dent's remarks at the Teacher's Institute, as quoted by your corresponder K. Thow I happen to know that Dr. Rand was correctly reported, having been present myself, and heard him discuss the subject, and I must say I was surprised that the question of increasing the Teacher's salaries should have been started by Dr. Rand in that peculiar way. A was not a plea for the Teacher's but for I. Rand and his coadjutor, Ar. Crocket. a could imagine I saw a smile overspread the Teacher's countenances, while the wily Dr. pleaded for them in such an eloquent manner. "Let the Government increase the salaries of Mr. Crocket and myself, and those of the Teacher's will soon rise," was the burden of his address.

Now, I think most people agree that what we are paying those Educational Pashas, sums quite equivalent to the value of services received, and quite in proportion to our financial shillty, and I am glad to know that the government have resisted their "claims" for increased remuneration.

"Q," is unfortunate in his reference to Mr. Crocket's salary, which he denies reaches $1500, as stated by your correspondent "K."

By reference to the civic accounts for 1881, I find that Mr. Crocket received the sum of $160 as examiner in the City. The salary was the many and has now one of the neatest tonsorial establishments in the city. The preliminary examination of the Lees will be commenced in the Police Court on Friday, when Sgt. Vandine, who is constantly improving, will be able to be present. Virtue and the matting of the Marting Provinces will be commenced in the Police Court on Friday, when Sgt. Vandine, who is constantly improving, will be able to

I don't know that Mr. Crocket will thank his champion for that admission. It is my opinion that if the City Council or the Board of School Trustees have funds at their disposal for charitable purposes, they might be able to bestow them upon more worthy objects than Mr. Crocket, while the means for such disposal could be made through other than those of a useless office.

Next Sunday Rev. Mr. Mowatt, of St. Recarding Mr. Crocket's connection with Park's Church will minister to the vening.

There are some other phases of the Educational question I shall discuss another time. There is humbug to expose and hypocrisy to anomask, especially in connection with Dr. Rand's new engine—the Educational Institute—which he navigates to serve, for the most part his own self-glorifying ends.

He starts out by attempting to convey the impressic that Dr. Rand was misrepresented in the Salar report of the Chief Superintendent's remarks at the Teacher's Institute, as quoted by your correspondent "K."

By reference to the civic accounts for 1881, I find that Mr. Crocket received the sum of $160 as examiner in the City School for that year, a difference of only $40, from "K's" statement. Now it would have been only candid in "Q" to have stated the exact amount, and to have added also that up to very recently I think in 1880, when there was a general reduction in the City Teacher's salaries, that the Examiner's when there was a general reduction in the City Teacher's salaries, that the Examiner's color when there was a general reduction in the City Teacher's salaries, that the Examiner's color when there was a general reduction in the City Teacher's salaries, that the Examiner's color when the stated from $200.
