MAYBE YES - MAYBE NO

Politicians in the Capital are not placing too much faith in the intimation of the Prime minister that announcement of an election will not come for a long time. It is the part of wisdom for the Government to keep the Opposition parties guessing as to the Opposition parties guessing as the election date and the decision the election date and the decision to go to the country will be kept a secret until the Ministry is ready to launch its campaign. Alex Smith, former organizer of the Liberal party, is among those who remain sceptical as to the possibility of an election this year. He has maintained all along that the Government was more likely to serve out its full term. The majority opinion is against hum, however.—Montreal Standard.
