was when he came to me there and called me his wife—I killed him."

Mrs. Cameron fell back from her.
"Oh, I didn't mean to kill him," the girl cried distractedly. "He came near Pleases the most exacting tastes. Quality - Economy - Purity - Flavor Always Assured.

The Pioneers

BY KATHARINE SUSANNAH PRICHARD

Copyright by Hodder and Stoughton.

CHAPER XLVII.—(Cont'd.)

"You couldn't have married McNab for any reason of choice." Mrs. Cameron was torn between grief, bewilderment and compassion. "Davey is breaking his heart about it, out on the hills somewhere, now. I had to tell him when he came in, for fear—the wholl's to be done about it. Deirdre? to do something for him."

There was a few moments' silence.
"Only, after all"—a weary bitterness surged in her voice—"it was no good. McNab was too clever for me.
He trapped me—and sold father all the same—and Steve, poor old Stevie, too. M'Laughlin took him down to the Port this afternoon. I heard him crying like a baby. When I asked McNab why he had broken his word What's to be done about it, Deirdre? Oh, I'm not wanting to blame you. You did it for a good reason, I'm sure, and you love Davey. It's hard on you,

Deirdre. You do love him?"
"Yes," Deidre said slowly.
Mrs. Cameron knelt beside chair. Her hands trembled on chair. Her hands trembled on the girl's arm.

"Don't touch me," Deirdre gasped, moving out of the reach of her hands. "Don't touch me," she whispered again, eyeing her strangely.

"Davey—I'm afraid what he'll do if he sees you" . . . Mrs. Cameron hesitated.

Deirdre spread the Port this afternoon. I heard him crying like a baby. When I asked McNab why he had broken his word to me, he said"—a little sick laughter struggled from her—" that, blind as father was, he knew he'd have to reckon, with him for having taken me, if he ever came back to the Wirree."

She sank back in the chair shivertated.

Deirdre sprang out of the chair, her eyes blazing.

"Davey! Davey! It's all Davey with you!" she cried. "You sacrificed father to him. You sent him to that trial. I know now. And Davey—why trial. I know now. And Davey—why couldn't he have gone to goal instead? He's young and strong and it wouldn't have mattered so much to him. He's got all his life before him. But father had, it had a support to head, it had a support to head. have mattered so much to him. He's got all his life before him. But father —hadn't he done enough for you? Hasn't he given his eyes for you? Hasn't he worshipped you all these years? I've seen it since I was a child. And is this all you could do for him, send him to the Law Courts to get Davey off, knowing that it would be worse than death to him to have to get the courts the c And is this all you could do for him, send him to the Law Courts to get Davey off, knowing that it would be worse than death to him to have to go to prison again? Oh, you knew what he'd have to suffer in Davey's place."

Mrs. Cameron put her hands over her face.

"You knew he couldn't afford to come under the notice of the law," Deirdre said. "But I shouldn't talk like this—"

Her voice trailed wearily.

"Only—I had to choose between "She was sobbing breathlessly; her She was sobbing breathlessly; her Deirdre said.

like this——"

Her voice trailed wearily.

"Only—I had to choose between father and Davey. McNab knows all the old story. You do, I know. Steve told me. McNab scared the wits out of Steve one day when he was by himself and got all the proofs he wanted, though he seems to have had the facts—most of them, anyway—before. Then he fall me—what being at large behands went out before her with a desperate despairing gesture. She moved to the McNab scared the wits out of Steve one day when he was by himself and got all the proofs he wanted, though he seems to have had the facts mosts of them, anyway—before. Then he told me—what being at large before the expiration of sentence meant, and what his information would do it he used it, about father, when the trial was on. He said that he wouldn't use it if I'd marry him."

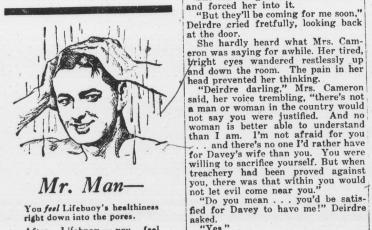

Mrs. Cameron stared at her. Deirdre went on, her voice dragging as if she could scarcely put into words the onin and trouble of her mind.

