A Scare for Foreigners.

It is not surprising that Mr. Chamberlain's programme is "viewed with alarm" in foreign countries. His speeches caused Germany to drop the idea of retaliating on Canada for the surtax. She does not care to strike at this country over Great Britain's shoulder, knowing that reprisals would greatly strengthen Mr. Chamberlain's hand. The United States is even more dependent than Germany on British trade and American journals sound a note of warning. The New York Post, a great authority, strongly advises that a reciprocity treaty be negotiated with Canada as the best means of heading off Chamberlain's scheme. The exports of the United States to Great Britain in 1902 were $523,773,297; to Canada, $111,153,035; to British Australasia, $28,101,784, and to British South Africa, $31,685,559. The British Empire thus takes considerably over half the exports of the United States. Great Britain is also the best customer of Germany, of France, of Holland and of Belgium. The United States and the countries of Europe have been accustomed to arrange their tariffs without taking Great Britain into account. The latter voluntarily disarmed herself in adopting free trade. It made herself, in Mr. Balfour's words, a passive target for her protectionist rivals. There can be no doubt that she has flourished wonderfully under this policy, but the fact remains that she has no weapon with which to compel other countries to treat her fairly. The free trader argues that Great Britain, by taxing imports, would injure herself as well as her competitors. But what if the import tax should be a lever to force other countries to widen their doors to British exports? The economic conditions of Great Britain do not justify a tariff for protective purposes, but a tariff of reprisals, which would ease the market for British products, would be a different thing. A tariff war that would punish the protectionist countries and oblige them to modify their tariffs, could even be defended on free trade grounds. A mere threat of this kind by Mr. Chamberlain was sufficient to make Germany abandon its intention of further penalizing Canadian exports. The issue has raised is being held in terror over every country outside the British Empire. Foreigners will make concessions rather than be placed at a disadvantage in the greatest free market in the world. Even if imperial preferential trade cannot be achieved, the prominence given the question may be of great advantage to the mother country in bringing her rivals to time.

Cumulative Voting.

The experiment in cumulative voting in Toronto next January will be the first of the kind in Canada, but it has been operative in school board elections in England for over thirty years. It was adopted at the passing of the elementary school board act, the clause reading: "Every voter shall be entitled to a number of votes equal to the members of the school board to be elected, and may give all such votes to one candidate or distribute them among the candidates as he sees fit." What is known as the Hare-Stephens system of proportional representation has many advocates in this Province, who have frequently petitioned the Legislature, without success, to allow it to be tried by municipalities. Cumulative voting is an approach to this system, though it falls far short of it. Under proportional representation each candidate is required to poll a certain quota of votes, which is usually arrived at by taking the total number of voters and dividing it by the number of candidates to be elected. For instance, if there were 4,000 voters and five men to be elected, a candidate, to be successful, would require to have 800 votes. If a candidate polled more than this, his surplus of votes over the 800 would be distributed among those who failed to poll the required number, in the order in which they stood in the poll. The voter could indicate his second, third, fourth or fifth choice. The complicated nature of this system is a bar to its practical operation. Cumulative voting is much simpler, and provides, though less effectively, for minority representation, or rather a representation of interests. A minority group, or a number of persons who have a common interest, by giving him all their votes—"plumping" for him. The majority would not, as at present, be able to elect all its nominees, but each class would secure at least one representative. The principle has much to recommend it and the manner in which it works out in Toronto will be useful as a guide to other municipalities.

No Trace of the Money.

The report of the royal commission on the Gamey-Stratton charges is daily expected, and is being awaited with keen interest. The commission cannot, on the evidence presented, find the charges proven, and it is possible that the Legislature may have to expel the member for Manitoulin. The opinions which the learned judges may express will be entitled to very great respect in the country, but the public is disappointed, because the mystery of the money remains unsolved. The Opposition's latest theory was that it came from the proceeds of the sale of "Cap" Sullivan's timber limit, but this has been exploded before the public accounts committee of the Legislature. It appears that "Cap" Sullivan in collusion with T. C. Taylor, an accountant of the Crown Lands Department, purchased a timber limit for $250 and afterwards sold it to the Charltons of Tonawanda for about $9,000. A thorough examination of Sullivan's accounts, which were produced by his banker, satisfied the committee that none of these funds could be connected with the alleged bribe-money which Gamey had in his possession in September. The checks cashed in September were on the Dominion Bank, whereas Gamey's money was in Ontario Bank notes of $100 denomination. Taylor, who had put up the $250 purchase money, and was given half the profits of the deal by Sullivan, has been dismissed by the Crown Lands Commissioner. Some political capital is being made out of the fact that the timber limit was sold by the Crown Lands Department at so low a figure. The Commissioner had to rely upon the report of his expert officials, and there is no suggestion of anything irregular in the transaction, so far as he is concerned. Mr. Thomas Charlton says it has cost him $25,000 to take out the timber, but he could not estimate what his profits, if any, were, as he did not sell the logs, but the lumber. It should be borne in mind that the Government collects dues on the timber cut on crown lands, and on this particular limit received over $2,000 from the Charltons. The matter is still before the public accounts committee where the Government is facilitating a complete investigation.

