HOLDS ST. JOHN IN IGHT FOR JUSTICE

he sympathy felt for St. John and support which this city may expect in the rest of the province in the fight just "the" Gutelius-Bowenworth agreement is indicated by a letter received by Dr. Pugsley, which follows:—

Bathurst, N. B., Nov. 10, 1913.

N. B.

Dear Mr. Pugsley: Everybody follows with great interest a situation in St. John in reference to the withdrawal of the mail and passenger boats from your port to Halifax. We conduct in this question is highly interested, and while I am not a citizen of St. John, I am a Canadian, and as such feel hurt at the action of the government of the day in using The People's ally to favor a private corporation to the detriment of the national port which offers the shortest haul and quickest travel, and which, therefore, owing to geographical position and economic conditions, has a right to this trade, in the public interest of the country at large.

The Gutelius agreement I consider not only to be to the detriment of the port of St. John but to the detriment of the C. R. itself. I am pleased to see that the citizens of St. John have availed themselves of your services in the argument of the case before the Railway Commission.

My best wishes are to you and St. John.

Yours very faithfully,
O. TURKON.

Woman's Hair Reaches to Knees

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvellously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky, and fluffy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvelous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several places, turned grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to use it. My hair grew and I had my hair cut. Then my little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet, and while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it, at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is inexpensive and any druggist can fill it.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening grey, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing of home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, but what delights ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it produces that soft lustre and the appearance of abundance which is so attractive, besides preventing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair—Agent, Wasson's 5 stores.

ABOUT SCHOOL INSPECTION

(Bangor Commercial)

The Massachusetts State Board of Health is at present devoting considerable attention to the question of school inspection on the proposition that the work in the Massachusetts schools, as a general thing, is being but indifferently done, and that while the law is perhaps being complied with in a general way the results attained are falling far short of what they would if more seal was manifested in the work.

It is very possible that this work is done in a lax manner in many localities, but it does not seem necessary for the inspection to be placed under the charge of the state. The school authorities everywhere should see that the inspection is thoroughly and properly done and not take the view that their duties have ended with the appointment of the inspectors. If the inspection is done under the direction of a state board of health there comes a division of authority, and in such cases inefficiency is almost certain to result.

Leon R. Taylor, lately sworn in as acting governor of New Jersey, is not only the youngest governor in the history of the state, but the first left-handed one.
