to which an answer was given the men yesterday by Mechanical Superintendent Joughins, has not been adopted by the railway management in its entirety. There has been a slight reduction in the wage cepted by the carmen.

The minimum rate asked for laborers was thirteen cents per hour, and the maximum rate for foremen was twenty-seve cents an hour. These figures have no been changed by the management, but some of the intermediate figures were al-tered. The reduction, the deputation says,

Another clause in the schedule which ha not yet been adopted is one insisting that carmen shall not be discharged on suspended without sufficient cause, and only discharged after investigation. The management was not prepared to accept this and the clause was held in abeyance with one other minor rejections.

Mr. Joughins wished time to consult further with the minister, and has prom ised another conference within a few days.

Mr. Jouhgins went nouth last night to meet Mr. Emmerson. The carmen say they are satisfied with the treatment so orded them. The total receipts taken at the local bas ball games during the summer amounted to $914.95. After the expenses of the league were deducted there was $503.11 left to be divided among the four teams.

As an illustration of the great time made by I. C. R. men the past summer, it may be pointed out that one special conductor put in no less than fifty-one days in one month. This means that this special conductor drew something more than $145 in that particular month.

Petitions largely signed are being circu lated asking the minister of railways to continue the Ocean Limited after the change of time table in October. Ocean Limited has been on since July 1, and those who have been patronizing the fast train desire that it shall be kept on during the winter. The petitions are being circulated all over the road. The annual meeting of the Moneton Y. Mr C. A. was held tonight. The membership during the year was reported to be 256 adults and fifty-five juniors, or a total of 311. This was an increase over last year.