"I couldn't let father suffer any more. I couldn't bear to think what it would be for him to go back there to the Island," she said. "He, blind. ... and loving me so ... and you and both of us willing to sacrifice him to Davey. I could see him going over there, hurt and alone, in the dark, the dear, great, genthe heart of him crying for those he loved to be near him, to hear the sound of their voices, to touch their hands. I couldn't endure it. Oh, I couldn't."

Her head dropped. "He has made sacrifices all his life. His eyes for you——"

"Ohon't say that, Deirdre!"

"

Mr. Man-

You feel Lifebuoy's healthiness

After Lifebuoy - you feel cleaner than you have ever felt asked. "Yes."

"Yes."
Mrs. Cameron's eyes were on hers.
"You'd not be throwing it up at me that I... that I did this?" Deirdre inquired. "And that father—"
"No." Mrs. Cameron's voice was very low. "Because if I had been served as your father was—I'd have een a convict too."

In the shock of what she had said,

In the shock of what she had said, Deirdre forgot her own trouble.

"You?" she whispered.
"That's what I wanted to tell you ... it's been locked in my heart so long ... and nobody else knows," Mrs. Cameron said. "It's because I

The delight and comfort of using Lifebuoy are famous around the world.

LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP think it may help you, Deirdre, now that your soul is in the deep waters, that your soul is in the deep waters, I want you to know . . that something like what has happened to you happened to me, long ago. Only I had less excuse."

had less excuse."

Her face was torn with grief; she turned from the girl, overwhelmed by the flood-tide of dark memories.

"Oh, I can't think of it without all the flood-tide of dark memories.

"Oh, I can't think of it without all the agony again." she cried.

And after a moment continued:

"I didn't want to bring shame on my people by having it known... I had been the cause of death to a man... but the weight was on my soul. I had heard of people escaping public trial by condemning themselves to transportation. It was the only way I could have any peace of mind. I thought—taking on myself the punishment other women had got for doing what I did. But it was never as bad for me as for them. Davey's father saw me on the wharf among the emigrant women, and he wanted to marry me. There was a Government bounty—thirty pounds, I think it was—given to married couples coming to the colony, and he wanted the money to begin with in the new country. I told him why I was going out, and he was willing to take me. There were terrible days of fear among all the rough people I found myself with . . . till he came. I was grateful to him, and swore to be a good and faithful wife to him.

"I've not spoken of this since then, to him.

"I've not spoken of this since then, Deirdre. I'm telling you because I want you not to throw your life away want you not to throw your life away —not to waste it. I know I was wrong.
There was this difference between what you did and what I did. I was not in a corner, fighting for my life as you were. I did not mean to take life. I did not mean to. It was an accident, really. Right was on my side, but I was angry, or the accident would never have happened. I have suffered from knowing that. All these years have made little difference.
That's why I was always wanting to help convicts and prisoners in the old days—and it angered Davey's father days—and it angered Davey's father so. I felt that they were suffering what I ought to have been suffering

(To be concluded.)

The Hidden Heart. I hid my heart away, It was my own,

Were mine alone I feared a thief might come Prowling in stealth To rob my treasury,

All of its hidden stores

Came Life, the trader, by Wishing to trade; Bright gauds he offered me That would not fade.

Steal all my wealth

So Life, the trader, said-Ah, they shone fair-I brought my treasure forth To buy a share!

Passed Life, the trader, by With all my gold-I was quite satisfied With what he sold.

Ah, but they did not last, Those gauds so bright! Soon passed their beauty-soon Passed my delight.

Again I hide my heart, Lest they should pity me,

Roselle Mercier Montgomery.

A Wrong Impression. A young man, becoming engaged, was anxious to present his flancee with a ring apropriately inscribed. Being at a loss what to have en graved upon it, he asked his father for

"Well," said the latter, "put 'When A few days later the young woman was surprised to receive a beautiful

About the House

EDUCATED BY A GRINDSTONE. plates for a party. Below are hooks

"I'll be fifty-seven tomorrow," smiled Mrs. Plaegar, rocking on the verandah of her white-and-green farm house, "and it seems as though it were only a few years are when the house that house is a series of the se only a few years ago when the boys were small."