Vice-Versa.

[Punch.]
At a debate held at a certain mixed club, one of the feminine orators declared that the position of woman would never be satisfactory until she was accorded the right of making proposals of marriage.—The World.
Daphne, who in years gone by sighted my addresses, Now with a regal air, Hears me with a scornful smile, And says: "You are a man!"
Now with late repentance fired, Finding last year tarry, Daphne, by your turn, Urges me to marry.
Though the task was hard to learn When I had to lose you, Turned by your turn, Daphne, to refuse you.

The Man Who Bows On You.

[The Interior.]
Your most delightful acquaintance is the man who bows on you. You know people in plenty who do not gain in your appreciation; every time you meet them they seem more shallow and more petty than before. Indeed, there are times when your discoveries of inner character within the circle of your associations run so much to the detriment of politeness that you feel in danger of being compelled to discount all human nature as a deceiving mask. But the man who bows on you saves you from cynicism. Every day you are finding in him some factor of meanness which you had not suspected. Every day he proves in a new test how he has resources of strength upon which you have not counted in your estimate of him.

The New Regime.

[Judge.]
Major Dix—Do you think it's going to rain tomorrow, Uncle Isham?
Uncle Isham—I dunno, honey. It's mighty hard ter prognosticate. When da Lawd had charge ob de weathah, I could tell sumthin' about it; but sence dis yere weathah bureau dun been runnin' it, Uncle Isham's had ter gib it up.
As Far As She'd Go.
[New York Weekly.]
Mr. Oldbeau—I admit that there is—some difference in our ages, but think of the advantages of such a youthful alliance.
Miss Youngthing—It cannot be, Mr. Oldbeau, but I will always be a granddaughter to you.

Breaking the Ice.

[Washington Star.]
We had some offish neighbors once that moved in, down the street, and we reckoned they was 'bout the proudest folks we'd ever known. An' when we used 'em now an' then we held our heads up high. To us, sure, they couldn't snub us if they was to try. It really made me nervous, so I jes' braced up one day. An' thought I'd go ahead an' show my manners, anyway. One Sunday, 'stid o' turnin' round an' gazin' at the view, I looked at them an' says, "Hello!" An' they says, "Howdy do!"
It wa'n't the cold an' formal greetin' that you've sometimes heard. They smiled an' said it hearty, like they meant it, every word. It's solemn reflect on what we miss along life's way. By not jes' bein' natural an' good-humored day by day. There's lots o' folks who fling the simple joys of life aside. Because they dread the shadow of their own unconscious pride. And nine times out o' ten you'll find the rule works right an' true—dis jes' tell the world "Hello!" an' it's answer "Howdy do!"

A Happy Combination.

[New York World.]
On the order books of the Women's Exchange in this city, it appears, is a worker known as "the cheering-up lady." She is kept busy all the time. It is her function to visit lonely homes, to play cards with venerable widows or spinners, to read, talk and "look pleasant." Here should be a laborer never failing to be worth more than her hire. Professional mourners no longer know, nor wish to know, of professional cheerers-up it should not be possible to know too many. We bespeak serious rivalry for the old lady who looks pleasant. Here is the happiest combination of business and philanthropy. She exhibits an idea worthy of indefinite extension through an infinite variety of clients. There is no culture more important or pressing than that of the smile which means good cheer.

Sympathy.

[Punch.]
Missionary (who is really a "good plucked 'un," through he doesn't look it)—Our station was so remote that for a whole year my wife never saw a white face but my own!
Sympathetic Young Woman—Or, poor thing!

She Agreed With Him.

[San Francisco Wasp.]
"The fools are not all dead yet," said the angry husband.
"I'm glad of it, dear," calmly replied the other half of the combination. "I never did look well in black."

All But the Cup.

[Washington Star.]
Sir Thomas Lipton can have anything he desires in this country, except the America's cup.

Letter Perfect.

[Houston Post.]
"Now," said the professor, "suppose you had tried everything which your knowledge of medicine suggested, what would then be your opinion?"
"Supposing the patient continued to fail?"
"Certainly."
"After having presented and collected my bill I would advise the patient to take a trip to Europe."
"But suppose you did not succeed in collecting your bill upon its presentation?"
"Then I would stay right with him, and depend upon the gratitude of his heirs."

