In several instances the tow lines The Canadian Tournament Continuedhastily thrown out proved too light to stand the strain and just as the yachts were all cona good start snap would go the tow line and their hopes vanished. However a sufficient to make number of boats got a fair start to make

most of the races interesting. The wind freshened a little at about 10 o'clock and as the gun fired for the first-class. the Oriole, which had been towed, and the Vreda, which had sailed out, crossed the line almost together. The course to the buoy at Mimico was a long and short leg and the cutter succeeded in showing the schooner the way, rounding the mark about half a minute in the lead. The course to the lake buoy gave the Oriole a better overhauled the Vreda and rounded first. This order was maintain through the rest of the race, and when the gun fired the Vreda was more than five minutes astern of the leader. She won the race, however, easily on time allowance.

In the 46-foot class the entries were Yama White Wings, Verye (Hamilton), Condor, Aggie. The start was made at 10.15, the Aggie. The start was made at 10.10.

visitors are so busy with their special and important duties that they might not notice this feature of Toronto, and may not object to our referring to it.
