NO. 4.

We understand that it is the intention of Mr. Holmsted and Mr. Langton, Q.C., to issue a new edition of the Ontario Judicature Act and Rules, as soon as possible after the completion of the revision of the Rules now in progress, and that they have also in contemplation the issue of a book of Forms. We are authorized to say that they have not, at present, made any arrangements for the publication of either of these works. Any persons desirous of receiving early copies are therefore recommended to send their orders direct either to Mr. Holmsted or Mr. Langton, as no other persons are authorized by them to receive orders.

Whatever view we may take of the question as to whether women should or should not be allowed to enter the ranks of the legal profession, it would now be ungenerous to withhold our congratulations to (shall we say our "brother" or our "sister"?) Miss Clara Brett Martin on the success of her persevering efforts to attain the object of her ambition in being called to the Bar of Ontario. We would therefore express the hope that she may be successful in the profession she has chosen. At the same time it will not be disloyal to her as now one of the brethren of the gown, also to express the hope that she may be the one brilliant exception to the time-honored rule which has hitherto closed our ranks to those who are not of the male persuasion.

A fourth Canadian has been added to the list of those on whom the honor of membership in the Imperial Privy Council has been bestowed. On the 22nd ult. the Lord Chamberlain cabled that the Queen had been pleased to approve of the
