

Revival of Sunday Games Favored by Church.

Southend-On-Sea.—A return to the Sunday games that made England "merry" was advocated at the Church Congress here.

The Bishop of Sheffield, spoke on the Christian ethics of amusement. There has been, he said, a great change with regard to the theatre, dancing, cards, billiards and the cinema. He believed the drama to be one of the highest forms of recreation. No self-respecting person would frequent some dances, he said, but that there was more ugliness than wickedness in some of the fantastic dances so popular after the war. He believed, however, that these were gradually disappearing, except among the inherently vulgar. The Christian who was a kill-joy was a caricature of Christianity, he said.

The Rev. Canon J. H. Adderley, told how the Basque, Bay of Biscay people danced the fandango on Sunday evening, and said: "I should like to see that at Convent Garden, but I shall have to wait for a 'blue moon' before it is done. I should like to see the cowly fathers go to the theatre and to see the Archbishop of Canterbury organizing and playing in a cricket match at Lambeth."

Canon Pierce, Vicar and Rural Dean of Brighton, said he saw nothing incongruous in men, women and children going straight from Church to the recreation ground or proceeding from a round of golf to Evensong. The Church had no quarrel with Sunday games; but was it not possible to ask the nation seriously whether we wanted the Sunday to disappear in an orgy of lobbies and motor-coaches. The scenes on Sunday on the roads from London to certain south coast holiday resorts were sometimes deplorable, he said.

Miss Sybil Thordike, the actress, received a great reception. She pleaded for a better understanding of the stage by the Church. "How few there are in this workaday world," she said, "who have told the truth to a clergyman."

"What we ask the Church to support is that the theatre should be in the hands of artists, that it should be free to present all aspects of life as the artist sincerely sees them. We want a theatre which speaks the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

The Rev. Dr. Percy Dearmer speaking on Sunday amusements said:

"Every man should have at least one day and a half for rest out of the seven. This involves the cessation of animal inactivity. Rest is not only repose but also recreation."

He urged outdoor games, including cricket, which he described as the laziest game on earth. They should be organized by the Church, he said, and churchmen must oppose Sunday theatres, not because theatres were wrong, but because they employ a large amount of labor. They must oppose the Parisian Sunday, but not tennis, or golf, or perhaps in Utopia there would be a chapel near the last hole, he said.

The Rev. G. H. Dymock, organizing secretary of the Church Pictorial Movement, read a paper upon the Church and the Cinema. "The screen," he said, "is now, and will rapidly become more so, the workingman's book, and just as Caxton and Tyndale gave the printing press and the Bible to the masses of their day, so it will fall to the lot of the film exhibitors to provide the toilers of our more artless times with treasures of ancient and modern literature."

The following clipping is taken from the Toronto World dated November 23rd, 1920:

TO SAVE FISHERMEN FROM HEAVY LOSSES.

Nfld. Govt. Proposes to Guarantee Purchases of Codfish.

"St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 23.—The Newfoundland Government is taking active steps with a view to preventing serious loss to the fishermen of the Colony as a result of the prevailing low prices for fish. Sir Alexander Harris, Governor of Newfoundland, conferred to-day with William F. Coaker, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and Acting Premier, and James Arthur Paddon, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, regarding a proposition that the Government should guarantee purchases of codfish.

A great amount of fish caught off the Labrador Coast during last season and cured at Newfoundland fishing ports remain unsold. This is explained as largely due to the fact that because of differences in exchange rates and other abnormal conditions, there has been a very poor market in the Mediterranean ports, which ordinarily absorb most of the Labrador product."

This Morning's Fire.

