Latest Happenings in this Section of the Province

Meisha Parker, an old runaway slave, aged 99 years, died at her home in Windsor on Saturday.

On Friday a young son of Mr. David Mott, Mount Vernon, fell into a cistern, and before he could be rescued, was drowned.

An old man named Jackson Kelly was found dead in his house on McDougall street, Windsor, Friday night. The coroner was notified, but did not deem it necessary to hold an inquest as the deceased had suffered from heart disease for some time, which probably caused his death.

The township of Blanshard, Perth county, now enjoys total prohibition. The license granted this year to the hotel at Midway's Corners has been returned, as no tenant could be got to take the premises. That closes the last hotel in the township—one after another giving up for want of patronage.

Two young men from Acton, Ont., giving their names as Oliver S. and W. D. Lasby, who claimed to be going to Chicago on a visit, were sent back to Canada by United States Immigration Inspector McGloghan at Windsor on Friday on the ground that they were going into the country in violation of the alien labor law.

At the meeting of the Perth County Council this week the principal business will be the appointment of a county treasurer, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Andrew Monteth. The candidates for the office are Messrs. George Leverage, treasurer pro tem, and John C. Monteth, who acted in place of his father for some fifteen years.

The accident to the tug Lorimer, which was reported as having gone down off Pelee Island on Friday with all hands, happily proves to be incorrect, although the crew had a narrow escape from drowning. The Lorimer was blown ashore near Leamington, after she had become disabled by the heavy seas, which were constantly washing over her. The long continued rolling had loosened the boiler fastenings, and when the rudder chains parted, the crew, numbering seven men, gave themselves up for lost. The tug, however, drifted inshore, and the men were rescued by a line from shore. They were nearly perished, and had suffered severely from cold and exposure. The Lorimer is still in the same position, and may be released without much loss.

Then He Advertised.

The San Francisco Post quotes an old journalist's account of one of his journalistic exploits. It is not true, it might have been.

"Once when I was publishing a paper in Seattle, I convinced a man that it paid to advertise. He was a fairly prosperous merchant, and I tried for a long time to get him to insert an advertisement in my paper."

"Oh, it's no use," he would say. "I never read the advertisements in a paper, and no one else does. I believe in advertising, but in a way that will force itself on the public. Then it pays. But in a newspaper—pshaw! Everybody who reads a newspaper dodges the advertising pages as if they were poison."

"Well," said I, "I can convince you that people do read the advertising pages of my paper, will you advertise?"

"Of course I will. I advertise wherever I think it will do any good."

"The next day I ran the following line in the lightest-faced page in the office, and stuck it in the most obscure corner of the paper between a couple of patent medicine advertisements."

"What is Cohen going to do about it?"

"The next day so many people annoyed him by asking him what that line meant, that he begged me to explain the matter in my next issue. I promised to do it. If he would let me write the explanation and would stand to it. He agreed, and I wrote:

"He is going to advertise, of course. And he did."

$150 Worse Than Thrown Away on Five Doctors.

Mr. FREDERICK ZEIGLER, OF SEAFORTH, THE LOSER—FOURTEEN YEARS OF EXPENSIVE AND SUFFERING EXPERIMENTS—HOW OTHERS MAY AVOID IT.

Mr. Frederick Zeigler is well known in and around Seaforth, where he has lived for many years. His prolonged and terrible suffering from rheumatism and its grippe is also well known to most of the physicians of that town, having been treated by them for years without any relief. Mr. Zeigler writes for the benefit of the readers of the Huron Examiner:

"Fourteen years ago I was seized with rheumatism. I have suffered terribly with it, the pains at times being almost unbearable. I tried several of the best doctors, but to no avail. About four years ago I was taken with a grippe. I then doctored with five of the best doctors for five months with little or no relief. I paid over $150 in doctors' bills and medicines of various kinds. I at last procured three bottles of Williams' Royal Crown Remedies and Pills, and by the time I had used one bottle I began to feel better, and when I had used two and a half bottles I was completely cured, and have remained in perfect health ever since. I believe it to be the best medicine ever introduced in or about these parts."

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedies and Pills is a wonderful blood purifier and system builder and should be continued until the cure is complete, and always kept in every home, as it is the most economical medicine manufactured.—Huron Examiner."

The skeddaddle from Ridgeway at the time of the Fenian raid, 50 years ago, will be celebrated at Springbank, near London, on Tuesday of next week. Mr. I. Ford will be the only representative from here, as he was one of the volunteers in the London militia, who arrived on the scene the day following the skeddaddle of the Queen's Own, and scared the Fenians back to their boats and across to Buffalo.—Mitchell Recorder.

BIT BY A TARANTULA.

Mrs. George Anderson, of 540 Colborne street, had an experience with a tarantula on Saturday, which she will not soon forget. Mrs. Anderson bought a small bunch of bananas from a vendor who called at the door, and after carrying them into the house and laying them on the table, she felt a sharp pain in the index finger of the left hand. She instantly examined it, and found that she had been bitten by one of the poisonous insects, and was more than a little alarmed. She was disposed of a physician summoned and the wound cauterized. Fortunately for Mrs. Anderson, the tarantula was very young, and did not cause blood poisoning.

TROUBLESOME TRAMPS.

Five more worthless stragglers were arrested at Pottersburg yesterday afternoon by Detective Ward. They came through the village along the C. P. R. track, and used very insulting language to women and girls who happened to be within hearing distance. Several gentlemen of the village were called into the house, and they sent word to Constable Ward. He followed the tramps, and learned that they were at Pottersburg, where they entered the house of Mrs. Eggert, in search of food. They went through the house, and after being satisfied proceeded to other places, where they tried to pry up the windows with a small hatchet. Constable Ward swooped down upon them, captured the five, and took them before Squire Cairness, of Pottersburg, where they gave their names as Fred Dawson, Peterboro; Sam Sullivan, Detroit; Wm. Brown, Windsor; Peter rue, Montreal; Louis Bedard, Montreal. They were remanded until Tuesday next, and taken to the county jail and locked up.