Louis Couldn't Keep It.

[New York Tribune.]
York House, Twickenham, so long the home of the exiled New Orleans family, is to be sold. A number of aristocrats are related to the family. Louis Philippe once had a witty conversation with the landlord of the Crown hotel, hard by York House. The exiled king of the landlords, whom he met in the grounds, "I keep the Crown," replied the other, "I answered Louis Philippe, 'that's more than I could do.'"

A True Philosopher.

[Washington Star.]
"I thought you were going to sell that mule?"
"I don't change my mind since I done read de papers. Ev'ry time I looks at him I gits thankful 'cause I knows dat even if he do git disgraced, he 'ris' gwine ter 'spole like he might of be wos an automobile."

PEASANTS STORM BARON'S CASTLE

Scenes in Croatia That Resemble the Incidents of the French Revolution.

Buda-Pesth, June 4. — Mail news from Croatia, where the peasants are in a state of revolt, is beginning to read like a page from the French Revolution. Here is a sample story, the storming of the baronial castle of Ogledo.
On a recent Sunday the baron and his family were about to sit down to dinner, when they discovered the discovery of a mob of about a thousand peasants was approaching. The castle had no sooner been barraged with stones than a hundred excited men surrounded it on all sides and demanded entrance. "We want to get the baron," they cried. "He is hiding in the palace." The baron went out on the balcony to plead with the mob, offering to allow the peasants to enter and search the house, but a hailstorm of bricks and stones drove him away. The peasants then entered the rear door was broken into and the peasants streamed in. They went from room to room, from the kitchen to the dining hall, and finally to the baron's study. The baron remained in the hands of the peasants for two hours, until every oil of food and drink was disposed of. Finally the mob demanded that the baron deliver up his Hungarian flag, and when he refused to do so, the mob set fire to the castle and the baron fled. Before departing the mob conducted the baron to the house chapel and made him swear on the crucifix that he would never again vote in favor of the Hungarian Government. He was then released, but never gave shelter to the obnoxious banus, and would not sue for damages. He had to make out papers among men of business.

Eat and Run.

There isn't a man who would be seen running through the street munching a piece of pie. Why not? Because it would mean dyspepsia and stomach trouble? Not at all; but because it wouldn't be a matter of fact. Many a business man snatches a lunch in such a hurry that he might as well take it on the run. That is one reason for the prevailing "stomach trouble" among men of business.

There is a certain remedy for diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The worst cases of dyspepsia and catarrh of the stomach have been cured by this medicine. It cures where all other means have failed to cure.
"I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carey, Esq., of Taylorstown, London, Co., Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat and sleep well now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried it before I wrote to you. There was a gentleman told me about your medicine and how it had cured his wife. I bought a bottle of it. I thought I'd try it. I don't know how it did me, but it has been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness. They stimulate the sluggish liver, and cleanse the system of impurities. They should always be used with "Golden Medical Discovery." They are a laxative.

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me. Six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound. I have recommended it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—Mrs. B. A. BLANCHARD, 422 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn. — $5000 full copy of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When women are troubled with menstrual irregularities, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, they should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. to that effect, sign them before a notary and attach the legal stamp. Thereupon the baron was forced to march at the head of the crowd to the village of Kainik, carrying a Croatian flag aloft. At Kainik the mob sacked the house of the burgomaster and killed him, the baron looking on. Similar disturbances are going on all over Croatia, owing to the Government's attempt to denationalize the Croats, take away their ancient liberties and supplant class government.

FAVOR BRITAIN'S PLAN

The Powers Like Her Scheme for China's Indemnity.
Melbourne, Victoria, June 4.—Speaking before the Federal House of Representatives, Mr. C. C. Kingston, Minister for Trade and Customs, said he felt the Commonwealth might give preference to Great Britain without an invidious loss of revenue by maintaining the existing duties levied on British products, and raising them against foreigners. It was the Commonwealth's duty to support the Imperial Government in every way. The minister did not doubt but that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's policy would appeal to the great heart of the British people.

FAVORS NEW POLICY

Australia Is Urged to Support Imperial Government.
London, June 4. — The Times' correspondent at Peking notes a greater disposition on the part of the foreign ministers to view with favor Great Britain's proposal that China pay her indemnity on a silver basis for nine years and in gold thereafter leaving the question of whether China shall ultimately pay the difference. He says that even if the United States accepts payment of her indemnity in silver, it should be remembered that the $22,000,000 that the United States claimed exceeded her loss and leaves a wide margin in her favor, though not so large as in the case of some European powers.

