

WISCONSIN.

The following have been left for the Turtle Mountain district to subdivide twelve townships...

Mr. B. W. Ziska's ninth excursion party from Ontario arrived on Saturday night...

Ridge. The building, it is thought, will be concrete, with stone foundation. The cost will be probably $500 or $600.

DEAD ON THE FIELD OF HONOR. A few weeks ago, a steamer with hundreds of helpless women and children was on fire with a few miles of New York.

It is stated that the Indian Commissioner for the Northwest Territory, Mr. A. B. Dewdney, will establish a post office at the premises just transferred to the Indian Department.

Harvesting of the barley crop has commenced in the vicinity of Emerson. The Manitoba Live Association held their annual meeting on the 10th of August.

Compromiser Ward, of the Mounted Police, has returned from the North-West. He has completed the transfer of the Mounted Police to the Indian Department.

Superintendent Herchler has been transferred from Qu'Appelle to Battleford, and Superintendent Weller has been transferred to Qu'Appelle.

GRAND VALLEY, N. W. T. The crops in this section are promising to be above the average. Haying will probably commence in about two weeks.

Two English gentlemen are contemplating putting up a saw and gill mill here. It would be a great benefit to the country.

Reports from farmers in all directions state that the crops are looking splendidly. Everything looks favorable for a good harvest.

The stage from Winnipeg has now almost got back into its proper groove, and now arrives the same day as the other stage.

Work has been commenced on the East Side Methodist Church. It is expected to be ready for holding services in about a month.

The Indians in the neighborhood of Fort Alexander were pretty well started out by the time the steamer arrived on Saturday.

The Colorado potato beetle has appeared in this place, without doubt. We were shown a stalk this week on which were a number of young ones.

We were shown a sample of fall wheat the other day, procured by Mr. Hugh Campbell from the farm of E. K. Island.

From the International, July 28th. The haying season is upon us, and our farmers are busy laying in stores of the beautiful and juicy grass for which Manitoba is noted.

"THAT CHARMING COUNT." "So good?" said Mrs. Damer. "So clever?" continued the elder lady. "So fat?" replied the younger one.

Fortunately for himself, Arthur LeStrange had very good brains, and though he had not much of a literary taste, he was a most successful writer for his own amusement.

Three or four days passed, and Arthur LeStrange had time, if not to recover from his fatigue, at least to get over his depression.

"Dear Max," said the girl, ardently. "I am not only proud to be your wife, but I am proud to be your friend. I am proud to be your friend."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I have proposed to you," he said, "and I have proposed to you in a most serious manner. I have proposed to you in a most serious manner."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"That? It is somewhat vague," said the Hungarian lady to overcome Dora's resistance. Suffice to say that it eventually resulted from a promise to join him in London on the following night.

"I have already told Miss Morton. I go for three or four months; but I shall probably come back in as many days," he said.

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

travelled down to Farnleigh two days after his departure; and the little town gradually swelled to the fact that it had perished a victim of the pestilence.

Incredibly was the first sentiment. Like poor Dora, everybody said there must be a mistake. An error of identity was accounted for the whole thing.

LeStrange was responsible for having had an accident with his horse, and had been rescued by the police. They had no hour previously discovered what they considered the last link in the chain of evidence.

And, indeed, the poor girl was by this time in a pitiable frame of mind. The meeting with LeStrange had thoroughly unseated her. The journey seemed eternal to her, excited and worn out with emotion as she was.

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."

"I am sure that," replied Mrs. Damer, feelingly. "I am sure that you will be a most successful writer for your own amusement."