David Warfield came, played and conquered last night. Much was expected from him but anticipation was not belied by realization and the warmth of action manifested was well and worthily earned. The play in which he first appeared in a stellar role in Toronto was "The Music Master," a comely drama in three acts by Charles Klein, but which owes not a little to the skillful hand of David Belasco, whose ed wife of James W. nocently reveals her own identity. Out of this and the fear of exposure on the part of her reputed father, now a wealthy and respected banker, springs the great scene of the drama. The music master confronts his wife's batrayer, brands him with scathing words and insists upon revealing himself to his daughter. But when she enters with the man she loves to ask approval of her engagement, the music master again rises to the height of self-sacrifice and sinks his meditated revenge for love of his child. But the play does not end till the daughter knows the truth and realises the strength of a father's love for which she has always hungered.

A drama of this scope gives ample opportunity for the display of emotional talent. It is the most marked fea-ture of Mr. Warfield's genius that he never even in his most fervid mo-ments forgets to be master of himself. Never has Toronto seen an actor whos restraint more keenly intensided artistic effect or more powerfully af-fected the minds and sentiment of his audience. His presentation of the old music master was full of deep pathos all the deeper because it so often spoke thru the natural humor which his sorrows had not affected. Mr. Warfield's repeated recalls were the best evidence

CATARRHAL ASTHMA

A Remedy Now Being Used That Destroys the Microbe and Cures Permanently.

That germs cause these diseases in beyond dispute-and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating asthma, catarrh and bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, etc. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the dellcate air cells of the lungs and permeate the air passages of the nose and the bronchial tubes, where the germs of catarrh have their stronghold, Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy Walter Ling, 14 years, 18 Markham-street, discovered yesterday that the Russian sport of Jew-baiting is not organs, is exhaled through the nostrils. Lew Dockstader's Minstrels.

Sultry weather didn't prevent a large audience from enjoying the entertainment given by Lew Dockstader and his brother misstrels at the Princess Theatre last night. The minstrel show seems to be one of the things that time cannot stale, altho k has brought a number of changes since the days of Christy's black face comedians with their tambourine pounding and rattling of bones.

Lew Dockstader earned a reputation

20 years ago as an exponent of the black-face art, and as his manner of black-face art, and as his manner of the black-face art, and as his manner of the portraying the peculiarities of the amiable son of Ham is well-known, it need only be said that he is as funny as ever. He makes a resounding hit with his tepical song, "Welcome to Our City." Nell O'Brien is the very personification of unctuous good nature, and his singing and patter found high favor. Al. Joison has a cavernous yoice, can dance and whistle in eccentric fashion, and is provided with a hreezy monolog. Eddie Mazier is richly humorous in a character song, and Wm. Hallett, a smooth interlocutor; Johnny Dove, Joe McAllum, Wm. H. Thompson and Rees Presser are vocalists of a high order.
