ROOSEVELT'S DAY AT CHICAGO A TRIUMPH FOR BULL MOOSE; CHEERED BY FIFTEEN THO

BRASS BANDS, SONGS AND COW-BELLS MAKE PANDEMONIUM OF COLISEUM

In Speech Declares Both Republican and Democratic Parties Are Run by the Bosses and That Only the Progessives Can Deliver the People.

[Special Correspondence to The Advertiser by H. F. Gadsby.]

Chicago, Aug. 6 .- (Coliseum Building)-This is Teddy's Day. Teddy is the hero. Teddy, who is the party, the platform and the candidate, is speaking to the faithful in the National Progressive Convention assembled. Chairman Beveridge announces that the hour has struck and he produces the man. A great roar of joy goes up which lasts an hour. Despised and rejected by wicked steam-roller men he may be, but here the Bull Moose is among his own. The Bull Moose and his bull mice.

A GREAT BULL-DOZER.

T. R. was always a great bull-dozer. The Bull Moose and Teddy bearhow can a man be a bull and a bear at the same time. Only heaven and Theodore know. Big Chief Bull Moose has many totems. Over his head, put there by a bright thinker from Pennsylvania, is a rougu-rider hat in an iron ring, a suspended halo, a crown on a string. So far nobody seems to have thought of a gargantuan set of upper teeth as a stage property.

THE BATTLE FLAG. Bull Moose looks at the bull moose head over the main door. The moose head wears a red bandanna. Bull Moose's battle flag. Bull Moose smiles for this is fame. His face has appeared on the gilded corsets of millions of cigars; thousands of bables and political clubs have been named after him, but all this is nothing. The pinnacle of glory is to be an emblem. The Bull Moose takes his big place in history beside the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey.

A NOBLE ANIMAL

Much has been said against the bull moose. He has been called the Israelite of the wilderness. He has an underlip that would trip a goat. He has been accused of having a big head, no spunk and a crooked tail, but now that he is an emblem he is all right. He is a noble animal. He classes up with the British lion and the American eagle, not to mention Adam Zad, the she was arrested by Detectives Wilson and Black. Russian hear, the Chinese dragon and other distinguished members of the international menagerie.

LIKES LOTS OF NOISE.

Bull Moose has many savage aids to noise. Three bands play, two brass and one fife and drum. The brass bands play: "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "Hot Time in the Old Town," and "Everybody's Doing It." What SAM HUGHES FEARS they are playing is the truth except the last number. It should be body's Overdoing It." The fife and drum band does not play Twelfth of July tunes, although there might be a reason for it if they did. They play some- Tells Vancouver Conservatives He thing just as good, something wild and stirring.

This shrill, squeaking music is the kind the Bull Moose likes best. It gets into his blood. It gets into his bones. He beats time to it. The snare-drum rattles like a musketry salute, the bass throg like an Indian war dance. Have Hughes, before the Conservative Club you ever heard the hullabaloo in front of a sideshow. Well, it sounds like last night, spoke of military training that. It keeps the crowd coming. Silence might be awkward when you are out to touch the long-distance demonstration record of one hour and fifteen probable and that a war with Ger- shore said, had been in delicate health for some time. minutes made by Woodrow Wilson at the Baltimore convention. The fife many is imminent. and drum band fills in the spaces with thunder and lightning. It is great medicine. The Bull Moose licks it up.

TWISTED HYMNS.

It was a peaceful if noisy meeting until the Bull Moose entered at ten minutes to 1, forty minutes late, to put an edge on its eagerness. It was the Bull Moose gave it this martial turn. Before that it had been piously happy, It had been singing Roosevelt to the tune of "My Maryland," and "Follow, Follow, I Will Follow Roosevelt, Anywhere, Everywhere." Well, if you have not forgotten your Sunday school days you will remember the rest and have some idea how much his own people think of the Bull Moose. So far were they gone in this mood of worship that it shaped up more like a camp meeting where the glory was working than a political convention. But the Bull Moose changed all that. Perhaps it was better he did. It is a long time now since any statesman was quite good enough to have hymns twisted his way. FIFTEEN THOUSAND THERE.

sunny day. Not an empty seat. The flashlight photograph will look well in print. It will be evidence. This is a great mass moose meeting of the common people assembled to do homage to their idol. The boxes are not crowded with distinguished guests with money. They are filled with ordinary citizens whose votes are just as good and more contagious. Is it any wonder the Bull Moose beams? Meanwhile the demonstration wags merrily on. It is organized uplift with a vengeance. That is to say every time the riot threatens to sag, somebody or something lifts it up.

COW-BELLS AND RAH-RAHS.

A delegate gives the moose call-it sounds like a cow caught in a gate. A messenger boy rings a cow-bell. A young man blows a horn. A stout woman in the gallery, stout where the swan is stout, waves a "Votes for Women" flag. A pretty girl who has taken first-class honors in college yells, rah-rahs her head off. A youth in a red tie and blue shirt gives a life-like imitation of St. Vitus dance. A r-o-o-o-olling baritone starts a song in the choir loft. An octette sneaks in a little harmony between cheers. Secretary Davis reads a "Wish I were with you" telegram from Colonel Nelson, of the Kansas City Star. Beveridge's phrase, "Pass Prosperity Around," passes around on a bill-

SIXTY MINUTES OF CHEERING.

The lady delegates shake hands with Col. Roosevelt. One state parades, then another. An inspired person throws a Teddy hat into the crowd. The blamed thing is in the ring again. The Bull Moose takes a hand in the game. When it comes to lifting a demonstration up Teddy is some strong. He blows his nose. (Loud cheers). He mops his brow. (Louder cheers). He smiles. (Prolonged cheers). He waves his bandanna. (Tremendous cheers). Bandama throats will be sore tonight. Bandanna will be worn mostly around the neck instead of goose oil and red flannel. The colonel is a good soldier. He stands up to it. He can take all they can give him. He is a hog for that soft of punishment. But an end must come to everything. It is now sixty minutes since the cheering began, and the people are tired out and sitting down. Sixty minutes is proof enough.

THE BULL MOOSE BELLOWS.

Chairman Beveridge's gavel raps sharply three times, and this time the vaps are obeyed. The Bull Moose gets his hearing.

The Bull Moose is stout and fits his frock coat tightly. As usual his forelock is mussed up. He has a bullet head and an underhung jaw. His figure is blocky and suggests the square. He has a face like a super Dreadnought. Continued on Page Two,

High-Handed Treatment of a Young Lady Who Was on Visit to Sweetheart.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Detroit, Aug. 7 .- Frances Sproud, bookkeeper, 21 years old, is under arrest at the central police station pending an investigation for violation of th immigration laws. Miss Sproud left her home last Saturday and met her sweetheart, a Bay Clty, Mich., man, in Windsor. The couple expected to get married but Miss Sproud says as the marriage license offices were closed and no license could be obtained, she came to Detroit with her sweetheart and accompanied him to his home in Bay City. They re-turned to Detroit Monday night, but for some reason have not as yet been mar-ried. Miss Sproud declares she would not be married on American soil after

Her sweetheart begged for an hour's grace, saying he would wed the young girl in that time. The police did not grant his request, and the young girl is held pending a report from Washington regarding her deportation.
