drug Act for which he served a three year term. Many instances of the value of the system could be given and the Inspector General is to be congratulated on having introduced it.

Drowning Fatality Feared

It is feared that John Cox, aged 77 and residing with a man named Harvey on Pleasant Street has been drowned in Petty Harbor Long Pond. Mr. Cox left home at 9 o'clock Friday morning to spend a day trouting at Petty Harbor Long Pond. As he did not return at 8 p.m. Mr. Harvey set out for Petty Harbor accompanied by two companions. Reaching Long Pond they discovered a trout basket, lines, and other fishing gear lying on the ice. Not seeing any sign of the man, they went over the pond and at the western end discovered a large hole, apparently made by some one who had fallen through the ice and struggled to get out. The water at this place was from 12 to 15 feet deep but no sign of the body could be seen and the searchers returned to town and reported the matter to the police. Constables Myers and Morgan, taking the necessary precautions, were sent out early this morning to make a search, but up to 2 p.m. they had not found any trace of the missing man.

As a result Chevrolet has become the world's largest producer of automobiles with standard three-speed transmission. Now this Chevrolet quality has been greatly increased. The new Chevrolet embodies quality features such as you would expect to find only on cars of much higher price.

New chassis—with a larger, stronger frame; new semi-elliptic chrome vanadium steel springs; new and stronger front axle; completely new rear axle of finest construction—bush type with one-piece, pressed steel housing and greatly strengthened gears; improved fully enclosed, dry-plate disc clutch which requires no lubrication; extra heavy brake bands on big 11-inch brake drums; a new and easier steering mechanism and many improvements on the famous Chevrolet motor.

New bodies—of even greater beauty
