Splendid Advice

You have not felt much need of coal lately, but we feel quite safe in predicting that we will have at least four months of real winter before May 1st, 1911, so we are taking this means of advising our friends to lay in a good supply of Cross Creek Lehigh Coal now while the price is low. It will certainly pay well to head this advice. Thanking you for your past generous patronage and soliciting a continuance thereof, we are, yours truly.

Death of Mrs. Emily Kerston On Monday—Connected With London's Early History.

The death occurred yesterday after long illness of Mrs. Emily Kerston, who was at one time prominent in society circles in London.

The late Mrs. Kerston was one of the leaders of society in the city during the time when London was the headquarters of British troops in Western Ontario. Her father, the late Captain White, lived and dled on Hitchcock street, now Maple street. Like her husband, he was an army of-

It was a broken man that stood today before Judge Angers in the provincial court of special session. In a voice so weak that it scarcely could be heard from bench to bench, he answered the formal questions put to him. The proceedings were brief, and at their conclusion the prisoner was remanded until Aug. 8, when the court will give him another chance to ask for a writ of habeas corpus or to exercise any other privilege afforded him by law to delay his return to England for trial

When the detectives with Crippen drove up to the court house in a carriage, they literally fought their way through the immense crowd to the judges' chambers. Crippen was apparent that he had passed a bad night.

The judge asked the prisoner if he was Hawley H. Crippen. "I am," said Crippen.

"Do you know this man?" indicating Inspector Dew. Crippen nodded his head.

"Are you ready to go back with him or any other qualified officer?" "Yes."

"Do you intend to fight extradition?" "No As he answered the questions, Cripen scarcely raised his head. To further interrogations he said he was a citizen of the United States, born in When the judge asked: "Is the girl with you Miss Ethel Leneve?" the docor replied. "Yes."

His response was in the most color-Everywhere great bitterness toward Crippen was exhibited, but the attitude toward the woman in the case was strangely different. Everywhere one heard words of sympathy for the girlish creature who had pinned her faith to the man now charged with murder. Reports from the provincial jail added to the popular feeling. Miss Leneve is described as having sobbed and moaned as she tossed on her cot during the early hours today.

When she arose this morning she was handed a telegram which read: "Tell all you know."

Those who saw this message say that it was signe !, "Papa."
