

MANITOBA'S NEW LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Sir James Aikins May be Reappointed—Others Mentioned—Term Expired on August 6.

Winnipeg, Aug. 12.—The formal term of office of Sir James Aikins as lieutenant-governor of Manitoba expired on August 6th and word of the appointment of his successor is awaited here. The belief is expressed around parliament buildings that Sir James may be given a second term. Others whose names are mentioned in connection with the position according to a local paper are Sir Augustus Nanton, Hon. Robert Rogers and W. R. Allen, M. P., for South Winnipeg.

When Premier Returns.
Ottawa, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press)—The appointment of a successor to Sir James Aikins, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, whose formal term of office expired on August 6, awaits the return of Premier Meighen.

Sir George Foster, acting premier, when asked about the appointment yesterday, said that the matter would be dealt with by Mr. Meighen. He gave no opinion as to the probable choice for the position.

RECIPROCAL CUSTOMS LAWS

Negotiations by Australian and New Zealand Premiers With France and Belgium Under Way—Exchange Also.

London, Aug. 12.—(Canadian Press)—The Morning Post says it understands that Premier Hughes of Australia and Premier Massey of New Zealand are engaged in important negotiations with French and Belgian customs representatives in London, with a view to the establishment of reciprocal or preferential customs duties agreements relating to raw materials on the one hand and manufactured goods on the other.

Another purpose of the discussion is in regard to stabilizing the rate of exchange between France and Belgium and the British dominions in the Antipodes.

OPTIMISM GROWS.

A more optimistic feeling is abroad as regards trade prospects, and already preparations to take advantage of it are indicated in many ways. Outstanding at the present time is the upward movement in the price of securities, which goes to show that investors are now bringing out their life money. Bond prices are generally the first to improve in an upward market, preceding stocks by a much more cheerful appearance, and with the crop outlook a satisfactory one, there is every indication that the early fall will see the long expected improvement. All signs go to show that staple lines are likely to return to normal conditions before long.

This opinion has been passed on to a local financial house by a large New York financier, in business correspondence. He states that conditions generally across the border show an improvement in sentiment, but business is spotty, referring to interviews with four large commercial concerns, two reported business up to seventy-five per cent. of normal, and showed signs of improving, while the other two stated that there was absolutely no business at all. He intimates that lines showing improvement would appear to be those dealing in necessities, whereas lines that might be classed strictly as luxuries seem to be at a standstill.

ESPERANTO STILL SHOWING.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 12.—(Cape P. C. Johnson, superintendent of lights, Halifax agency, marine and fisheries, who has returned from an inspection trip to St. John's, states that the wreck of the Gloucester schooner "Esperanto" is still showing above water. Part of the deck drifted ashore, he said.

FREDERICKTON NEWS.

Frederickton, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Kenneth G. Ross of Montreal was in conference with the trustees of Victoria Public Hospital of this city here Thursday on installing of a power house for the various hospital buildings. Tenders will close on August 24. The original intention was to expend some $80,000 on the power house, but that amount will be reduced.

IN WALL STREET

New York, Aug. 12.—(Wall Street, 10.30)—Further weakness in industrial shares at the opening of today's stock market intensified the prevailing dejection in speculative circles. Bethlehem, General Electric, Royal Dutch, American Writing Paper preferred, Sears Roebuck, and Colorado and Southern lost one to one and a quarter, and Mercantile Marine preferred, Baldwin, Pullman, General Asphalt, Sumatra Tobacco, Retail Stores and American Lined, 1-2 to 3-4. Later experimental buying operations in the railroad group to see what would follow, caused some short covering in other quarters. Atchafalaya, Union Pacific, Reading, Northern Pacific, Mexican Petroleum, Studbaker and United States Alcohol were lifted 1-2 to 3-4, and Western Union 1-2 points. Foreign exchange rates were steady.

Noon Report.

Technical conditions were seemingly responsible for the improvement in the furnace market. There were no alterations for the better in monetary conditions or other factors which have recently been operative. Mexican Petroleum advanced 2-8 and Pan-American, Royal Dutch, Texas Oil and Land, Studbaker, Kelley-Springfield, American Sugar, American Tobacco, United States Realty, Endicott-Johnson, Crucible Steel, Reading, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, St. Paul preferred, and Rock Island 1 to 2 points. A subsequent outbreak in liquidation in Central Leather and Continental can which carried them down 3 points, caused a new rally, caused some short covering from the top figures elsewhere. Call money was maintained at six per cent.

POLICE BEAT FAN AT POLO GROUNDS

Advertising Man Blackjacked by Detectives Because His Feet Touched One's Coat.

(New York Times.)
Another case of police brutality toward an inoffensive citizen took place at the Polo Grounds yesterday in plain sight of hundreds of men and women. The victim was James A. S. Carpenter, an advertising agent.

Carpenter was badly beaten by one of two men who, representing themselves to be police detectives, dragged him from his seat at the ball game, threatened to arrest him for nothing at all, struck him repeatedly, he says, with fists and blackjacks, and finally ran away to let him make his own way to the Polo Grounds.

His story follows:
Carpenter attended the game between the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox alone, occupying a seat on the right side of the upper tier, back of the home plate.

He was sitting there when two men, one of whom he knew, approached him and asked him to get up and go to the Polo Grounds.

"Get your feet off my coat, you —," the man shouted, and Carpenter, "I didn't notice it," replied Carpenter, "I didn't notice it."

"The man didn't," said the man in front. "I've a good mind to poke you in the jaw."

"I told you I was sorry. What more do you want?" asked Carpenter.

