MINISTERS RETURN

Hon. Frank Oliver and Hon. Geo. Graham Return to Ottawa From Europe and Speak of the Work of Their Departments.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Hon. Frank Oliver returned to Ottawa this morning from a two months' sojourn in Great Britain, getting in touch with immigration matters in England, Ireland and Scotland, and on the continent. It is three years since Mr. Oliver crossed the Atlantic and he could not help but note that both the British press and people have a better understanding of Canada than ever before. Newspapers are publishing more news, and their comments show that information available about this country is more accurate than it has been in the past.

As for commercial and financial interests, they realize that Canada is a fine field for development of trade, as well as for the investment of money. On the whole, said Mr. Oliver, it indicates a very happy condition of affairs in future as between Canada and the motherland.

As to immigration prospects the minister of the interior said Canada has every reason to be satisfied with the class of people who are coming to the Dominion. Although the total number of arrivals is not so large as a few years ago, there has been no diminution in the number of desirable people who have decided to make their home in Canada. Those people come from all parts of England, Scotland and from the north of Ireland. There is little immigration so far to Canada from the south of Ireland as the movement from there is in the direction of the United States. This is lightly due to the fact that passages are usually paid by friends and relatives who established themselves in the United States. Concluding Mr. Oliver said the best advertisement of conditions in Great Britain are undoubtedly the successful settlers who write home to their friends and farmer delegates who are sent across the Atlantic every winter by the interior department.

HON. G. H. GRAHAM.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Hon. G. H. Graham also returned to the city, looking much better after his trip. In an interview he said that he had not only enjoyed his holiday but had taken advantage of the opportunity to study railway and canal conditions in other lands. He said he had made the discovery that all the canals in England were in the hands of private companies, chiefly railway corporations. In Germany he visited the Kiel canal and was much interested in the work that was being done there to deepen the canal to 50 feet. The deepening is due to the fact that the Germans wanted an outlet for their warships from the Baltic to the North Sea.

Comes to Raise Horses.

An Englishman who has been producing wine in Algiers for the French market for thirty years is an unusual tribute to the far-reaching of "gentlemen" rovers abroad, which the British Isles have been sending out into the world for four centuries. When the same Englishman sets up his son as a horse rancher on the foothills of Alberta, he is bringing Canada a settler from a strange country, though from old stock, and emphasizing how far the fame of our west has travelled.

The Englishman is J. R. Cox, whose home address is Boddj-El-Arba Margeno, Algeria. Mr. Cox is the owner of 2,000 acres of grapes, which he farms in company with his son-in-law. Next month, eight hundred tons of grapes per day will be crushed on his farm and made into wine to be shipped to France. Mr. Cox is just now spending a few days in Montreal previous to sailing for England on the Victorian on Friday. In the writing parlour of the Queen's Hotel today he told The Star something of his adopted country.

Mr. Cox's entry on the business of grape growing in Algiers was, he said quite accidental. An uncle went out with a son who had been ordered to a warm climate, and he had gone with them. He liked the climate and the life and had stayed on, "that was all. There are but few Britishers among the farmers of Algeria, Mr. Cox, knows of but one other, an Irishman, though there are many in the ports. The business and the farming are almost wholly in the hands of the French, while the laborers are the natives and Spanish immigrants. The usual wage is forty cents a day, but the natives pick a ton of grapes a day for twenty-five cents. They live on the grapes in the meantime and are allowed to eat freely while working.

Mr. Cox was surprised to hear that there was a wine industry in Canada. He merely looked surprised at first, but presently recollected having tasted some of the wine produced in the Niagara peninsula.

"Oh," he said, "that is not wine, that is a sort of preserved syrup. We are not allowed to put a bit of sugar into our wine. The French laws are very strict, and one may be put in prison merely for its use."