She sighed again. "Those were the years when it was hard pulling. My husband died when the children were very young. The The farm was heavily mortgaged and we had to stretch the pennies until they fairly squealed. My friends told me ought to work in my spare time.

I could not sew. My have done? fingers had become too clumsy with farm work to handle a needle deli-oately and work of other kinds would demand that I leave the farm which

I could not do.
"Well, things went on for a while. I continued to do the manual work to which I was accustomed. I had always liked a man's work better than a wo-man's and I had quite a knack for handling tools.

"One tool I liked especially was an old grindstone in the barnyard on which I sharpened my knives. One day a neighbor, viewing with envy my shining and keen steel knives said, 'I wonder if you would be willing to sharpen my knives? such splendid work and I would gladly pay

"I consented and that was the beginning of a little business. Other scissors and I charged according to the size of the utensils. I used to send the boys to 'gather them 'in' for me and sometimes they would bring home three or four dozen which they had labeled with the names of the owners. Soap and cleaning fluids. The next day they would return them, And how farm wobright and sharp. men need keen tools!

"As my somewhat unique business increased, I bought a polishing machine and I soon received more orders cups. than ever. One order which pleased deficient at polishing steel knives and, meat. if I did good work, they would be willing to give all their work to me. With housewives, too, this task is a dreaded one, and my bank began to increase, accordingly. I followed up every opportunity and, of course, business brought more business.

"My business never forced me to neglect my farm duties. I always d the work on my own premises where I could oversee the work of the farm

"The boys say they owe their col-lege education to the old grindstone and that is perhaps the reason we never parted with it. To us, it shall always be, a much loved and honored member of the family."

A "SERVANTLESS" HOME.

arranged, an unsightly pantry was able piece of work can be done on the converted into an attractive breakfast sewing machine. oom, cupboards and cabinet built in kitchen, with a place for everything, including the fireless cooker.

cupboard for kettles, pans, lids and on each side of the seam, as the stitchdishpan.

Above the sink is a shelf convenient Minard's Liniment for Coughs & Colds for placing jars during, canning or

A DIFFERENCE ABOUT A BIRD

"Here, Frenchy, that's no good. If you kill the goose, who'll lay our

"John, that bird isn't going to lay any golden eggs for us. It is only

A rack of wooden spoons is placed at end of drain board with towel arms below. On the shelf above the stove I keep salt, pepper, matches and a box in which to put burnt matches and scraps of paper to be burned in the furnace later. I keep steel wool for cleaning alum inum and glass baking dishes. I wash spare time and besides, who could I dishes in hot soap suds, place in a wire drainer and scald both sides. They dry perfectly without wiping.

> food to the dining room and the dishes to the kitchen. Telephone on the farthest wall of the dining room was removed to a desk near the kitchen door, thus eliminating several steps when the 'phone is used and enabling me to sit while talking.

A homemade tea wagon conveys the

A vacuum cleaner is one of my greatest labor-savers. Then came dust died recently, was certainly not search mops, wall brush, chemically treated ing for them when in 1895 his eyes for duster for baseboards and dustless the first time beheld a light more dust cloths made of old stockings and powerful than any ever known before. a little furniture polish.

A long-handled dust pan saves stooping. With stationary tubs, run-ning water, a power washer and covered by a shield of black cardboard wringer, a large washing is done in when he became conscious of a faint, a few hours. The wide ironing board greenish, flickering light on a paper was made to order; a small clothes which he had painted with a flouresginning of a little business. Other was made to order; a small clothes was made to order; a small clothes was made to order; a small clothes cent chemical preparation.

The value of this ray to medicine has clothes for the electric iron.

An extension telephone upstairs

Other labor-savers that cost only a where the mischief lay. few cents are egg poacher, dish mop, long-handled fork, can opener, grater, mixing bowls, funnels, tea ball, pota- or foreign matter. to ricer, egg beater and measuring

A pressure cooker saves time, labor told me their employees were most and canning vegetables, fruit and doing ever-increasing work in the serand fuel in cooking combination meals

A homemade fireless cooker cooks

the meal while I work or motor.

