PRAYER AND ITS REMARKABLE ANSWERS:

By Wm. W. Patton, D.D., of Chicago:

Burrage & Magurn, Toronto. Price $1.50.

Everything that comes from the pen of Dr. Patton is instructive, and this book is no exception. The mechanical execution is highly creditable to the Canadian press. We make the following extract:—

"George Muller and the Bristol Orphan Houses. The wonderful story of Muller, in his connection with the Bristol Orphan Houses, is before the world. In his last annual report, we find Mr. Muller saying: "What cannot God do in answer to believing, expecting prayer? I have walked, by God's grace, in this happy road for forty-five years and six months, out of the forty-nine years and eight months during which I have been a believer; and on these principles,—"Trust in the living God and prayer," this institution has been carried on for forty-one years, and without applying to any one I have received, simply in answer to believing prayer, the sum of £665,000 ($3,325,000)." The results from the use of this money he gives as follows: 46,400 persons taught in schools wholly sustained, besides tens of thousands in other schools assisted; 96,000 Bibles, above 247,000 Testaments, and 180,000 smaller portions of the Scriptures, circulated; above 53,500,000 tracts and books, in various languages, distributed; many missionaries, of late years over 170 annually, assisted; 4,677 orphans cared for; and five large houses built, at a cost of $575,000, able to accommodate 2,050 orphans.

THE PRESBYTERIAN QUARTERLY AND PRINCETON REVIEW for July, is an exceedingly good number, and readable, even these dog-days. "The formation of our Standards," by Dr. Bittinger, is not only opportune, it is really a valuable article, founded on "The Minutes of the Sessions of the Westminster Assembly of Divines," recently re-published, and, by the way, a most interesting volume. The Assembly of Divines appears from accurate calculations to have been engaged in their great work, which was intended to give peace and security to three kirks and kingdoms, for the long period of five years, six months, and twenty-two days. It numbered from first to last about one hundred and seventy-five members, many of whom it must be admitted were notoriously irregular in their attendance. "Scotland's predominance," says the writer, "lies on the surface of these minutes."

Rutherford, Gillespie, and Alexander Henderson, were the representative men of the Northern kingdom, if not the ruling spirits of the Assembly, and the last named, without doubt, the guiding genius of the Scottish Communion. Although we have here only a glance at the details, we are enabled to form some estimate of the labours of this body of noble, learned, courageous, and God-fearing men who, subject to differences, and, at times, to sad divisions among themselves, toiled on incessantly under grave disabilities. "Their work was a grand one in its aim and result, and yet was, in some sense, a failure. It was done on English soil, and by English hands, and yet was not an English product: nor was it ever accepted by the English people." But for all that, the Confession of Faith, and the Larger and Shorter Catechisms exert a more powerful influence in the direction of Christian teaching and belief than perhaps any other Protestant Symbol. There are other first-rate articles in the Review, such as "Calvinism and American Independence," by Mr. Balch; "Christian Apologetics," by Henry B. Smith; "The Decay of the Turkish Empire"—well worth a perusal at this particular time, and "The Philosophical Method in the Study and Teaching of English," by Professor Hunt, of Princeton. Canadians may procure this Review through Rev. Andrew Kennedy, London. Price $2.35 per annum.
