She was the widow of one of the famous twins.

Row Chang and Eng Wood—Their Early Domestic Happiness Succeeded by Lasting Discontent—Compact Which Restored Peace—Story of the Life of the Twins.

The recent death of Mrs. S. Eng Bunker, widow of one of the world-famous Siamese twins, recalls to mind much of the domestic history of these gentlemen.

Chang and Eng were born in 1811, in the island of Siam, a humble paragon, and at an early age lost their father. As soon as they were old enough to be taken to the light of day, they were separated.

Assessed a Fortune. Leaving the east shortly after Mr. Bunker for several years, the twins were in every part of the known world, treating them with great kindness and making money.

Farmer Yates was fond of the chase, living in good, old-fashioned style, with plenty of negroes and dogs, and a large family.

Some of the children were nearly grown when one day from some cause or other a quartal ensued, in which the mothers took much of spirit and courage.

Against their Principles and Obligations. Editor World: I was surprised and pained on reading a letter in Wednesday's issue.

Unfair Taxation. Editor World: There is no analogy between the two tax papers of property on Sherburne-street referred to by Mr. A. McParson.

Why He Stayed in Bed. Allusion has been made to the cheerful disposition of the twins. They were lively and very fond of a joke.
