ST. MARYS PROTESTS AGAINST HYDRO RATES

Charge Is Made That Cement Company Gets Better Terms Than the Municipality.

St. Marys, Nov. 19. — Hydro-electric commission rates are again giving trouble to the water, light and heat commission board.

They are apparently at sea regarding the rate given the St. Marys Portland Cement Company and claim that a much lower rate is given to the cement company than to the municipality.

At a special session of the W. L. and H. board held yesterday afternoon the following resolution was passed and a copy sent on to the town council:

On motion of Commissioner Currie it was voted that the secretary advise the town council that the W. L. and H. board are credibly informed that the town of St. Marys is charged a higher rate than the St. Marys Portland Cement Company. The contract being with the municipality, the board gives this information so that the council may take action.

The regular meeting of the town council was not held last evening owing to the majority of the councillors attending the anniversary and fowl supper held at the First Presbyterian Church that evening.

A MEETING TO CONSIDER SEWERS

Engineer Macgregor's Report Will Be Laid Before the Board of Works.

SCHEME IS A BIG ONE

West London Is Not Yet Provided For in the Plans, But the Engineers Are Working on Ideas.

The report on storm sewers will be presented to a special meeting of the board of works to be called this week, possibly on Wednesday evening. City Engineer Brazier has practically completed, and could have handed it in last week, had the board been ready to receive it.

Mr. A. E. Macgregor, of Toronto, has made all the surveys, prepared the maps and data, etc., and worked out the estimates. He is a young engineer, who has made a specialty of sewer work, and was highly recommended by former City Engineer Geo. W. Wright. After the completion of his work here, he will be associated with Mr. Willis Chipman, of Toronto, who has prepared a report on the sewer system of London. During former Mayor Samuel Stevely's regime, Mr. Chipman made an extensive report on general conditions, which is now in the city engineer's possession.

Totally Inadequate.

In it, the statement was made that the sanitary sewer was totally inadequate to handle storm water. It was never intended for that purpose in the first place, being designed to take away sewage from buildings alone. Mr. Chipman pointed out that the connection made for storm water had impaired the efficiency of the present system, and he recommended a separate system for storm water.

The city engineer has had that report for some years, and it was on the recommendation of that report that Mr. Wright insisted that a topographical map be made to show the best method of getting rid of the storm water. Mr. Macgregor was engaged to take the levels, etc., on the recommendation of Mr. Chipman, and he has now practically finished his work. The results will be submitted to the ratepayers in a few days.

Divided Into Sections.

The city is divided into sections for storm water purposes. The natural waterways are followed in practically every case, as affording the easiest and most feasible way of draining the various sections. A separate system for South London, two for the southeast section, and one or two smaller trunks for downtown district have been planned.

The main trunk starts at the southeastern section of the city, near the present limits, and follows a zigzag course to the River Thames on Ridout street, following the watershed of Carling's Creek and the level of the water table. It runs on the city streets as the creek is on private property, and the council have no power to go on this land. It will drain all the northern portion of the city, and will empty the drainage into the Thames. The line will be 42 inches to begin with, and 3 feet or more at the end.

In the South London the main trunk will run down the Wortley road. Another will be laid, a small one, to the western side of the suburb.

Not Yet Provided For.

West London and Mr. Brazier are working out the best scheme. This is a hard problem, and it will have to be dealt with in a practical way.

So far as the east and southern portions of the city are concerned, one trunk will be laid down Wellington street, another down Adelaide street, and another further east on Rectory street. These various trunks will be connected up to every street. The size of the line will depend on the necessities of the case, and will, it is expected, effectively take care of all the storm water in the city. "The system is laid out in sections," said City Engineer Brazier. "A section at a time can be built. When the system is complete, every portion of the city will be drained, not a portion being omitted. Of course we did not go over the newly-annexed districts, as that was not in our scheme."

LABOR MEN MAY HAVE CANDIDATES IN FIELD

Members of the Local Council Are Now Considering a Slate.

The members of the Trades and Labor Council at their regular meeting tomorrow evening will take up a number of matters to be decided at the municipal elections, and it is probable that a labor slate will be prepared.

The labor men are taking the keenest interest in the different issues, and will in all probability take a definite stand on each of the large questions to be decided. It is not known as yet who will be given the endorsement, but a number of candidates will be placed in the field.

AN ACTION AGAINST LOCAL WATER COMS.

Westinghouse Company Sues City of London for the Sum of $9,000.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Monday, a motion by the defendants in the suit of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Limited, vs. the Water Commissioners of London, was heard. The latter applied for an order for particulars of reply, and to leave to plead thereto. Judgment was reserved.

This is one of the steps in the suit brought by the Westinghouse Company to recover about $9,000, which they claim is due them on the contract for the Horton street electric plant. The water commissioners held back this amount, claiming that the company violated the contract, which stipulated that the plant must be completed within a certain time. The company maintain that they did live up to the contract and are entitled to the money.
