THE HUMAN HAIR.

WHERE the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more preposterous than the use of oils, grease or any fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the bulbs are obstructed, then the oils, &c., may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but where they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to raise the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.—Extract from Chirac's Treatise on the Hair.
 The BALM of COLCUTIA is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.

A CASE IN POINT.

I had unfortunately lost nearly all the hair from the top of my head, when I commenced the use of the Balm of Colcutia, and have, by the use of two bottles had my head covered with a fine growth of Hair. There can be no mistake in the matter, as many of my friends can see by calling on me. I had also become quite gray, but had the gray hairs plucked out, and it has grown in as the Balm says of the natural color. If any lady doubts these facts, let them call upon me and see. I bought the Balm of Colcutia & Co., Fletcher Street.
