

The manuscript has had the advantage of revision by Miss Lula Bartlit Southmayd of the Detroit High School, who used it as a text in her first-year class. The book has been greatly benefited by her ability and her practical experience with young pupils. Mr. Charles Lane Hanson of the Mechanic Arts High School, Boston, has carefully revised the manuscript and the proofs. Other improvements are due to Dr. Arthur Lyon Cross of the University of Michigan and to Mr. P. O. Robinson of the Commercial High School of New York City, — formerly of the St. Louis High School, — both of whom have read the proofs. Mr. W. J. S. Bryan, principal of the St. Louis High School, has also taken a helpful interest in the work of revision. Miss Emily F. Paine of Miss Spence's School, New York City, has aided me in obtaining several new illustrations, and has prepared the topics for reading in Roman art. My wife has made the new reference map of Greece. While I am sincerely grateful to all these helpers, I feel that it would be unjust to hold any of them responsible for faults which may still remain in the book. Lastly, I wish to thank the many teachers who have used my histories of Greece and Rome, and who have given me the benefit of their suggestions as well as their kind appreciation.
