ATLIOUSNESS SURDENS LIPE.-Th

MANSFIELD LOVED BEAUTIFUL NUN

Entered Convent When Forbidden Marriage to Young Actor.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.-That Richard Mansfield's early life had a romance as strange and as touching as any that he ever portrayed on the stage and that its gentle heroine ness, as it had paid him $15,000 in sleeps under the sod of the burying profits during the last year of his ground of a Washington convent, to which she retired on forsaking the world years ago, is a fast little known to the students of the great actor's public career. The man who was regarded by his audiences as a selfcentered and wholly egotistical artist, had from his youth cherished an affection as unselfish and as hopeless as that of Dante for Beatrice.

Few of the young pupils of the convent school to whom the popular actor was an idol realized that the lovely nun who taught them daily had a part in their hero's life story.

More than twenty years ago, when roung Richard Mansfield's star had just risen on the dramatic horizon, the lovely daughter of a Maryland country gentleman made her first visit o an aunt in New York. Fresh from the quiet of her girlhood home, the young girl entered with childish joy into all the pleasures offered by the big city. The first visit which she had ever paid to a theater was to see the play in which Mansfield was then making his great success.

After the performance one of the members of the theater party presented the actor to the young Maryland girl. From that night Mansfield's fate was bound up in that of the gentle girl of whom he spoke henceforth as the "White Rose."

The picture which the pretty country girl, whose simple white freck contrasted as strongly with the elaborate apparel of the other women as the white rose which she had placed reply of the witness. in her hair did with jeweled tiaras, appealed to Mansfield's artistic sense, and he singled her out for marked attention. He found her as lovely in character as she was in person, and fell as deeply in love as only a man of his ardent temperament and determination can.

But fate had fixed a barrier be tween the actor and the object of his tives, Mr. Brazil said." devotion. The family of the young woman, devout Catholics and proud of their distinguished ancestry, held the stage and all that pertained to it in abhorrence. The father in particular, a country gentleman of a fast disappearing type, looked upon his daughter's suitor as being socially on the same plane as a circus clown, and sternly forbade her to receive his at-

Forced to choose between his love and his art, Mansfield sorrowfully bade farewell to his dream of happiness and continued with renewed ardor the career for which fate had predestined was made that nothing had been done

That his affection was returned in that direction. there can be no doubt, for the girl whom he had loved so ardently soon afterward to the surprise of all her friends, entered upon a novitiate in a religious order, and on finishing her Mme. Bernhardt Back in Paris With been going on. It is claimed that 10,probation took the final vows which separated her forever from the man to whom she had given her heart. Years ago she became a teacher in the convent school of the order in this city. The charm which had made her a belle in girlhood and her unusual intellectual gifts made her one of the most successful and popular teachers of the institution, which enjoys a wide reputation for excellence, and in which thousands of young women from all parts of the United States have received their education.

Doubtless from the chatter of her pupils she heard of Mansfield's wonderful rise in his art and of his happy marriage to the woman who had been associated with so many of his notable successes.

That he had never forgotten his early romance and still cherished a tender affection for its heroine she knew, for every engagement which the actor played in Washington was signalized by the appearance of a box of white roses at the convent, sent by Mansfield to the "White Rose" of his early dreams.

When, last spring, death claimed the nun Mansfield was griefstricken, and it is said that at the time of the last engagement he played in this city he visited the graveyard of the convent and placed a wreath of white roses on the grave of his early love.

DR. HAMILTON SPEAKS ON CURING PIMPLES

GIVES COMMON SENSE ADVICE THAT EVERY PERSON CAN EMPLOY AT HOME.

"I believe all skin diseases such as pimples and eruptions originate through the failure of the eliminating organs to pass certain poisonous wastes from the body. "There is at all times a large accumulation of foul matter in the system, which, if not destroyed, gets into the blood. Germs and disease producing matter are thus circulated through the body. Ultimately they force their way through the pores of the skin, produce pimples, swelling, red blotches and often eruptions horrible to look

"I usually found the primary cause to be with the kidneys and bowelsthese organs are too slow. My Pills of Mandrake and Butternut contain very active vegetable extracts that act on strength, tone, and vigor to the eliminating organs that positivtly insures a clean, healthy body.

