An echo of the recent assault made on Arthur Busteed, guard at the Toronto Jail, was heard in the general sessions yesterday afternoon before Judge Winchester, when John Kennedy, Frank Bohler, Harry Bryant and Clifford Miller appeared on the charge of assault. Guard Busteed was violently assaulted on the night of March 18, when he was knuocked unconscious and otherwise hurt by prisoners in the jail on remand. Arthur Busteed explained how he was hit on the head with his keys and "knocked out of business," but could not say who hit him first. Detective Mitchell read a statement signed by another prisoner, Dowdell, telling of the part the four men took in the "frame up." Afterwards Dowdells wore that Kennedy did not take part in the assault. His honor found him not guilty in the case of assault, but on the original charge, which was of bigamy, he sentenced him to two years in the peni-J. C. Fields, F.R.S., of Toronto Univers-
