

VERMIN.

Lice gnaw the vitals—both chicks and hens fall under the iron rule of these blood-sucking pests. Lice kill more young chicks annually than any other disease. They cause more bowel complaints than colds and improper foods combined. They bring on colds by taking the snap out of the youngsters. They kill the hens and cholera gets the blame. They bring the fowl to such a condition that roup, distemper, indigestion and other diseases are the result. There is a shortage in the egg crop—how could a lousy hen be expected to lay? In short, for both health and profit it is necessary to keep clear of lice.—Midland Poultry Journal.