The question appeared to infuriate the man in front. He was watching the fight and seized Carpenter by the neck. "I'll show you something," he shouted, and he struck Carpenter's glasses off with his free hand. Then, holding Carpenter by the neck with his left hand, the man struck him with his right fist on the jaw several times. Then he drew a blackjack and swung it up and down, crashing through Carpenter's straw hat and raising welts on his head.

Carpenter is a small man. He is about five feet six inches tall and weighs about 135 pounds. He was powerless in the hands of his assailant. Besides, the latter's companion, another powerfully built man, stood by and appeared ready to help his friend.

Seeing a little fellow being assaulted by two big men, the crowd sided with Carpenter. There were cries of "Let him alone" and "Send for the police!"

This caused the man who was wielding the blackjack to stop.

"Never mind sending for anybody," he told the crowd. "We've taken care of this fellow. We've policemen and we're going to lock him up."

Victim Dragged Over Seats.
With that, the two men, who were in plain clothes, vaulted over their seats into the row in which Carpenter was sitting, seized him by each arm and dragged him over the seats for several rows, scattering the "fans" in their way, until they reached the rear of the stands. There the man with the blackjack sat him again, but he was finally led outside the Polo Grounds into Eight avenue.

Some of the "fans" who had witnessed the affair had found a fight more interesting than a ball game, and had followed the three men, out of the grounds. Others gathered in the street. But most of the crowd drifted away when the two men again announced that they were policemen and that Carpenter was a prisoner.

confident that they will soon ferret him out, but if he should succeed in crossing to Millidgeville he would have a large area through which he could escape. This district runs back along the Kennebecas river to Sand Point road and thence through to Drury Cove, Renfrew and along the C. N. R.

Mistaken Identity.
One young man who started out alone this morning in search of the fugitive had a narrow escape. While traversing the area along Glen Cove road he met four men who accosted him and closely questioned his presence alone in that district. Not satisfied with his answers the men followed him to the city where they notified the detectives and had them investigate. One of the men said that they had intended to bring him back to the city and turn him over to the police, but one of their number advised against this and they shadowed him instead. The detectives lost no time in locating the man, but he proved to be a member of the searching squad and not the man sought.

SEARCH FOR THE MURDERER TODAY WITHOUT RESULT

The search for the murderer of the little Sadie McAuley in St. John is continuing today. The police are searching for the murderer of the little Sadie McAuley in St. John is continuing today. The police are searching for the murderer of the little Sadie McAuley in St. John is continuing today.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—In an effort to help the police of St. John (N. B.), in their country-wide search for the murderer of nine-year-old Sadie McAuley, of that city, who was brutally put to death a few days ago, the detective office of this city have forwarded the photographs, finger prints and minute description of a man arrested here today near the Windsor Station.

The suspect, arrested by Detectives Charbonneau and Simon, answers very closely to the description of the suspected murderer. He wore khaki breeches and a peak cap. He is twenty-two years of age and his skin is bronzed. He has long black hair. His name has not been given as the local police authorities want an answer from the St. John police department first.

Parents' Thanks.
Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McAuley have expressed the times to express their thanks to the police for their assistance in the search for the murderer of their daughter. They are grateful beyond words for the help they have received from the police in the search for the murderer of their daughter.

While the main body of police officials were engaged in the man hunt, two detectives were sent to the city to run down rumors and looking up men of questionable character. The man in question, however, was well known to the detectives and he was able to do with them that he had nothing to do with the murder.

They also visited a house in Hilyard street, where a woman informed them that a man should have abnormal habits, who is reported to have been in Riverview Park district that day. No time was lost in getting on his trail, but up to two o'clock he had not been located. The detectives, however, fear that he is not in the city and they are endeavoring to satisfy themselves that he is not implicated in the murder.

Other officers, a young man called at certain houses last night, asking for food, were investigated, but proved to be innocent.

Last Night's Chase.
W. A. Barlow, who resides at 64 Moore street, saw a man in Main street at 10 o'clock last evening who answered the description of the murderer. He followed the man to Melick street, where he saw him disappear into an alleyway across the street. He followed, and while he was looking for the man he heard a door or gate being closed and he rushed out on to the street again just in time to notice the mysterious stranger across the street.

As soon as the man saw Mr. Barlow in such close pursuit he jumped a nearby fence. Mr. Barlow chased him but as that part of the city was strange to him lost track of the man. Mr. Barlow at once called to others and he and a companion who had followed along with him continued the search for the fugitive while a crowd quickly gathered.

Meanwhile two little girls saw the same man jump back over the fence where he had first disappeared and run across the street. The girls saw him just as he passed near them, they say, he muttered: "If you catch me I'll kill you." The little girls saw him running towards Victoria street.

A moment or two after this occurred the crowd drew a rapidly increasing crowd to the scene and a regular man hunt was organized. The police department was notified at once and Sergeant Detourne, Police and Detectives Bliddecombe, Donahue, Saunders and Garnett hastened to the north end. The patrol wagon was used and every available policeman was rushed to that part of the city.

Frederick Clue.
Frederick, N. B., Aug. 12.—Chief of Police Finlay said this afternoon that he had an important clue which he expected would lead to the early arrest of the murderer of Sadie McAuley, the St. John girl who was the victim of one

UNEMPLOYED BUT WAS RATHER BUSY

(Halifax Chronicle.)
W. C. James, the "energetic" secretary-treasurer of the Unemployed Society, was arrested by the police yesterday afternoon in an intoxicated condition, and will likely be arraigned on far more serious charges. For some time past Mr. James, who is a native of England, but at the present time resides at Woodside, has been practically managing the recently organized society, transacting all the business, handling all the money, and acted as chairman and also chief speaker at the meetings held nightly on the commons. Some of the members of the society have gone over the books and discovered a shortage of about $126. The matter will be further investigated.