A course of Dr. Hamilton's Pills puts cleanse the system inside as soap and water does outside, they remove all taints and poisons that block the avenues of health and life, make the skin smooth, restore roses to the cheeks and that brightness to the eye that denotes sound health. Because Mild, Safe, Efficient, anyone can use Dr. Hamilton's Pills with perfect results.

LICENSE BOARD'S CURIOUS METHODS

A Commissioner Says They Exacted

Toronto, Sept. 11.—In the report of Commissioner J. R. L. Starr, on the icense matters which he investigated last winter, he suggests only one prosecution, and this is in connection with the transfer of the Parkdale Hotel from Mr. Andrew Martin to Mr. W. A. Bail, who had been his bartender and manager. Mr. Martin had first asked $29,000 for the hotel, business, as it had paid him $15,000 in occupancy, However, the board of license commissioners said that the house needed repairs, and fixed the purchase price at $18,000. Negotiations followed, and Mr. Martin received $20,000 in cash for the hotel. Mr. Martin swore at the investigation that he met Messrs. T. J. Jones, a contractor, who claimed to have been a former partner of Chief License Inspector Purvis; Edward Adamson, former chief grain inspector in Toronto, and Frank Brazil, on the street. and told them he had lost nearly $11,-000 on the hotel deal. They said they could arrange the matter for him, according to Mr. Martin's evidence, and an agreement was made whereby he paid them $500, and promised $1,500 more if they were successful. Subsequently Mr. Martin, believing that they had done nothing for him, entered suit for the recovery of the $500, but afterwards withdrew his action. Mr. Brazil, in his evidence, said that Mr. Martin explained that if Mr. H. T. Kelly, solicitor in the matter, with the other assistance, realized $20,000 or over for the hotel the three men in question were to get $1,500. The commissioner remarked: "That's a strange deal, to give you all the expected increase.

Mr. Brazil claimed that Mr. Martin insisted on their taking the money, whereupon the commissioner asked: "Was he under the impression that he was buying the license commissioners or paying you?" "Paying us," was the

The commissioner's report on the matter reads: "Then I come to the Martin and Ball

Having quoted from the evidence under this head, the commissioner continues:

"These three from Mr. Martin on the pretense that they would get him a better price than he was receiving, and if he got a better price these three men were to get all of it.

SARAH HAS A NEW PLAY

Four-Act Production.

Paris, Sept. 10 .- One of the strangest theatrical performances on record was given at Arcachon by a Parisian star, Mme. Marthe Regnier, and her company with the Gymnase success "Mademoiselle Josette, Ma Femme." Owing to a railway accident having interrupted traffic, their train which ought to have reached Arcachon before dinner, did not arrive till 10 o'clock. The public, informed of the delay, decided to wait.

In order, however, not to make the public wait longer than necessary, Mme. Regnier and her fellow artists decided to dine after the performance and act just as they were, in traveling costumes. The most striking anomaly was the fact that the heavy father's role was played by an actor aged 19, who had not time to make up. Nevertheless the Parisians scored a decided success. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has returned from Belle Isle with a four-act play as the chief product of her summe labors. Its theme is not yet known even within the inner circle of her acquaintances. One of the things Mme. Bernhardt has promised for the early part of the season is a revival of "Camille," for two nights only, for a special charitable purpose.

In addition to her new play Mme. Bernhardt has produced during her vacation a second volume of memoirs. She also brings back several paintings as the fruit of her leisure hours by

"BETRAYAL OF HONOR"

Strong Words From London Post on Situation in Newfoundland.

London, Sept. 10.-The Morning Post declares that the Newfoundland modus vivendi is a shameful betrayal of British honor and imperial interests, and asks if it does not aggravate the most objectionable features of the 1906 agreement. The Post asks: "Is there another instance in the whole these organs instantly. They give world of a Government surrendering the right of deciding whether it is physically possible for foreigners entering boundaries of its jurisdiction to conform with its laws? Surely, instead the system in perfect order; they of submitting to this humiliation the present Government ought to have insisted that questions of physical possibility should be decided."
