

the door of the house where the company is employed.

VII.

When any of the members shall remove to another house, he shall give notice thereof to the Clerk, who will acquaint each member of such removal, in the course of one week after, on penalty of paying dollars; and every member neglecting to give notice of such his removal, in one week after, shall pay a fine of one dollar.

VIII.

If any of the members of this company shall lose his or their buckets, bags or baskets at a fire, and shall declare the same at the first meeting of the company after the fire, and that upon his honor he hath made a diligent and proper search for their recovery, the expence of replacing such buckets, bags or baskets, shall be paid out of the fund of the company.

IX.

Each member shall be furnished by the Clerk with a printed Copy of these Articles, complete, with the members' names, and at every quarterly meeting, the President shall cause them to be read, that none of the members may plead ignorance of the articles by which they are bound; and whoever absents himself for three quarterly meetings, successively, unless prevented by sickness or absence from town, shall be deemed as having quitted the company, and shall not
