

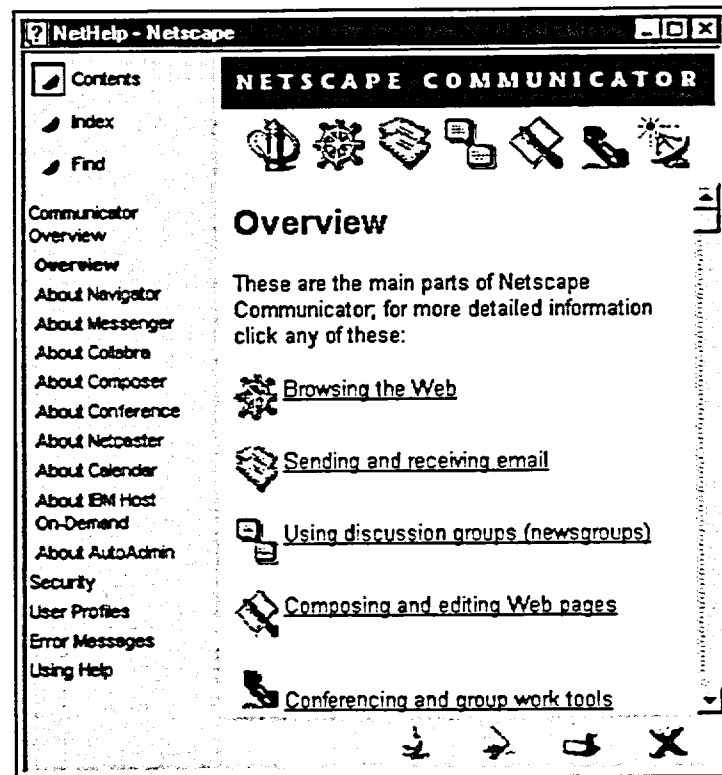

Figure 2-7: The NetHelp Window

The left pane of the NetHelp window contains an outline of the material presented in the right pane of the window. When you choose a topic from the outline pane, the text in the right pane displays information for the topic, and the outline changes to a detailed outline for the topic.

If you click the Index button in the left pane, the Look for text box appears. Type a word here (there is no need to press ENTER) and NetHelp will search its index and then display in the left pane all entries containing the word you typed. Click any of the index entries to view the related help links.

Similarly, when you click the Find button, a dialog box appears. Type a word in the text box and choose Find Next. NetHelp will search all of the help information in the right pane, stopping at each occurrence of your search word.