

INDEX

- Constitutional Act, the, its objects, 48, 49; the debate on the bill, 49, 50; the handiwork of Pitt, 51; the germ of the federal system, 51; divided Quebec into two provinces, 52; created legislative council, 52; created legislative assembly, 53; executive council, 53; General Simcoe on, 54; Goldwin Smith on, 54; Lord Durham's commentary on, 53, 56; recommends revision of, 57; provisions creating Clergy Reserves, 70; effect on parliamentary rule summarized, 71, 72; Mackenzie declares war against, 72; silent on the question of executive responsibility, 80; evils of system of government summarized, 73-5; Lord Durham on these evils, 76, 77
- Constitution*, the, Mackenzie starts, 320; destroyed by mob, 321; draft constitution of provisional government published in, 356
- Council, Executive, created under Constitutional Act, 53; irritating relations with assembly, 55, 58; Durham on, 61; real advisers of the governor, 63; responsibility of, demanded by U. C. Reformers, 64, 69; Durham's view of the effect of irresponsibility, 65, 66; Sir John Colborne's view of, 279; Lord Glenelg's view of, 286
- Council, Legislative, the, created by Constitutional Act, 52; Lord Durham criticizes and suggests revision, 57; attitude of Lower Canadian Reformers to, 67; attitude of Upper Canadian Reformers to, 69; rejects 325 bills in 8 years, 73; Sir John Colborne on, 268; collision with assembly, 276; should be elective, 277; Glenelg insists shall be non-elective, 324
- Courier*, the (Brantford), Mackenzie's obituary in, 515
- D
- DALLING AND BULWER, LORD, author of Sir Robert Peel, 16
- Declaration of Independence, July 1837, its history, 330; the work of Rolph and O'Grady, 330
- Dufort, Thomas, agent of Papineau to Upper Canada, 345; sets out for Michigan, 345; secures assistance in Michigan, 427
- Duncombe, Dr., complains to Glenelg of Head, 315; deals with the York election, 316; his letter referred to a committee, 321; report of the committee, 322; forces at Brantford, 425; retreat to Scotland, 425; increased by one thousand, 425; men disperse, 426; annexed, 474
- Dundas, Colonel, defends Windmill Point, 443; accepts Van Shultz's surrender, 444
- Dunn, John Henry, appointed executive councillor, 294; resigns, 294
- Durham, Lord, "a man ahead of his time," 6, 7; speech on the Reform Bill, 14, 15; his report on the Constitutional Act, 55; on the position of lieutenant-governor,