SOME CRITICISM OF FRENCH GOVERNMENTAL METHODS WAS INDULGED IN BY MR. COX. "THEY FOLLOW THE OLD SPANISH POLICY TOWARDS THE COLONIES," HE SAID. "THEY DO NOT WANT ALGERIA TO PRODUCE ANYTHING WHICH CAN BE PRODUCED IN FRANCE. THERE ARE MEMBERS OF THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES WHO WANT OUR WINE INDUSTRY KILLED. BUT THEY HAVE NOT SUCCEEDED IN THAT. STILL THE RESULT OF THE GENERAL POLICY IS THAT ALGERIA HAS NO MANUFACTURES. SHE IS RICH IN IRON AND COPPER, THOUGH WITHOUT COAL. IN THE NEIGHBORING PROVINCE OF CONSTANTINE THERE IS A BIG IRON MINE WHICH IS OWNED JOINTLY BY THE FRENCH AND GERMAN GUN-MAKERS, THE CREUSOTTE AND THE KRUPPE."

One criticism which was directed at the government will scarcely be understood here. This is that the government builds too many roads. It destroys individual initiative, says Mr. Cox with English independence. He says freely, nevertheless, that the roads are excellent, right through to the desert; they run straight as a die for fifty or sixty miles, and are a delight to automobilists.

The Algerian wine grower contrasted the sobriety of Canada and Algeria to the discredit of Canada. "I saw as much drunkenness on the railway train from the Crow's Nest Pass to Medicine Hat," he declared, "as I have seen in thirty years in Algeria."

Mr. Cox, visited the Okanagan valley while west and may establish a fruit ranch there at some time. He fears a shortage of labor in that region, however, and states that if he does go into the business he will bring out Spanish workmen on a profit sharing basis. "They grow out tobacco crop in Algiers," he remarked, "and we give them half the crop in pay." He also expects to invest capital in the coal mines of British Columbia.—Montreal Star.

FINED AT CARLYLE.

Carlyle, Sask., Aug. 17.—R. Oliver and E. Lockwood were before Magistrate Stent and Holmquist today on the charge of having liquor in their possession, and the former for being drunk at Carlyle Lake resort, White Bear Indian reserve. Oliver was fined twenty dollars and costs, and Lockwood ten dollars and costs.

ALFONSO'S WHISKERS

London, Aug. 21.—There is an epilogue to the story of the whiskers of King Alfonso of Spain. His majesty when he arrived at San Sebastian from Madrid was wearing side whiskers and had his hair cut very short. The king thought that this change gave him the appearance of an admiral of the British navy, but Queen Victoria Eugenie quickly remarked that he looked more like an English butler, and urged his majesty to shave his whiskers off. This he did for when he returned to Madrid he was whiskerless and younger than ever.

NEW GRAIN SHIPPING SCHEME

Toronto, Aug. 19.—A meeting of the Dominion Maritime association was held to discuss the proposed clearing house for grain at Port Arthur and Port William. The members met Chas. Rutten, of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, the secretary of the lately incorporated Lake Shippers' Clearing association. Mr. Rutten outlined the purpose of the association, which is in effect to arrange for the loading of lake grain carrying ships at those ports at one or two elevators, thereby eliminating delays by having to load at seven or eight elevators. The members heartily endorsed the arrangement, and undertook to bear a pro rata proportion of the expense incurred in maintaining the clearing house so that there is high probability that when the 1909 crop commences to move about Sept. 15, the clearing house will be a fixture, resulting in the prompt loading of the boats.

ACCOSE WON AGAIN

Brandon, Aug. 20.—After following Fitzgerald around at a merry clip for four miles in tonight's six mile race, at the athletic grounds, Accose, the Grenfell wonder, began to draw away from the Calgary man, and by the end of the first half of the fifth mile had established a lead of some 240 yards. This margin he maintained until near the close of the race, when Fitzgerald put on a spurt and reduced the Indian's lead to 150 yds. but could do no better, Accose winning by that distance in 33.05. The time was good for the track, especially as the weather was fearfully sultry. There was a good crowd of enthusiasts present, among them being the shy little wife of Accose, when Starter Kirkcaldy took the men away from the Calgary man, and by the end of the first half of the fifth mile had established a lead of some 240 yards.
