Montreal, Oct. 6.—Considerable sensation was caused Saturday among politicians and business men here by the publication of the following leading article in La

To the great despair of Monsleur our Mayor, it is Mr. Tarte who is the Minister. Mr. Tarte has not the least intention of following the methods apparently dear to Mr. Prefontaine. He believes that it is elementary wisdom to hasten slowly,—even when Mr. Raymond Prefontaine grows indignant because he does not sign as quickly as he would wish.

Truly, Mr. Prefontaine's disappointments caused him to appear ridiculous.

We regret it, not harboring him any evil. He brings enough evil upon himself, without our lending a hand.

That the article was inspired by Mr. Tarte there is not the least question among those who are familiar with the situation brought about a week ago, when it was currently reported, after the now famous secret meeting of the Harbor Board a week ago last Monday, that, Mr. Tarte had accused Mr. Prefontaine of wanting his portfolio. That rumor has hever been denied. Those who have watched the trend of affairs believe that the Tarte article is only the opening gun of a most interesting campaign in federal and municipal politics, and that more will come out at to-morrow's meeting of the Harbor Board, when Mr. Jamieson, the elevator contractor, will be asked to say what he knows in connection with the bribery charge preferred by Mr. Tarte. Mayor Prefontaine has not yet made a statement, but one of his closest friends said this evening: "If Mr. Tarte wants war, we are ready for him. their lives.

The amount involved in this elevator arfair is a mere bagatelle of $642,000.

Monsieur our Mayor, accustomed to dabble in millions, is positive that the Minister of Public Works has treated the Harbor Commissioners as school children—because he was bold enough to consult experts in the matter.

Mr. Prefontaine is always in a hurry—The public will say that in this matter Mr. Tarte has been prudent.

It is the country's money, obtained from Farliament, which builds harbor works, and which will construct the elevator towards which Monsieur our Mayor betrays such solicitude.

When—later on—Mr. Raymond Prefontaine shall be Minister of Public Works, he may do as he pleases.

Until now, Sir Wilfrid has neglected to summon him to this responsible and important post.

To the great despair of Monsieur our Mayor, it is Mr. Tarte who is the Minister. Mr. Tarte has not the least intention of following the methods apparently suggested to the student that the student that the sudent that the matter of following the methods apparently was found unconscious in his room.

The World interviewed one of the young men high up in the order yesterday, and he said it was utterly absurd to think that Gibbons committed suicide thru a dread of the initiation proceedings.

When—later on—Mr. Raymond Prefortant powers and the would have to go thru on Friday night and he would have to go thru on Friday night and he would have to go thru on Friday night and he would have to go thru on Friday night and he would have to go thru on Friday night and he would have to go thru on the fact of Gibbons that he would have to go the proceedings.

When interregated further in regard to what would have happe

In this, as in everything else connected with his duty as a Harbor Commissioner, I am sure the Mayor will challenge the fullest investigation. We have nothing to hide, and I can assure you that if the inside history of the negotiations concerning this elevator contract ever come to light it will not be Raymond Prefontaine who will suffer."

Editorial in La Patrie, Montreal, Oct, 5.

If Mr. Prefontaine were Minister of Public Works!

The affairs of the Harbor Commission would go on differently.

They would go along, say, as do our municipal affairs.

And our municipal affairs go along so well!

Our streets torn up, our treasury dried up, etc., would go down to posterity a shining example of the ability of Monsieur our Mayor.

He would have at once signed Mr. Jamieson's Plans.

The ablest experts (disinterested ones) report that the plans are not acceptable, that the specifications were too low, etc.

This does not count; the plans should have been signed the day after they were accepted by Mr. Mayor and some of his colleagues on the Harbor Commission, who have neither read nor studied a plan in their lives.
