The final hearing of the important fish case between Costigan and others of Harbor Main and Mr. P. J. Shea of the city, took place in court at noon to-day. This case occupied the attention of Judge Conroy for several days past, and was a test on craft freighting. After the last witness was examined the Judge summed up the evidence and dismissed the case. Morris K.C. appeared for plaintiffs, Higgins for defendant.

Row on Train.

A mix up occurred on the shore train last night between Tilton and Bay Roberts. The cause of the row, we learn, were two men, who were drunk and who boarded the train while on route from Carbonear. An altercation arose between them and the brakeman and several hot blows were exchanged. Others, we hear, interfered. As a result of the fracas some of the second class passengers left the train. The men who caused the row will be summoned to court by the Company for assaulting the employee in the discharge of his duty.

At noon the house of Mr. Crocker caught fire. While the fire was in progress on the North Battery Road to-day about a dozen women (no men being around) formed a bucket brigade, fought the flames hard, and were responsible for extinguishing the blaze after an hour's tedious work, but not before the house was badly gutted. A few of the women, we were informed, had their arms burnt.

The Iron Men.

When the north wind roars at your cottage doors and batters the window panes, and the cold's so fierce that it seems to pierce right into your bones and veins, then it's sweet to sit by the fire and knit, and think, while the needles clank, of the iron men, of the shining yen, you have in the village bank! When you've lost your job and misfortunes rob your face of its wonted grin, when the money goes for your grub and clothes, though there's nothing coming in; when the fates are rough and they kick and cuff and give you a frequent spank, how sweet to think of the buch of chink you have in the village bank! When you're gray and old and your feet are cold, and the night is drawing on; when you're tired and weak and your joints all creak, and he strength of youth is gone; when on watch and wait at the sunset gate for the boatman grim and lank, it's nice to know there's a roll of dough all safe in the village bank! The worst, my friend, that the fates can send, is softened for you and yours if you have the price, have the coin on ice—the best of all earthly cures; oh, a healthy wad is your staff and rod when the luck seems tough and rank; your consolers then are the iron men you have in the village bank!

At the Theatre.

The pupils of Bishop Spencer College gave a faithful production of "A Midsummer Night Dream" at the Casino Theatre last night. It is a Shakespearean play brimful of comedy and interest. The proceeds were for the benefit of the Field-Spencer fund, hence there was a large attendance. Amongst those present were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Williams. The different characters were creditably sustained by the performers, and it would be unfair to make special mention of any one, as all gave fine portrayals that delighted the audience. There was an agreeable surprise for all who attended at the histrionic talent displayed by those who took part. His Excellency the Governor expressed the pleasure it afforded him to witness such a pleasing performance and heartily applauded the youthful performers. The following was the cast: Theseus—Duke of Athens—Reeta Blackall. Egeus, Father to Hermia—Elsie Penston. Lysander and Demetrius, in love with Hermia—Laura Burgess and Althes Hayward. Philostrate, Master of the revels to Theseus—Marjorie Barr. Quince, a Carpenter—Agnes Anderson. Snug—A Joiner—Olive Bishop. Bottom, a Weaver—Vera Hayward. Flute, a Bellows Mender—Johanna Russell. Snout, a Tinker—Lillabelle Oke. Starveling, a Tailor—Doris Rennie. Hippolyta, Queen of the Amazons betrothed to Theseus—Lily Stafford. Hermia, daughter to Egeus, in love with Lysander—Olive Hayward. Helena, in love with Demetrius—Marjorie Crane. Oberon, King of the Fairies—Mildred Coen. Titania, Queen of the Fairies—Gwendoline Edwards. Puck, or Robin Goodfellow—Joyce Dunfield. Pease-Blossom, Cobweb, Moth, Mustard Seed—Fairies. Other fairies attending their King and Queen. Elves, Attendants on Theseus and Hippolyta. SCENE—Athens, and a wood near it.
