Where Are They? To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

In that valuable column, farm and garden, there is mention made of several western parties who make a business of breeding wild turkey to cross with other flocks. Their address would be thankfully received by an old subscriber through your paper, or to box 120. Learnington. J. B. Learnington, Dec. 20.

Fond of Walking. ALBANY, Dec. 21.—Edward S. Weston, the pedestrian, who walked from New York, arrived at the south door of the Capitol building at 9:35 this morning, teating the schedule time by 11 hours and 25 minutes. He was in excellent condition.

Perturbed Politics.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Congress will adjourn for the Christmas holidays to-day, with more live-burning questions waiting than have been visible on similar occasions for many years past. The tariff, with only the views of the majority of the ways and means committee presented, and these views net yet before the House; the big treasury deficit unprovided for, and not one feature of the numerous suggested plans for raising additional revenues finally agreed upon; the Hawaiian question still unsettled and practically shrouded in mystery—these and other matters, all unacted upon, will leave many broken strands to be pieced together nany broken strands to be pieced together again when Congress resumes its sittings.
