

Curdzon and Hardy, by the assistance of Dr. Merden escaped from the country, thus avoiding the clutches of the law. When Reddy's adventure was made known, he became the hero of Marklyne, and from that day was received into the Morton family as an adopted son.

HANS NIX, '98.

"If I am traduced by tongues which neither know
My faculties nor person, yet will be
The chronicles of my doing, let me say,
'Tis but the fate of place, and the rough brake
That virtue must go through. We must not stint
Our necessary actions, in the fear
To cope malicious censurers ; which ever
As ravenous fishes, do a vessel follow
That is new-trimmed, but benefit no further
Than vainly longing. What we oft do best,
By sick interpreters, once weak ones, is
Not ours, or not allowed ; what worst, as oft,
Hitting a grosser quality, is cried up
For our best act. If we shall stand still,
In fear our motion will be mocked, or carped at
We should take root here where we sit, or sit
State statues only."—King Henry VIII.
