THE LAMENT OF THE GOLFER.

The days are growing short, alas!
The mellow autumn's here!
The grapes are crimson in the press,
The leaves are pale and sore.

The grass is yellow on the meads,
The hills are blue with haze;
The cider mill begins to hum—
Ah, doleful autumn days!

Across the spreading fields the scent
Of roses comes no more;
The fence is bare that was so fair
With fragrant peas before!

The summer's dead! The robin sings
Its farewell to the lark,
And oh, it's such a little while
From 3 o'clock till dark!

AT CAMP MEETING

A Reminder of the Gatherings of Fifty Years Ago.

A Thousand Voices Joined in Singing Old-time Hymns.

Rev. Chancellor Burwash of Victoria University, in an interview with the Toronto Star, gave some interesting particulars of the great Christian Island, Georgian Bay, from which Dr. Burwash has just returned. This was the first encampment of the kind the doctor has attended, and therefore was to him especially interesting.

"The camp," he said, "was a distinctly Indian camp. There were full contingents from six Indian bands, among them Indians of Christian Island, Cape Croker, Parry Island, Rama and Georgian Islands. Altogether there were from 800 to 1,000 Indians present."

"The camp was conducted in the good old-fashioned way, which brought back to one's mind memories of the early days. There was the early morning prayer meeting, then three services each day, Bible reading in the morning, and on the Sabbath morning there was early Methodist class meetings throughout the encampment, and a great love feast and sacramental service in the afternoon. The meetings were characterized by great religious fervor, there being many conversions, attended with manifestations of the peculiar physical phenomena which was a feature of former great revivals, notably the Ulster revival of 1860. There must have been at least 20 cases of men being carried out in a complete state of exhaustion, brought on by their enthusiasm. But they all came out of this state seemingly perfectly happy. Such scenes are seldom seen now."

"The services closed with the old-fashioned march around the grounds, and with a general hand-shaking all round."

"There were two notable features of the meeting, with which I was greatly pleased. The first was the remarkable showing by the Indian lay preachers. An address would be delivered by a white minister, and this would be followed by a sermon by one of the Indian preachers. In the delivery of these sermons the Indian lay preachers took part, their eloquence and the natural gracefulness of their gestures were most remarkable. There was none of the wild waving of the hands, nor any of the jerky movements sometimes seen in other places. Every movement was graceful and natural."

"Then their singing was magnificent. Many of the tunes I had not heard for 40 years. Sometimes over a thousand voices would take part, and the effect was something ever to be remembered. It gave me the greatest pleasure."

"A series of these camp meetings has been arranged extending over five years, which, from a moral and social point of view, I consider will be of the greatest importance as bearing upon the well-being of the Indians. The bringing of them together under such influences cannot but have the most beneficial effect."

"The only annoyance we had was from some liquor dealers who tried to introduce liquor on the grounds. Several cases of whiskey were seized by the constables. I saw no evidence, however, that the liquor men succeeded in their efforts."

"These meetings commenced as far back as 1861, when a small party of Indians from Georgian Island strolled into a prayer-meeting, and were converted. About the same time the methodist church had nine mission stations, attended by 2,000 Indians, and 11 schools, attended by 400 children. The present gathering is the result of work commenced 75 years ago. As a result of this work, the Indians on many of the reserves, for the purity and simplicity of their lives will compare favorably with many other Christian communities. They are as honest as the day, scrupulously so."

"The houses on Christian Island are built with logs, and those that I entered were clean and comfortable, in some cases being tastefully furnished. They do not live on their farms, but live together in villages, after their old tribal fashion. They have farms of 50 acres and more in extent outside their villages."

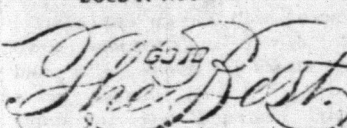

"The pagan village on Christian Island, I am told, is now entirely deserted, the old medicine man, the last one to stand out against the Christian belief, having taken up his abode on a deserted island, where he lives all alone."

A REMARKABLE PLANT.

