ROOSEVELT MAY ISSUE CALL FOR HAGUE TRIBUNAL MEETING

Washington State Department Learns That Matter Will Be Taken Up At Once—American Trade in Manchuria After the War—Departmental Scandals.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5.—It is stated at the state department that the question of re-convening the Hague tribunal will be brought up as soon as the Russo-Japanese efforts are fully started. The invitation for another meeting of the conference was issued by President Roosevelt last evening, but it was then explained by several of the signatory powers that while they would be ready to meet again at the Hague, it was better to postpone the gathering till the Russo-Japanese hostilities were out of the way. Secretary Root will soon be back in Washington and it is thought that as soon as he arrives President Roosevelt will take up the matter with him and a fresh call for the conference will be issued. An exceedingly interesting report has been received from Consul General Sammons at Newchwang on the subject of American trade in Manchuria after the war. He says that there is a good opening there for American farming machinery and for many other lines of goods. In part he says: "Very little American farming machinery, wagons, or in fact modern machinery of any sort has been introduced to this part of China except the modern material used in railroad building. As a rule imported articles have been of European origin, including Chinese merchants who may be able to market American goods later in favor of their own. It is better, however, to introduce the employment of a traveling representative by some lumber companies has been tried and has proved remunerative, but the suggestion of sending out American drummers has been made to home manufacturers till they shudder." His report says that internal conditions in Manchuria are better than would be expected so close on the track of a great war. There have been some serious fatalities along the immediate line of hostilities, where farmers have been killed by their plow striking unexploded shells in the ground. But in the remainder districts the rains have been abundant, crops are good and the people contented, so that it seems a good field for American enterprise. A statement has been issued from the department of agriculture clearing up at least two of the scandals that have recently marred the peace of the big department. Some days ago Prof. Geo. Moore, who resigned from the division of soils as a result of his connection with a nitro-culture company, was reinstated, it being announced by the secretary that there was no charge against him, and that he was able to complete the work on which he had been engaged better than any other available scientist. It was also announced that the investigation of the bureau of animal industry had completely acquitted Dr. Salmon, the chief of the bureau, in connection with the publishing company that had been furnishing a patented most-label to the bureau. It was connected with the company, but when it set out to furnish the label he severed his connection with it and there had been nothing to criticize in his conduct. Of a very different sort was the prosecution made by the secretary of the bureau, who ordered Commander Lucien Young and Edwin Wade of the Benjamin to appear before a court martial for "neglect of duty" in connection with the disastrous explosion on the ship at the order of the result of the findings of the board of inquiry, but it is hoped that Commander Young, who is one of the best known officers of the navy, will be able to make a satisfactory defence.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Sept. 6.—After giving his first decision in favor of John Wille, of Chicago, over Mike Schreck, of Cincinnati, their bout last night at the Casino, Utah, was reversed and awarded the fight to Schreck, declaring all bets off. This Morning's Session Was an Interesting and Instructive One—The Question of Compulsory Education Discussed.

Today and Thursday a few showers, but partly fair.

ONE CENT.

The fourth session of the W. C. T. U. conference opened in Union Hall, at nine o'clock this morning. Mrs. W. Cahill of Sackville read a portion of Scripture from Malachi 3 and 10. A hymn was then sung, followed by a prayer led by Mrs. J. Collier of Fredericton. The president, Mrs. Olive Lindow, then declared the meeting open, and the superintendents' reports were read. Mrs. Seymour, president of the evangelistic and prison department, presented a very encouraging report. At Hantsville, the department held a lecture on temperance, the proceeds of which were $15.50. Comfort bags were sent to the St. John Seaman's Mission. The Richmond report showed that the unions are all doing great work, and during the year 20,000 pages of literature were distributed in jails, hospitals, homes and seamen's missions. At Fredericton, the reports said, flowers had been sent to all of the public institutions, and the hospital authorities had recognized the union's good work. The reports from Woodstock, Millerton, Moncton and Harlow also showed that good work was being done by the different unions. The St. John, Fairville and North St. John branches also reported the accomplishment of a very creditable amount of work during the year. Mrs. Howard Sprague, president of the St. John county union, in her report, said that all unions had prospered greatly during the year. The county union meets every three months, and the members feel that it is a very good union, bringing each union in contact with the others and therefore encourage the members when they hear the quarterly reports. Mrs. McLeod, vice-president, asked if the county unions had done anything towards compulsory education. Mrs. Sprague replied that a petition had been drawn up, which would be put before the convention and then sent to the legislature. Mrs. Colter, president of York county branch, said that although the work had done their best, she had not a very satisfactory report. The work in York during the year did not compare favorably with that of last year. Mrs. W. Cahill, in her report on "Prison and Tidings" complimented the different maritime papers for their good support. The W. C. T. U. paper, "Tidings," was being read by Mrs. S. L. Gorbell. Mrs. Cahill, at the close of her report, asked that her resignation from the office of "press superintendent" be accepted. Mrs. Vanwert read her report on the "Juvenile" department, and was pleased to say that reports from other unions showed a big improvement on last year. The notices were then read. The convention then rendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Gorbell. An invitation was also read from Mrs. C. H. Dearborn, who, on behalf of the St. John union, invited all the members of the convention to a drive tomorrow. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Dearborn. It was decided that, weather permitting, the drive will take place tomorrow from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Katherine Lente Stephenson next led to death Gherika Varteman, a native of Morocco, for the murder of the Russian merchant Agak Usjan on Aug. 26.

