Saskatchewan Doctors' Charges

The Secretary of the Keatley branch of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association writes:—Herewith I send you copy of resolution unanimously passed by the Keatley and Wanganni locals of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association.

In order to properly understand the situation we first quote a copy of a notice to the public taken from the North Battleford News, of December 8, and reproduced in The Grain Growers' Guide of January 28:—

A Notice to the Public

"We, the undersigned members of the Northern Saskatchewan Medical Association, hereby give notice that on and after the first day of January, 1914, we will adopt a system of cash payment for all office and maternity practice, and for surgical attendance other than emergency cases.

"In medical cases in which the illness lasts one week or less, payment is to be cash upon the completion of attendance.

"Realizing that in prolonged medical cases and in emergency surgical cases a strictly cash system is not feasible, we will adopt the following measure to secure the eventual payment of our accounts, viz:—

"In all such cases accounts will be rendered immediately upon completion of attendance, and shall be payable within thirty days from the date of rendering.

"In the event of such accounts remaining unpaid at the end of that period, their subsequent payment must be secured by a chattel mortgage, which will be duly registered.

"And further, that a list, which will be frequently revised, shall be kept by the association and its members of all families which are destitute and unable to pay for attendance, and in these cases our services will be rendered free of charge."

The above was signed by eleven doctors.

An Example of a Doctor's Charges

"A homesteader's wife, for the purpose of maternity, went to reside during the critical period at Hafford, on the C.N.R. On a particular afternoon the nurse in attendance, not being quite satisfied with the patient's condition, suggested that a doctor be called in. The husband immediately telephoned for a doctor from Battleford, about forty miles distant, who came out in a motor car, and after attending the patient, which only occupied a few minutes, demanded as his fee $135. Only being a homesteader, the money very naturally was not forthcoming from him, so the doctor insisted upon a chattel mortgage upon all the man's possessions, and got it, returning the same day to Battleford."

In view of the foregoing notice to the public and of the unwarrantable extortion as shown by the example quoted, which is only one instance out of many, we, the Keatley and Wanganni locals of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, not being able to reconcile such conduct with what we have been taught to associate with this hitherto honorable profession, have unanimously passed the following resolution:—

That the eleven doctors be requested to moderate their exacting attitude, and that some adequate measures be adopted to prevent the continued repetition of such cowardly extortion as instanced, under cover of a doctors' combine and out of people's stern necessities, for either a man may risk the life of some member of his family for want of medical attention or he may call in a doctor and impoverish them indefinitely.

While recognizing that doctors should live, we also claim the same right for ourselves and families. None pays more willingly than a farmer when he can, but to attempt to extract ready cash from the average homesteader is a cruel absurdity. Of all men, surely, the doctors themselves know the terrible amount of suffering already endured upon the prairie, largely for want of proper medical attendance, without wilfully adding to the sum total of misery by this latest move. The say-
