

What the Promised Land Flowed With.

Little children sometimes give strange answers to questions propounded on the subject of the Promised Land. A Sunday school teacher once asked:—

"Who led out the Israelites?"

"Moses," was the prompt reply.

"And from where did he lead them?"

"From bondage," answered several.

"And to where did he take them?"

"To the Promised Land, sir."

"That's right my little dears. Now what did the land flow with?"

"With honey," said three or four.

"And what else?"

Here was a sticker—no reply.

"Come, children, some of you surely remember. When you were babies, what did your mamma give you? What else did the Promised Land flow with besides honey?"

Again a blank pause.

"I know, thir," said a four-year-old, springing to his feet, and elevating his hand. "I know what it wath, thir. I know thir."

"What was it, my dear?"

"It wath titty, sir!"

The teacher, amid the laughter of the adult spectators, proceeded to change the subject by singing a hymn.

"Our Jim," who lives over in Brooklyn, recently obtained a position on the reportorial staff of a paper over there. Jim stayed there just one week. In writing a "Personal" for a celebrated physician of the Eastern District, Jim said: "Dr. — recently performed a wonderful operation on an old lady of this city. She was dying with consumption when Dr. — was called in. He cut her open, and inserted a leather lung. Strange to say, the woman is now—dead." When the editor read it, he said something that Jim didn't like, and Jim resigned. What he said was: "If I ever catch you in this office again, I'll break you in two."

Spring poetry still continues to come in with frightful regularity. Should it continue at the same rate for two weeks longer, it is estimated that we will have sufficient on hand to last until the next centennial. Evidently Spring is a great "inspirer."
