Percy Roberts of Montreal, who officiated as umpire in the match between Tigers and Argonauts, on returning home stated that in his opinion the better team won. During the opening period the Hamilton club held their own, but after that they were never any match for the oarsmen, said Roberts. He pointed out the fact that the tackling of the Argos in the closing period, after they had assumed a commanding lead, was the feature of the game, while the kicking of Connor was the most brilliant that has been seen in years.

On Saturday afternoon at Scarborn Beach Rugby fans will have an opportunity of a sain seeing the Parkdale Canoc Club and Balmy Beach teams in action. With the added interest of moving picture films of the game being taken. Ansign addition the spectators will be entarial and interested by witnessing the making of a motion picture story with the well-known actor, Edward H. Robins playing the part of centre half-back. Portions of this film will be shown at an early date at one of the beach moving picture houses, and at Parkdale, in aid of the two interested Rugby Clubs. This will be the opportunity of a lifetime to see a first-class moving picture company make a "movie" story, and the Beach seating capacity should be taxed for this deem.

Chances of a city championship game between Tigers and Rowing Club are very slight. The Bengals are a much-crippled lot after their grueling tussle with the Argos, and the majority of them alsolutely refuse to don their togs again. Few of them escaped injury of some sort, and it is practically decided that they will not play the scullers.

Herald: Argos were the better team. Hamilton's sole hope is the Rowing Club. They are not being seriously considered, but the Argos will probably remember the surprise they were handed in the shape of defeat in 1912 by the Alerts. The garnet and gray were just as rank outsiders then as the scullers are today.

Umpire Percy Roberts certainly did not give the Tigers the benefit of any decisions, but the outcome would not have been different if he had reversed them.

Tiger injuries were many. Tom Wren, Billy Mallett, Johnny McKelvey, George Ireland and Harry Glassford were forced to retire. "Glassy" was unfortunate enough to lose two teeth. One of them was knocked out when he stopped big Alex. McFarlane.

Frank Knight, the husky Argo outside wing, is the best line man in the Canadian game. Little "Mac" Murray, on the other side, is not far behind. The pair can't be beat.

Argos' interference was so smooth that Eddie Phillips, the interference student, was completely baffled.

Up to half-time it was anybody's game.
O'Connor's drop kick, which sent the Argos into the lead, proved the turning point, however. From then on the oarsmen had the better of the argument. A forward pass, which the officials kindly overlooked, paved the way for the field goal

There were four "breaks" in the sawoff battle for the Big Four title, and Argos got all four. Two were forward passes of the rankest kind, and the other pair were fumbles by McKelvey and Mallett, which Frank Knight took advantage of. The "breaks" had a lot to do with the final reckoning, too.

Spectator: Tigers gave way on Saturday and played with Percy Roberts as umpire. Right up until 2 o'clock the players were kept at the Prince George Hotel, and the club supporters were advised to wait for something definite before going to the field. President Hugh Murray, several of the executive and a majority of the players did not want to play the game. They were of the opinion that the team should return to Hamilton unless President Phillips gave way in his attitude on the protest against Roberts. At the last minute, however, Bob Isbister prevalled upon the officials and players to proceed to the field and play, no matter who was in charge. Isbister's reason for this change of front was the belief that if the Tigers failed to play they would lose their Big Four franchise, and in support of this contention, expressed the opinion that with another team in the city such a move would be quite possible.

Isbister represented the club at a conference held on Saturday morning in Toronto. The conference was attended by the majority of the Big Four governors, as well as the Argos' officials and President Phillips of the Interprovincial. Phillips refused to agree to any change at the request of the Tigers, and the tone of the meeting was that nothing could be done. Taylor, the Montreal governor, was present and was with Phillips stronger in his stand than he was prévious tô the conference. When the Tiger officials and players arrived at the Prince George 2t 1.30 they were acquainted with the facts. President Murray called the executive members together and advised them to return to Hamilton. This the players were willing to do, and at 2 o'clock it appeared as if there would not be any game. Then Isbister got busy, and by using the lever that there was a chance of losing the franchise, with the Hamilton Rowing Club only too eager to land in the Big Four, the Tiger officials finally gave in. There was no bluff about their refusal to play if Roberts officiated. The Tiger officials meant what they said, and only when other matters were brought to their attention at the last minute did they give in.

Times: Argos deserved to win. They had all the breaks in the last half, and Roberts and Phillips helped in that.

The game was a tight one, in which one or two mistakes changed the tide. Argos got away with a forward pass on two occasions. The officials failed to see it. Each time it transferred play from the Argo territory to the Tiger defensive, and saved the Argos a point or two. The second offence of this nature was in the third period, and was most glaring, the ball bounding forward four or five yards before Murphy got it. Phillips was right on the job, but he was blind.

The bete noire of Rugby in these parts, viz., what is responsible for the ramifications of T.A.C., has bobbed up again.