The dwarf plant of the oster tribe (Siphium laciniatum), which grows wild in Texas, serves the purpose of a compass. The leaves of this remarkable plant point due north and south, and are in consequence utilized by belated prairie hunters as substitutes for the magnetic needle. The plant is perennial, and attains a maximum height of three to six inches. The peculiar propensity of its foliage is attributed to the fact that both surfaces of its leaves display an equal receptivity for light. All the other known varieties of the Siphium class are characterized by the presence on the lower surface of their leaves of from twice to three as many respiratory vessels as are contained on the upper surface, which is therefore the more sensitive of the two to the influence of light. But both surfaces of the laciniatum variety are clothed alike with an epidermis exceptionally receptive of light, and the same instinct of its leaves that prompts them to require an equal distribution of light upon each surface causes them to assume a vertical position, and to point due north and south, one flap of each leaf thus facing the east and the other the west.

The Canada Business College
CHATHAM, ONT.

Is doing more for its pupils than any other business school in Canada, or, perhaps, than any other on the continent. How can we do this?

First. By giving them a practical, not a theoretical, preparation for business life.

Second. The business public has learned that there is this vast difference between the graduates of this school and those of other colleges, hence the strong demand for our graduates, which has enabled 230 to be placed in good positions between Sept. 30, and July, 1900, a period of ten months.

The good work still goes on, and 72 have been placed between July 1st and Sept. 1st of this year.

Have you noticed that this is the only school in Canada that publishes a list of its pupils placed? Some other schools make great claims to be doing wonders in this direction, but never publish the list so that the public can be assured of the correctness of the claim.

OOM PAUL'S GOLD.

Will Britain Allow Him to Take It to Holland?

PELL TO HIS DEATH.

Ballooning's Fall at St. Joseph Witnessed by 5,000 People.

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 22.—L. J. Kohler, the balloonist who has been making daily ascensions during the carnival here, was hurled from his parachute and dashed head first on to a cement sidewalk 20 feet below. He was removed to a neighboring hotel, where doctors examined him and discovered a crack in the skull, running from the left ear a distance of several inches. His death is only a matter of a few hours.

The accident was caused by the balloon catching in the electric street car wires as it was ascending. Five thousand people witnessed the awful accident.

HER HEART'S HARD.

Mrs. Jim Corbett Rejects Overtures of Reconciliation From Prize Fighter.

New York, Sept. 22.—New and unexpected complications appeared yesterday in the matrimonial difficulties besetting Corbett and his wife, who are at present separated by the Atlantic. It came in the shape of a telegram from London addressed to Mrs. Corbett, as follows:

Stories about woman false. Come over here quick, darling. Will prove it. Love you only. Answer. JIM.

Hotel Cecil, Sept. 18.

Despite this appeal, Mrs. Corbett is unrelenting. His cable message is answered, "I have not answered it, and will not condescend to enter into any further parley with him. I will press my suit."

TRANSVAAL PLOT.

Roberts Has Made a Lengthy Report Concerning It.

London, Sept. 22.—The war office has issued a lengthy report from Roberts regarding the Johannesburg plot to overthrow the British garrison and murder the officers. "Consuls of America, Germany, France and Sweden, subjects of which nations were arrested," he says, "met and fully discussed the case with the British officials. The interview was most satisfactory. The consuls entirely concurred with the British action, and promised every assistance."

Roberts adds that he forthwith ordered the deportation of all foreigners arrested in connection with the plot, whose behavior their respective consuls could not vouch. Otherwise, very few foreigners were deported, except employees of the Netherlands railway, who refused to participate in the war. The Netherlands government will demand compensation for their expulsion.

AN IRISH JUDGE.

Lord Morris, always a wit and now a distinguished judge, comes from Galway, and has never lost the mellifluous brogue of West of Ireland folk. This characteristic makes the groundwork of a story which the London Telegraph tells of him.

One day Lord Morris was sitting at the Four Courts as Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, when a young barrister from the north rose nervously to make his first motion. The judge had declared that no one north of himself would ever take him for anything but an Irish man, which was perfectly correct. But Galway could not understand Antrim. The local chief justice leaned over to ask the associate where the barrister hailed from.

