

tional representations and the expression of additional views for the information and guidance of the government. It can be assumed that the budget debate will be called on government orders for a few days next week. If this should not take place, the Chair would be prepared to review the situation if a similar motion were proposed again at that time. For today, however, the Chair cannot agree to set aside the government business scheduled for today. I regret, therefore, that the hon. member's motion cannot be put under the terms of Standing Order 26.