It is apparatus of this sort com common sense in house planning that makes the "servantless house" possible and the mistress of the home is not wearing herself out er useless annoyances that arise in housekeeping problems.-Mrs. G. E. S.

TO PATCH OVERALLS.

Since the price of denim and overalls continues high, it behooves the thrifty housemother to make each pair of these work garments serve its full time. Usually the front of the legs, especially the knees, receive the hardest wear, this part often reaching e "holey" stage while the remainder of the garment is still stout and cap-Ours is a "servantless house" and able of considerable wear. Instead of labor-saving devices have made this unsightly and laboriously applied possible. First, the kitchen was re- hand patches, a neater and more dur-

First rip the inside leg seam from hem to hem, in order to get the gar-ment under the foot of the machine. A small sink was replaced with a large one, placed at the right height. A slop sink was removed and a long plished by cutting through the hem drain-board added, under which is a at the bottom of the leg and pulling pressure cooker. Also a drawer for es have been weakened by wear and linen, closet for garbage pail, shelf washing. If the stitches hold, rip the under sink for cleaners, soap and seam with the discarded blade of a safety razor.

From the unworn portions from the back of the legs of a discarded pair of overalls-or from new denim, if no partly-worn material is at hand-cut patches almost the width of the leg and long enough to extend from the crotch to well below the knee, taking in all the worn portion. Pin the patches in place-the experienced seamstress will find basting unnecessaryturn under the edges at top, bottom and outside of leg, and stitch in place with number 40 thread. The fourth side of the patch is taken up in the inside leg seam.

Starting at the bottom of the leg, stitch up the leg seam from hem to hem in an ordinary raw seam, keeping to the outer row of former stitching to give a neat appearance to the finished work. This seam can not be felled on the ordinary household machine, nor is this necessary, as the width of the old seam is sufficient to prevent pulling out if coarse thread

Health Before Beauty.

Two Irishmen who had not met for years ran across each other.

"Long time since we met, Clancy, isn't it? Great things have happened since then," said the first.
"Yes, indeed Look at myself. Shure it's married I am," replied Clancy. 'You don't tell me? Have you any family?" asked O'Grady. "Faith and I have that. I've a fine healthy boy, and the neighbors say he's the picture of me." O'Grady looked at Clancy, who wasn't built on the line of a prize beauty. "Ah, well, what's the harm so long as the crild's healthy?" The newest range finder in England can locate objects at 22 miles.

-From the Sydney Lanedh. | Minard's Liniment for Corns and Warts

After Every Meal

In work or play, it gives the poise and steadiness that mean success.

It helps digestion, allays thirst, keep-ing the mouth cool and moist, the throat muscles relaxed and pliant and the nerves at ease.

Our Most Powerful Light.

The discovery of X-rays was a lucky accident. Professor Rontgen, who He was experimenting in a darkened room with a Crookes tube, stimulated been incalculable. Prior to its discosts but little extra a month and covery the position of an internal insaves many steps. A closet upstairs jury had to be guessed, and a patient

The rays have caused the death of many experimenters since their discovery by Rontgen, but, fortunately, those days are past, and the X-ray is Courtesy Misunderstood.

Boy Scout (small but polite)-"May accompany you across the street,

Old Lady-"Certainly you may, my lad. How long have you been writing here for somebody to take you across?"

Covetousness is always filling a bottomless vessel.

Crochet and Fancy Needle-Workers Want:d We sell your goods on consignment; out-of-town, send stan p for reply. Lingerie and Specialty Shop, 120 Danforth Avenue, Toronto. WHEN IN TORONTO VISIT THE Royal Ontario Museum

253 Bioor St. West, Near Avenue Road. Largest permanent exhibition in Canada. Archaeology, Geology, Mineralogy, Palaeontelogy, Zoology. Open daily, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m. Bloor, Belt Line, Dupont and Avenue Road cars.

that bring the largest return are those properly protected. You can write with confidence to our firm for free report as to patentability. Send for List of Ideas and Literature. Correspondence invited.

THE BAMSAY CO.
Patent Attorneys
878 Bank St.

Oftawa, Ont.

ISSUE No. 18-123