A STEAMER SUNK

MONTECAL, Sept. 6.—(Special)—The steamer Rosanna was sunk in collision with the tug near Longue Point, in the St. Lawrence St. John union, invited all the members of the convention to a drive tomorrow. A vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Dearborn. It was decided that, weather permitting, the drive will take place tomorrow from 12:45 to 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Katherine Lente Stephenson next led to death Gherika Varteman, a native of Morocco, for the murder of the Russian merchant Agak Usjan on Aug. 26.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 6.—The criminal court at Stambul has condemned to death Gherika Varteman, a native of Morocco, for the murder of the Russian merchant Agak Usjan on Aug. 26.

TOKIO IS VERY ANGRY, WHILE ST. PETERSBURG IS APATHETIC

People Gather in Tokio and Indignation Meetings Are Held—Some Rioting and Several Arrests—Osaka Asks Government to Resign—St. Petersburg Indifferent.

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—(Delayed in transmission)—The first turbulence attendant upon the popular anger over the terms of peace arranged with Russia took place today. A mass meeting to protest against the action of the government was called to take place at Ekiya Park, but the metropolitan police closed the gates and attempted to prevent the assembling of the people. The municipality protested against the action of the police and finally the gates were thrown open and a large crowd gathered and voted in favor of resolutions declaring the nation humiliated and denouncing the terms upon which the treaty of peace was concluded. The crowd was serious in its conduct rather than angry and the police handled it discreetly. The gathering dispersed in an orderly manner. Later on, however, a crowd attempted to hold a meeting in the Shintomi Theatre and the police dispersed it. A portion of the crowd then proceeded to the office of the Kokumun shimin, the government organ, and began to throw stones. The employees of the paper, armed with swords, appeared at the door of the building and checked the attack and the police again dispersed the crowd. It was thought that the trouble had passed when suddenly a portion of the crowd made a rush at the building and hurled stones and damaged some of the machinery. Several persons were injured during the attack, but the police eventually cleared the streets and arrested a number of rioters. The disorder is not general and the situation is not serious. Similar meetings were held at Osaka, where the government was asked to resign. General sentiment throughout the country seems to favor reactionary measures, but it appears clear that the majority of the people will eventually accept the result of the peace conference, however disappointing it may be. ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 6, 3:45 a. m.—The news of the signing at Port Arthur of the treaty of peace was received here quietly and even with the same apathy that has marked the attitude of the Russian people throughout the war. There was no demonstration and no special meetings were adopted to make the news known. No extra editions of the newspapers were issued and a large part of the population of St. Petersburg will be ignorant of the final act of the plenipotentiaries until they read of it in this morning's newspapers. Two or three of the newspapers this morning published the text of the treaty as cabled from Portmouth.

Mr. Binks met Jamesy the next day and confided to him the story of the dream, and his conviction that there was money to be had for the digging. Now, if any of you generally know that our esteemed fellow citizen, Mr. Jamesy Jones, is the seventh son of the seventh son, and is endowed with certain mysterious powers which are denied to less fortunate persons. Among these is the gift of discovery through the agency of the mineral rod. Therefore when Jamesy heard the story of Mr. Binks he at once proposed to put the dream to the test of the divining rod. Mr. Binks readily assented. In the dusk of that very evening they set out together from the Marsh Bridge, following the guidance of the rod, which the moment it was raised in Jamesy's hands pointed in the direction of Red Head. Along the road, through fields and across lots they journeyed, until they came to a willow tree, the exact location of which for practical reasons is not stated. Mr. Binks recognized the willow tree. The moment the divining rod touched the treasure under its shadow Mr. Binks knew it to be the tree of his dream. Not being prepared to dig that night the treasure seekers returned home, but last night, armed with pick and shovel and a dark lantern, and the sword which Mr. Binks's Loyalist ancestor brought to this country, they set forth a little before midnight to unearth the hoarded wealth of some ancient settler or bloody pirate. Just what happened after they disappeared in the thick mist and darkness is not known, but it is reported that both of them are very reticent, but a policeman who was on duty at the Marsh Bridge at an early hour this morning states he was startled by the sudden appearance of two men who hurried past him with every evidence of mortal terror stamped on their faces. One theory is that they were frightened away from the willow tree by some supernatural appearance. Another, which apparently was inspired by a Red Head farmer, is that when a vagrant and curious cow thrust her head out of the darkness into the circle of light, her horns were mistaken for those of a Pegasus, usually regarded with fear and trembling by those who go on midnight quests for pirate hoards.
