A very successful concert and teameeting was held at Calvin on the evening of October 23. On the preceding Sunday anniversary services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Battisby, of Chatham. The evening program was furnished by outside talent. Our popular young member from West Kent, Herbert S. Clements, was present and gave a splendid address. The star of the evening was Miss Myrtle Kennedy, whose reditations were heartily enco-d. Miss Kennedy is a graduate of Alma College, St. Thomas, and displays more than ordinary talent in her chosen work. Miss Clark, of Sarnia, and Mr. Ray Clancy, of Mitchell's Bay, also appeared several times on the program and 'were well received. Rev. Mr. Nichols, of Wallaceburg, made a capital chairman. Junior is the first newspaper in Canada- and perhaps in the world—to offer a gold medal to the scholar who could write the best essay on offer a gold medal to the scholar who could write the best essay on 'Our School.' I think The Planet Junior showed considerable originality and great enterprise in offering the medal, and much wisdom in selecting the subject. Every one of us knows something about 'Our School,' and I have no doubt that more were hadued to write for the prize on account of the subject than had any 6ther been chosen.

We all realize the value of being about 'Our School,' and make it known to the public in the quickest, most concise and pleasing manner possible. Our freat Home Journal, The Planet whose editors are noted for their skill in pen pictures and for possissessing gifts of clear and graceful expression—is to be commended for stimulating the desire in the boys and girls of Kent to improve their talents in composition. The teachers of Kent are to be commended for encouraging their pupils to enter the competition for the best essay on 'Our School,' and the boys and girls who wrote for the prize—whether they secured the medal or not deserve commendation for their ambitions in entering the race to secure the medal. The Hon. Minister of Education shows by his presence here they send scholars of Kent to improve their ambitions in entering the race to secure the medal. The Hon. in connection with these expreises, as he is becoming almost as well known and popular in Chatham as in his own town of Ridgetown. Our own Archie is always with us and we are glad that he is—nothing too good can be said about him. I have no doubt that some of these bright boys will be taking his place in Parliament when they become old and lose their hair on the top of their head like he has.

Now, voys and girls, you know that the word essay is derived from the French word "essaye" and means "to french word "essaye" and means "to try," The object The Planet Junior had in view was not to find out who could write the best essay, but to induce the boys and girls of Kent "to try," and write well about something which was familiar to them all. To write well in good old Anglo-Saxon is the most efarming accomplishment possible to acquire. Many good speakers and elever people are unable to write a good letter or composition because they have not been taught to try and express their thoughts in writing when they were young. That is what The Planet Junior desires to prevent in Kent, and from the number of essays sent in f think it will succeed. My word of counsel to you is keep on trying to improve your gifts of composition and it will be the source of greatest pleasure and satisfaction to you and probably of much profit in the days of your maturity.

As you all, no doubt, are aware nearly 100 essays were sent in during the recent competition—hundreds more were written but were not sent in—and were examined by the local judges. There were a great many more than fourteen very excellent iterary-productions, but the local judges did not wish to burden the Hon. Minister of Education, who was the final judge, with too many, so we selected only fourteen which we thought especially worthy—and girls who will do credit to their and girls who will do credit to their and girls who will do redit to their antive heath and who will bring glory to our dear old County of Dr. Pyne considered that Miss Kathleen Mannion, of the Separate school, and Master L. Thornton, of the Central school, were close competitors for the medal, and he is giving silver medals to these two talented young essayists.
