EXHIBITED IN LONDON

Was Plaything of Some Egyptian Child Centuries Before the Christian

LONDON, May 9—A wonderful exhibition of toys of all nations and of all ages will be opened at the London Day Training College today by Lady Margaret Campbell and games.

Its chief object is to give parents some idea of the invaluable means of training which is offered in the use of suitable toys.

Idea is to Establish an International Bureau and Settle all Differences suitable toys.

Not only ancient and modern toys and games are to be seen in the hall, but a series of pastimes suitable for children and youths and girls.

The oldest and most interesting doll in the collection is 2000 years old, and once upon a time delighted an Egyptian child.

"Knuckle-bones" the playthings of tian child.

"Knuckle-bones," the playthings of savage races, are a feature of the collection lent by Edward Lovett, of Croydon, who has also sent curious dolls of all nations. This is only a part of his Folk Museum collection.

There are dolls and toys from Lapland, Japan, the South Sea islands, Holland, Spain, France, Germany, Russia, Africa, India and North America. The most disreputable doll is an early Victorian one, which has been treasured by three generations. The face has disappeared under the influence of caresses. There is a Welsh doll 100 years old, and some particularly ence of caresses. There is a Welsh doll 100 years old, and some particularly fierce-looking dolls, with saw-like backbones, from Rhodesia.

Toys made by the children of the poor and the children of the rich are shown side by side. One little girl has contrived to make a very presentable doll out of an egg and a paper bag, while a small boy has contributed a realistic looking rooster fashioned out of a few corks and a feather or two.

Many toys have been made by the members of the Children's Happy Evenings Association, and the little cripples of the Guild of Braye Poor Things have turned out some very clever toys.

among the Russian toys is a limited model of a monastic town, and there is a curious toy, representing the "Little Father," filled with smaller and smaller "fathers." The Eskimo toys consist of boats and cradles made of skin.

The Japanese dolls and games are works of art, and two footballs used by the nobles of the Mikado's court 200 years ago are shown by Mr. Crewdson

lics Will Build It.

Without Warfare.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—President Roosevelt today laid the corner stone of the first international temple of peace, friendship and commerce yet to be erected, the tangible evidence of the desire of the 21 American republics that war should be no more in the western world and that material prosperity promoted by international trade shall take its place. Following addresses by President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Root, Ambassador Nabuco of Brazil and Andrew Carnegie, a cabled sentiment ex-pressing the hearty approval of each president was read. Cardinal Gibbons and Bishop Cranston pronounced an invocation and benediction on the work done and the United States marine band rendered selections of Pan American music especially prepared for the occasion. The new building is to be the point property of all the republics. The site provided by the American Congress, consists of the historic Van Ness home, the protentious mansion known negro of this city, were burned to death last night and two others so badly burned that they are not expected to live. Kennedy's wife alleges that her husband locked the children in the place and then set it on fire. The man and woman have been living apart and the question of the possession of the children was being fought out in the courts. Kennedy escaped. Ness home, the protentious mansion erected in Washington. It faces the Mall and within a few hundred yards of the White House and adjacent to the State War and Navy building and the State War and Navy building, and the Art Gallery. Three million dollars towards the construction of the building is the contribution of Mr. Carnegie, while each of the republics has added an appropriation to the fund. The building is to be the home of the international bureau maintained by the American republics and is to be made the centre of a continuous campaign of the Methodist ministers of the city was held in Centenary church at ten o'clock this morning. The grand jury was to have met today to consider Lamphere's case, but this procedure has been postponed for a week. Experts were called into the affair by Sheriff Smutzer and they advised this course, although prosecuting attorney Smith announced that he was ready to go on to court with the evidence at hand. Since then the case has been strengthened by the discovery of Lamphere's trunk containing several letters which are said to establish his participation in the murder of Helgelein and by the information extracted from a number of persons who were intimate enough with the prisoner to learn from him much concerning his relations with Mrs. Guinness. If the slfting and sluicing of the ashes in the cellar of the home, result in the discovery of more evidence, it is likely that the case will be pushed toward a conclusion rapidly.

The attitude of the defense has not been revealed. The prisoner has received stringent orders from his attorneys not to discuss the charges against