"County Antrim," was the response.

Then asked his lordship of the official: "Did ye ever come across such a frightful act in the course of your life?"

At another time it fell to his lot to hear a case at Coleraine, in which damages were claimed from a veterinary surgeon for having poisoned a valuable horse. The issue depended upon whether a certain number of grains of a particular drug could be safely administered to the animal. The dispensary doctor proved that he had given eight grains to a man, from which it was to be inferred that twelve for a horse was not excessive.

"Never mind yer eight grains, doctor," said the judge. "We all know that some poisons are cumulative in effect, and ye may go to the edge of ruin with impunity. But tell me this: The twelve grains—wouldn't they kill the devil himself if he swallowed them?"

The doctor was annoyed and pompously replied: "I don't know, my lord; I never had him for a patient."

From the bench came the answer: "Ah, no, doctor, ye never had, more's the pity! The old boy's still alive."

THE BEAUTY OF FORBEARANCE.

How many persons, perhaps of fine abilities and magnanimous virtues, we one and all say we would wish to live with, because they are nervous and capacious and spark! Would you make yourself dear to every domestic scene you enter, form the habit of forbearance, and all your kindred will bless your face for its own benediction. Your very coming in at the door shall be as a balm; and that comfort is not insignificant which is repeated, a drop of sweetness in every draught, a thousand and a million times. While the effect of forbearance will be not only to make you comfortable to others, but to deepen the power and harmonize the development of your own soul.

—C. A. Bartol.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S SUCCESS.

Winston Churchill has probably made a better thing out of the Transvaal war than anybody else. He has drawn a larger salary than has ever been heard of before for a war correspondent. He had accepted an offer of $50,000 to lecture in America. His book will have an enormous sale. He has made a journalistic reputation that is worth a big income, he has gained a position as a public man, and he has earned a safe seat in Parliament. All this in his twenties!

Learn to stop croaking. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. If you cannot see any good in this world, keep the bad to yourself.

Facing the Future.

There comes a time to most women when they must face the future of widowhood and motherhood. What that future has in store for them depends largely upon themselves.

To a healthy woman the obligations and consequences of marriage are a lasting happiness. To a woman suffering from irregularity or other ailments of the sex, marriage may prove a mockery and motherhood a misery. Where such irregularity exists Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be used with the assurance that health will speedily be restored. It is the most reliable medicine known to medical science for the cure of diseases which affect the delicate womanly organs.

"Favorite Prescription" is a non-alcoholic medicine and is also free from opium cocaine and other narcotics.

"At an early stage of married life," writes Mrs. Flora Ann of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo., "I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also troublesome drains which rendered me very weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so bone, my husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got me two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly. I owe all praise to Dr. Pierce and his wonderful curative medicines."

NOAH'S DELUGE.

An Ohio Professor Proposes to Prove That It Was Universal

And Will Dig Some Holes in Siberia and Elsewhere to Find the Flood's Traces.

New York, Sept. 22.—Rev. Dr. R. S. Gregory, editor of the Homiletic Review, has just received a letter from Rev. Dr. George Frederick Wright, of Oberlin college, Ohio, which discloses the object of a trip which Professor Wright has started to make through Siberia. He is considered an authority on the glacial period of the earth's geological history and refuses to accept the theory that the deluge merely submerged the regions round about Palestine. He believes that when the waters covered "the face of the earth," he meant it.

Prof. Wright will go through the mountains of Siberia, far from where men ordinarily go. There he will make excavations. He will dig up the earth until, with the geologist's eye, he discovers just that stratum which should have been deposited during the period in which the deluge took place. Next he will explore the Caucasus range, pass down to ancient Ararat, where tradition says the ark landed, and emerge from his travels somewhere near Smyrna, Asia Minor.

If in all the mountain regions he explores Dr. Wright finds the remains of the sea for which he looks, he will conclude that the deluge was an historical fact.