A call from box 233 brought the Central and East End fire companies at 1.45 a.m. to Fleming Street. The men responded quickly and were confronted with a slight blaze, a shed owned by T. Pafford at the junction of Fleming and Belvedere Streets having ignited through live coals blowing out of an ash pile that had been put in the streets a few minutes earlier by one of the residents. The blaze was quenched by the efforts of the firemen before much damage was done. Driving to the fire, Driver Squires of the ladder truck, narrowly escaped serious injury. While passing at the top of Father Walsh's Hill, the wheels of the truck skidded and Squires was thrown to the street, barely escaping coming in contact with a telephone pole. He held the reins, however, and managed to bring up the horses and get back on the truck and continue to the fire. Although somewhat cut about the face and hands, and in spite of the severe shaking he had received, he was able to perform his duties in helping extinguish the blaze.

Elks' New Clubrooms.

The principal business before last night's meeting of Newfoundland, No. 1, Elks was the matter of club rooms. After some discussion it was decided to rent the rooms in the Smallwood building lately vacated by the St. Andrew's Society, and it is expected that they will be ready for use shortly. An enjoyable card tournament was held after the meeting, two splendid prizes being offered. The nomination of officers for 1921 will take place on the 13th of next month, and election will be held a week later. Membership in the Elks is rapidly on the increase and will be augmented still more when the new club rooms are taken over.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—I was very pleased a few days ago to read the resolutions passed at a meeting of the N.F.W.A. recommending to members to support local industry. If this were carried out by the whole population buying only goods made in Nfld., it would considerably alter present conditions. The purchases of only Nfld. made goods should be loyally observed by every man, woman and child in the country.

Let us make the slogan "Buy Only Goods Made in Nfld." and keep the factories running, which find employment for so many. Every dollar spent on an imported article only assists in building up a foreign factory.

I remain, Yours truly,

King Dog Fancier.

King Henry III. of France loved dogs and had as many as two thousand of them in his palace, all of them of small breeds, and classed as lap dogs. They were divided into bands of six, with a keeper for each unit. Wherever the king had a palace there was a dog room next to the royal bed chamber, and this room was furnished with silk and satin-lined baskets. A courtier who invented a basket to be slung over the king's neck, like the tray of orange girls, and which would hold thirty of the pets at a time, was rewarded by the king and publicly praised. One of Henry's greatest trials each morning when he got up, was his inability to decide which dog or group of dogs would accompany him during the day. He never received a foreign minister without having two or three, or even a dozen of the dogs rolling about his feet or lolling on his lap. When the minister's words did not please him he would slyly pinch one of the pets, and in a minute it would be in an uproar so loud that it would be impossible for the visitor to proceed. His greatest expression of friendship consisted in bestowing a dog upon the man or woman who had pleased him.

The Lord Mayor's Show.

(From the Westminster Gazette.) In curtailing, although unwillingly, this year's "Show," the Lord Mayor is only reverting to the simplicity of the pageant's early days. In its beginning the Lord Mayor's Show consisted merely of a procession of minstrels and band on horseback, and its last ancient feature was the group of poor men of the Company to which the Lord Mayor belonged—one for every year of his age—wearing long gowns and close-fitting caps of the Company's colors, and carrying painted shields. It was estimated by a former member of the City Corporation that a modern "Show" and banquet cost £4,000, half of which sum is contributed by the Lord Mayor and half by the Sheriffs. There have been banquets alone at the Guildhall which cost much more than that. When George IV. was entertained there, as Regent, on June 18, 1814, with Alexander, Emperor of Russia, and Frederick III., King of Prussia, the bill ran up to £25,000, and the value of

When the Gifts are Displayed

THE love of the giver is reflected in the lustrous and enduring beauty of Holmes & Edwards silverware. Not only on Christmas Day but all through the year and for years to come, it is silently suggestive of the Christmas spirit and the tender thoughts which evoked the gift.

Those who demand the unqualified best in silverware will appreciate a gift of Holmes & Edwards.

The artistry of its designs is exquisite. Choose either the Jamestown, quietly expressive of the vigor and simplicity of colonial days or the De Sancy, rich gleaming as the famous diamond for which it is named.

You can have Holmes & Edwards silver in either Silver-Inlaid, which is protected by blocks of solid silver fused in at points wherever wear comes—or in Super-Plate, which is guarded by extra silver deposited on the back of the handle and bowl—wherever friction causes wear.
