

Israel and Canada: 2010 and Beyond

The past 60 years mark just the beginning of Canada and Israel's story as partners. The collaborative multi-dimensional relationship is founded on shared values and close political, economic, social, cultural and academic ties. Dynamic groups of Canadian-Israelis contribute to both societies, demonstrating a lasting commitment to a mutually beneficial relationship. Canada and Israel will continue to strengthen their ties and to define themselves as democratic, forward-thinking nations. Each is independent and unique in its characteristics, but we share the fundamental objectives of peace, partnership and mutual respect.
