

COPY OF ILLUMINATED ADDRESS OF CONDOLENCE

Presented in book form by the Students of T. U. C. attending during March.

TORONTO, MARCH 15TH, 1891.

Mr. J. M. Crowley, Principal Toronto Business College:

Dear Friend and Teacher.—In this your hour of deep trial, when affliction like a mighty billow has swept over your life and taken from your side a dearly loved wife to dwell in realms celestial, we wish to express our deep sorrow at your bereavement, and to extend to you our heartfelt sympathy. As our teacher you have been generous and kind, and as our friend we have found you ever interested in our welfare, and now when this cloud of gloom has enshrouded your life it but knits more closely the ties which bind us. Death is the inevitable end of mortal man, so we should not mourn at parting with our loved ones whose eyes close in the sleep that knows no waking, when far through the gloom of sorrow and death we can joyfully anticipate that heavenly meeting with those dear ones who have gone before; that glorious immortality where sin, sorrow and death can never enter, and where our lives will be one grand hosannah of praise and happiness. But a few more years to roll and there we too shall have passed through the portals of the tomb into that bright beyond where on the golden shores of the chilly River of Death our loved ones wait our coming. May our lives be such that when this grim messenger comes we may be able to look back on a life's work well done—on a life's race well run. Again we offer our sincere and heartfelt sympathy in this your time of mourning.

T. G. Johnson
S. Welsford
Chas. Crombie
Leo Gattman
Chas. Brimmer
C. Barnett
A. Hasson
K. Lindsay
E. Cuffe
A. Scott
M. Morgan
E. Stoddart
S. Moran

E. Miller
Robert H. Falconer
Wellington Reesor
Harry Kerr
H. E. Cooper
John Johnson
C. Dutchburn
C. Barnett
C. W. Bailey
J. Moat
A. Pringle
C. P. Read
W. F. Baisley

W. Angus
W. Tarleton
S. Boynton
N. T. Meek
M. Seymour
Howard E. Farr
J. Harris
Fred. H. Davis
Martin Byrne
A. G. Campbell
H. Frankel
T. Luby
J. Cook

W. Richardson
John T. Graves
Wm. Bowman
Maude Moat
M. L. Beckett
M. P. Gray
R. E. Walbrook
Minnie McGlone
John McMullin
J. W. Curren
E. Blackhall
Fred. Jeffery
Minnie L. Munn

* And 60 others

A FEW EXTRACTS FROM THE OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

EMPIRE, AUGUST 31, 1889.

Among the business colleges of our country none stands more prominent than the Toronto Business College, situated at the corner of Yonge and Shuter Streets. It occupies the whole of that large red brick building. Its rooms are among the finest in Canada, both for appearance, comfort and ventilation. The specialties are: Actual Business, Book-keeping, Book-keeping, Commercial Law, Commercial Correspondence, Arithmetic, Business Penmanship, Selling, Telegraphy, Shorthand and Typewriting. The large number of graduates who are holding prominent positions both in the United States and Canada, are a sufficient guarantee that everything will be carried out to promote the students' best interests. Mr. Crowley's business abilities, with the aid of the efficient staff of teachers, makes it second to no similar institution of its kind in Canada.

THE DAILY ONTARIO, BELLEVILLE, SEPT. 30, 1887.

THE KING OF COMMERCIAL COLLEGES.—The Toronto Commercial College, the training school par excellence, for all who desire to enter any sort of business life. The College has been so long and favorably known. Its Principals and teaching staff of such well known reputation and its advantages are so fully set forth that any further commendation on our part is needless. The Toronto heads the list of Commercial Colleges.

Similar testimonials can be produced from the leading journals in Canada, among them may be mentioned the following:—"Mail," "Globe," "World," "Free Press," "Saturday Night," "Goderich Star," "British Whig," etc.