A SEVERE CASE OF LUMBAGO

Mr. James A. Searls, Norwich, Ont., Quickly and Permanently Cured by Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets.

Know what lumbago is? Pain catches you right in the small of the back, and you are over or rising up excruciating agony. Wrong kidney action is the cause of the trouble, and if you let Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets set the kidneys working right, you'll be quickly and permanently cured.

Mr. James A. Searls, the well and favorably known boot and shoe merchant of Norwich, Ont., made this statement: "During a recent sharp attack of lumbago, in which the pain was extremely severe, I took a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets. They took the pain out of my back so quickly, and so far as I can see made a cure so permanent, that I consider them unequalled for that most prevalent and painful affliction. I am only too pleased to recommend them to other people who may be suffering as I was."
Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Company, Toronto, Ont.

The vast bulk of the trade of the United Kingdom is certainly noteworthy. For 150 years down to the present time it has been practically a continued growth. In 1902 the total of the exports and imports touched $4,380,000,000, the highest figure ever reached. BY NATURE'S FORETHOUGHT THERE ARE CURES. Medical experiments have shown conclusively that there are medicinal virtues in even ordinary plants growing up around us, which give them the power to cure disease. It is held by some that Nature provides a cure for every disease which neglect and ignorance have visited upon man. Now, however, this may be, it is well known that the "Golden Medical Discovery" distilled from roots and herbs, is a sovereign remedy in curing all disorders of the digestion.

COLONIAL AID IS NECESSARY

Mr. Chamberlain Must Have Colonial Co-Operation.
GERMANY NOW BACKS DOWN

Is Undoubtedly Owing to the Colonial Secretary's New Policy Proposals.

London, June 4. — Mr. Chamberlain's proposals have already accomplished first, the withdrawal of the proposed German reprisal for the Canadian surtax, and second, American consideration of reciprocity with Canada. Mr. Chamberlain says to an inquirer that colonial co-operation is necessary to the success of his scheme and his two points are considered his justification.
The Times today publishes a special article upon the rush to the Northwest, foreshadowing Winnipeg's destiny as the greatest city in Canada, and urging the Government to do its best for young Englishmen, as well as the need for women.
The St. James' Gazette, commenting upon this article, asks: "Is this great Northwest market of the future to go to the United States? If not, Great Britain must show signs of willingness to reciprocate Canada's 33 per cent preference."
The St. James' Gazette adds: "Germany has decided on the policy of 'Bretin'." The belated attempt of the German eagle to coo is the surest sign that the policy of the Government is regarded abroad as likely to strengthen the empire to an undesired extent.
The Westminster Gazette calls upon the Duke of Devonshire, Mr. C. T. Ritchie and other influential members of the cabinet, hitherto labeled as free traders, to declare, definitely whether they are Chamberlainians.
The German Nord Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung issues a semi-official statement, denying that the German Government ever proposed to interfere with the internal relations of Great Britain and her colonies. It merely gave effect to the existing tariff law. Germany must show signs of willingness to reciprocate Canada's 33 per cent preference.
The Berlin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that prominent members of two German political parties tell him that Germany's semi-official statement foreshadowing the abandonment of further retaliatory measures against Canada, whose trade with Germany will be effectively cut off by the tariff. The German Agrarian politicians hope that the United States will offer reciprocity to Canada, thus drawing the colony from England, whereupon Mr. Chamberlain's whole system will fall to pieces.

THE CO-OPERATORS' PROTEST.
The Standard, the Ministerial organ, laughs at the resolution of the Co-operators Congress at Doncaster, in opposition to Mr. Chamberlain's imperial Zollverein proposals and says it is based upon the prepossession notion that Mr. Chamberlain's exclusive purpose was to bring the working classes of England to the most lamentable extremes of destitution. The Standard also finds amusement in the solemn air of usefulness concern with which French and German publicists warn Great Britain of the terrible evils awaiting her if she leaves paths which have hitherto been so convenient for French and German manufacturers.

London, June 4. — (Special). — In these days when the dreaded Bright's Disease seems to be selecting its victims at will, the report of an authenticated cure is received with relief by all classes of the community. And such a report comes from Andrew McCormick, of 243 Spadina avenue, this city. That Mr. McCormick is well known and highly respected is evidenced by the fact that he has held high offices in several fraternal societies, and was for several years president of the Bricklayers' Union. Interviewed regarding the cure, Mr. McCormick says: "I suffered with an attack of Bright's Disease, and naturally was much troubled concerning it. I heard of the wonderful cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills and concluded to try them. The result was so satisfactory that it gives me pleasure to recommend them."

Make and keep the Kidneys sound by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and there can be no Bright's Disease.
