Before delivering his sermon at the Methodist church here, last Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Hagar made a few remarks respecting Rev. Mr. Horner's coming to Athens to hold services, and the attitude toward them which should be taken by himself and his congregation. When we consider that Mr. Horner had come to disrupt, if [possible, Mr. Hagar's church, the latter's remarks appear to us most temperate and moderate, and we are informed they were delivered in an eminently Christian spirit.

He spoke in substance as follows:
"You are doubtless looking to me as your pastor for counsel respecting the services begun in our town this firm only by the Rev. Mr. Horner. The subject is one of delicacy, inass much as he has visited this place before as a conference evangelist, and many of you believe he was a means of blessing to you. If he was with us to-day in the same relation, mutty would be to advise you to give him your most hearty co-operation. But, unhappily, Mr. Horner is with us at this time as a suspended minister in active conflict and hostility towards our church and conference, and this alters the case entirely. Baptist church, Plum Hollow, a large mount of farm stock, implements, etc. Sale at 1 p.m. D. Dowsley, auctioneer. Phil. Wiltse & Co. will offer their whole stock of crockery, china and glasswarr at cost for the next month, in order to clear it out. The stock is ciliation by appointing him to a circuit. For myself, knowing the whole case "But it has been said 'Mr. Horner's quarrel with the conference is a just one: the conference has dealt unjustly with him, and the sympathy of all right-minded people should be with him rather than with the conference. This is Mr. Horner's contention and has been stated repeatedly, and has brought him much sympathy, while the conference side of pathy, while the conference side of the question has never, so far as I am aware, been yet given to the am aware, been yet given to the public, and I feel it my duty as a representative of the conference to give you a fair, honest state tent of the conference action in the case and leave the your individual forms. Some individual ministers may not have treated him with kindness, but I speak of the conference as a body. Some in lividual ministers have not treated me as I have thought they should, but it is leave to your judgment to decide on | would not have justified me in disobey ing the conference, or trying to disrupt the church. If Methodist ministers > doing, Methodism would long ago have been blotted out from among the churches. "From this showing, every word of esident to espouse his cause and follow him obey which under God has been so great a blessing to them.

"If I were asked the cause of all this trouble, I would ascribe it to the great strength of Mr. Horner's will, which is out of all proportion to his intellect or judgment. He is a man of intellect or judgment. He is a man of great force of character—and men of this stump have to guard lest their wills develop into wifulness and obstimacy. I doubt whether Mr. Horner has had this wisdom; hence the source of his strength has become the cause of his weakness. "His being stationed at Combermere a small, back mission, has been alleged obedience. If Mr. Horner under-stood that he was being ordained as intention. Mr. Horner had declared an evangelist, then he understood he would not go to a circuit, and few the vow to mean that, as an evangelist, he would submit to the judg-circuit, such as would otherwise have gelist, he would submit to the judg-ment of his brethren. There is no secaping this conclusion. The meaning of the vow is as plain as words can make it, and is as binding would not go, and thus leave them the hills and dales of that locality.

"On many accounts I think his coming among us to be regretted. His attempt to form a new Church is contrary to the spirit now prevalent among christians which is towards closer union, that towards disunion. Our local circumstances here were greatly improved by the late union.
