'MIDST THE MORTAR BOARDS.

Kerr McMillan and his blue spex mean business in May.

Let us have a Literary Society election regardless of expense or dry goods.

A number of Varsity men figured prominently in the Y. M. C. A. assault-at-arms on Friday night.

Our editorial on Athletics was up in type before the report of the Gymnasium Committee was received.

A mistake appeared in our last issue. Mr. J. S. Witton, B.A., is President of the Sandpaper Club.

Part of the third year students in Moderns were cordially entertained by Mrs. Squair on Friday night last.

W. Parks, assistant to Dr. Pike, met with a severe and painful accident last week while working with the electric battery.

"Old Roman" protests against having his identity known unless he is granted a body-guard at the expense of the Directorate.

Miss C. E. Jeffrey, '93, is absent from College owing to the death of a sister on Tuesday last. Miss Jeffrey has the heartfelt sympathy of her many friends.

Mr. H. W. Brown, ex-President of the Modern Language Club, has completely recovered from his late very severe illness, and intends taking a trip to Germany shortly.

We are deeply indebted to the critic of the first year for his kind and justified criticism of the men designated by "Old Roman" as the "incompetents" who run this paper.

The genial students who accepted Mr. Keene's invitation around to Rossin's taverns are to receive photographs of the great Thespian. So at least it is currently reported.

We are glad to hear of the complete recovery of Jack McCrae, '92, who had a light attack of diphtheria lately. He resumed his duties as lecturer in the Ontario Agricultural College yesterday.

One of the lady students informed a sophomore member of the staff, that unquestionably there would be co-education as long as the University lasts, unless the men all leave. Her opinion is probably correct.

A social meeting of the class of '95 was held in Y.M.C.A. Hall, on Saturday evening. This being the last meeting which it is the intention of the class to hold this session, there was a large attendance. A short programme was rendered, which appeared to be much appreciated.

F. B. R. Hellem, '93, is happy in the possession of an original Henricus Stephanus edition of Herodotus. The ponderous tome was published in 1608, and has stood its 300 years of wear and tear without any considerable damage.

At the Natural Science Association meeting, on Tuesday, Mr. Preston read a carefully prepared paper on "The Effects of Electrical Stimulation on the Spinal Ganglia," and Dr. Pike gave a description of the new Chemical Laboratory.

In the course of some of our recent Natural Science researches we found an old Latin inscription. On analyzing it à la Chapman, we found: "Hic Jacet Camillus, civis Romanus, homo et vetus semul et perditissimus, asinus asinorum, quod muliebres odiit. Requiescat in inferno."

Miss Edith Curzon, B.A., of the School of Practical Science, who spent three weeks of February at Ottawa, undergoing her examination, is now a legally qualified public analyst. She is the first woman in Canada to obtain this qualification, and deserves great credit for her success.

The election of officers of Knox College Literary and Theological Society took place last Tuesday. Following is the result: H. R. Horne, B.A., President; Jas. Wilson, B.A., Vice-President; John R. Sinclair, B.A., Critic; Geo. A. Wilson, B.A., Rec. Sec.; Jas. A. Mustard, B.A., Cor. Sec.; A. Budge, Sec. of Com.; T. Menzies, J. R. Wilson, T. Sinclair, Councillors

THE CLASS OF '92.—The Class of '92 met in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday afternoon. This is perhaps the last meeting as undergraduates and was fairly attended. The President, on behalf of the Class-Book Committee, reported that the work of editing was about completed and that the book would be sold to subscribers only. A deposit of 50 cents will be required at the time of subscribing and the balance on receipt. It is expected that the cost will be about $1.00, and that the book will be delivered at the Graduating Dinner. Students wishing a copy will kindly interview the Treasurer, Mr. J. Vining. Mr. J. A. McLean was chosen to deliver the valedictory at the Graduating Dinner. The Constitution of the Society was then amended in view of the changed circumstances of future years. The sixteen offices existing at present were reduced to eight, viz.: President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, two Historians, Orator, Poet and Diner-Out. After the business was disposed of the literary programme was taken up. The Prophet, Mr. E. B. Merrill, favored the class with a prophecy dealing with some scientific and social questions from a speculative standpoint, which was well received. Mr. F. C. Brown, as Wit, read an amusing essay on a subject dear to the heart of every male undergraduate. Mr. Perrin acted as Critic

DI-VARSITIES.

I loved a freshette, young and fair;
I once believed her through;
But printed lists alas! have shown
They pluck the freshettes too.

Van Quizz: Just look at that fellow's face. Surely that's not a natural growth of whiskers. Van Phizz: Why no. That poor fellow got entangled in the street railway company's sweeper. He lost his chin and brought out the cylinder.

Miss Oppa Retta: Another man next door is dead. Mr. Medi Koo: Well, now, Oppa, you should stop singing till he's buried. Miss Oppa Retta: Why? Mr. Medi Koo: Because even if you have no regard for men's lives, you should at least have a little respect for the dead.
