

Orangeade!

The next time you are down near our fountain and feel thirsty, step inside and say "Orangeade" to the Soda Dispenser, then watch him. First he selects a fresh, ripe orange, cuts it in two and squeezes the golden juice into a polished glass, then some cracked ice and sugar (just enough to suit your taste), a dash of lime-juice and some pure, bubbling carbonated water. Then you have a drink and we have a satisfied customer.

It has become one of the most popular drinks at our fountain, so popular that at times we are pressed to supply the demand. Its popularity is due entirely to its own merits.

Try It! You'll Like It! It's a Real Treat!

DOING GOOD ROAD WORK

Alfred F. Belding of the provincial roads engineering staff, arrived in the city last night and will leave again this afternoon for Sackville. He has had a crew of twenty-seven men engaged making a permanent road across part of the marsh between Anzac and the Nova Scotia border. It is the very worst place here already completed, 400 feet, with a ditch on each side three feet deep and three feet wide at the top, with a vent ditch 120 feet long and eight feet deep. The material for the road surface is a combination of flint, iron and other mineral ingredients which packs almost like cement, and is of the finest quality for permanent work. When done the work will be patrolled weekly, to keep it in condition.

Mr. Belding has a crew of seven men at work in the Dorchester woods, skirting the road to a width of sixty feet. The trees had been allowed to grow right up to the side of the road, shutting out the sun and keeping the road wet. When skirred it will also be ditched. The engineer says that everywhere the cry is for better roads, and so keen are the people that at one place three prominent citizens are supervising the expenditure of a special grant without charge, in order that the grant may go farther in road making.

DEATH OF JOSEPH MERITHEW

By the death of Joseph Merithew, McKenzies Corner, Richmond, Carleton County has met a severe loss. He was a prominent member of the Baptist church and deeply concerned in all that touched the social, political and moral welfare of the community. He was magistrate for many years and possessed much knowledge of the law. Mr. Merithew was elected councillor several times, serving the parish of Richmond most efficiently. In politics he was staunchly Liberal and The Telegraph was his favorite secular paper, but other reading matter was in plenty in his home. His wife, a stepson in the army and many relatives in York and Carleton Counties have heard of his death with much sorrow.

EVIDENCE IN ARSON CASE IS ALL IN

Addresses by Counsel Begun—Case Likely to Jury This Afternoon

Hearing of the evidence for both the crown and defence was concluded this morning in the second trial of John Hughes and Joseph O'Brien, charged with burning the summer cottage of W. J. Crawford, in the Loch Lomond road on the night of June 16. Previous to the opening of the case today, Daniel Mullin, K.C., chief counsel for the defence, interposed an objection to evidence given yesterday by Henry L. Alexander in respect to a conversation he overheard in Jackson's restaurant, and although he did not identify the prisoners, the statement was attributed to them. Mr. Mullin said that the evidence had no relation to the issue. He cited the case of Regina vs. Taylor in Cox's fifth criminal cases, page 128. He contended that under this authority Mr. Alexander's evidence was inadmissible. The attorney-general argued that it was evidence in the case cited, he said, there were three distinct charges laid, whereas in this present case there was only one. Chief Justice McKeown said the evidence was properly admitted and he allowed it.

Today's Testimony

Denely Sheriff Armstrong Clifford was the first witness for the prosecution this morning, and also the last. He gave estimated measurements relative to distances alleged to have been covered by the defendants on the night of June 16. This concluded the case for the prosecution. Recess of fifteen minutes was granted to allow counsel for the defence to consult, following which Mr. Mullin proceeded with the case for the defence. He called two witnesses, Peter C. Sharkey and Fred McDonald. The former reviewed the conversation of Policeman Saunders with Mr. Donnelly and himself on the night on which the policeman went to the stable. He said that upon asking Mr. Saunders what the trouble was, he got the reply: "That two plumbers had gone out the road last night and burned down Crawford's cottage." Cross-examined by the attorney-general, the witness said that in his last evidence he did not use the word "flash" in referring to the kind of a light which he saw on the night of the fire. Mr. Sharkey related an affair which passed between Saunders and himself on the matter of a beer license in a store at East St. John. Following the evidence of Fred McDonald, the attorney-general asked the evidence of Mr. Sharkey in the last trial to be read over again in reference to the flash-light. The court stenographer who took the evidence of the last trial was not in court and the matter was not presented. A little before twelve o'clock Mr. Mullin began his address to the jury. He commenced by outlining the duties of the crown in criminal cases. He referred to ambitious policemen and methods employed. He was unapologetic in his criticism of the evidence of Policeman Saunders. He impressed upon the jury the maxim, "every man is presumed innocent until he is proven guilty."

He said that there never was a more innocent man brought into court than the man in this case. He argued that the words "circumstances will not lie" were misleading and he contended that "detectives misled people to get what they want." Truth, he said, was not suspicion, conjecture or presumption. He took up the evidence of several of the crown witnesses to show the master of the plumbers' strike and turning to the prisoners said if it was not that they were striking plumbers they would not be in the dock. He said that Policeman Saunders was the lookout only for striking plumbers. He said that two plumbers seen out the Loch Lomond road that night were the guilty ones in the eyes of the policeman. He said that Saunders had overlooked an important thing in not measuring the width of Kitty's shoes. He referred to a prominent lawyer of the city and termed him "the powerful corporation lawyer of the city," and said he had been engaged by the master plumbers. He concluded that the only interest the master plumbers had for the public was "to squeeze them."

Continuing he said that if he had wanted to lift the curtain in this matter with reference to the plumbers' strike he could have given the public some light that would have been interesting. The only thing that stopped him was the ill-health of George Blake, the head of the master plumbers' organization. At this stage the judge called his recess and ordered the jury to be on hand again at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon. There is a possibility of the jury getting the case late this afternoon. Mr. Mullin continued his address to the jury this afternoon and was followed by the attorney-general.

DEATH OF HUGH FINLAY

For Many Years Closely Identified With St. John Newspaper Work

Hugh Finlay died this morning at the residence of his son Robert, on the Loch Lomond road, after a lengthy illness. Mr. Finlay, who was seventy-eight years of age, was for the greater part of his life identified with the printing business in this city and during that long period of time won a host of friends. He is survived by seven sons and two daughters. The sons are Hugh, Harry and Frank of Boston, and Robert, Charles, Thomas and Albert of this city, and the daughters are Mrs. Charles Eslow of Bangor, Me., and Mrs. William McAndrews of this city. His son Robert is foreman of the Evening Times press room. Mr. Finlay was for many years an outstanding figure in the newspaper life of St. John. He was for twenty-two years editor of the Daily Telegraph and, while chiefly engaged in printing work, often took a hand in the writing department as well as despatch editor. In later years he was connected with Progress, The Record, and The Gazette. Some time ago his health forced his retirement from scenes in which he had been an active figure for so many years and he had passed his declining days quietly at the home of his son Robert. Many friends will be sorry to learn of his death.
