"WHY AM I WEAK?"

ought much of your trouble you know that the force which keeps up the health and strength of your body is nothing more or less than electricity. All the motive power in your body is born of electricity. That is what you lack, and that force given to your weak organism, as I will give it, will renew your strength. You will be able to enjoy life. You will be strong again. I can point with pride to hundreds of men who come to me after having failed to get the craved results from drugs and other treatments, men broken down, sleepless, short of memory and without the courage and energy of strong people. They have come to me almost without hope, discouraged; and I can point to these men today, after their having worn my Electric Belt, happy, enthused and shouting with gladness in the possession of the full vigor of perfect manhood. These men will at any time be glad to tell you what I have done for them.

Dear Sir:—Your Belt cured me of rheumatism and sore back a year and a half ago and I have had no reason to put it on again. You know how bad I was before I got it; I had such a soreness across my loins and vidneys I could not turn in bed without catching hold of something. The iirst night I had it on it was a little better, and I used it as directed by you. This, I think, is part of the cure. I do not state these few lines as a person who does not know what he is talking about. I am not built that way.

Yours truly, ROBT. CAMERON. Do you doubt it? If so, any man or woman who will give me reasonable security can have my Belt with all the necessary attachments suitable for their case, and Boatswain Carried Away.

Word was received here vesterday to the effect that the Barkentine Hancock which left this port about a week or ten days ago, met with a serious disaster on her voyage to New York, and was forced to put into Boston Harbor, leaking so much that she would have foundered had she been at sea much longer. The Hancock was loaded with laths here, and a little oyer a week ago set out for New York. As she was sailing off Boston the barkentine had the misfortine to collide with an unknown steamer, which resulted disastrously to the sailing vessel. The boat was nearly sent to the bottom by reason of the collision and the boatswain of the barkentine, thinking his ship was sinking lumped on the steamer at the time of the crash and was carried away on that vessel. The barkentine, badly disabled, then put into Boston harbor with as much rapidity as possible. The Hancock is a pretty old craft, and is owned by Homan and Pudding-ton of New York. George Finley 18

ALLEGED CUSTOM FRAUDS. Winnipeg Paper Says Government Being Defrauded.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—In an extra edition on Saturday night an evening paper published an article making statements in respect to alleged customs frauds here and in other parts of Manitoba. The paper said in part:

The customs department is now engaged in unearthing thefts from the customs posts in Manitoba, and full octails, when officially handed out. The customs department is now engaged in uncartining thefts from the customs posts in Manitoba, and full details, when officially handed out, promise to be somewhat sensational. Theatrical companies from New York, and other American cities bring into diantitoba immense quantities of "paper," that is, bill posters, window cards, etc. It transpires that, with few exceptions, no return has been made for probably $5,000 or $6,000 duty, supposedly collected on this stuff entring Manitoba. The duty on this class of imports is not paid by theatrical managers resident in Winnipes, but by agents of companies, and it will be seen that the customs department has a big task on hand in getting at the bottom of the shortage. These travelling agents are now scattered over the face of the continent, and it will be difficult to get their testimony. The books show that there has sarcely been a collection at the customs office on these posters for about a year, and some of the higher officials in Manitoba dropped on to the scheme of defrauding the customs through the disappearance of a "bundle of paper" treasurer, Mrs. H. W. Cole.

FITZGERALU IS

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 11.—Boston today, in the first partyless election held under her new charter, elected former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald to fill again the Mayor's chair for a four-year term, giving him 47,061 votes and a plurality of 1321 over his nearest opponent, James J. Storrow, banker, and former chairman of the School Board. The most remarkable feature of the election to many was the yote of 1783 given the present Mayor, George A. Hibbard, who was elected two years ago on a "reform" ticket over Fitzgerald. The fourth mayoralty aspirant, Nathaniel H. Taylor, found only 625 supporters.

The campaign, remarkable in many ways, was easily Boston's greatest. A record total vote, 95,125, more than 84 per cent. of the total registration, was cast. BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 11.-Boston to-

TO GET $3,000 A YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—The widow of Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, of the New York detective bureau, who was assassinated in Palermo, Sicily, will receive in all $3,000 a year from the City of New York as pension money, if a resolution passed by the Board of Aldermen today is ratified by the mayor. The board voted her $2,000 a year to be added to the $1,000 which she receives annually from the Police Pension Fund.

Ignacio Lupo, "The Wolf," and Giuseppe Morello, who were arrested yesterday as the leaders of a counterfeiting gang, are being put through the third degree by the police on the theory that they engineered the plot which resulted in Petrosino's assassina tion.

LORD MILNER IS TALKING VERY STRAIGHT PROTECTION

His Huddersfield Address Reads Like a Speech by Hon. G.E. Foster-Instances to Prove That Foreigners Pay Duty and That Revenue and Protection Can Go Together.

WOULD CHECK ENTERPRISE. They did not object to the direct taxation of the rich, it was necessary and inevitable. What they did contend was that inasmuch as it was felt not only by the rich but by the whole community, inasmuch as it did tend to check enterprise and diminish employment they were not justified in increasin guitside its borders what it could perfectly well produce for itself within them.

There was no profitable increase in foreign trade, except that which reforeign trade, except that which resulted from an increase in their total national production, from their buymational product for itself within them.

The cable despatches have shown that Lord Milner, who made such an excellent impression during his tour of Canada, is taking a prominent part in the British struggle among the broader-minded advocates of Unionist policy. In some places Lord Milner has been taking a very broadly imperialist line, but in others he has not hestitated to rest his argument purely upon the basis of protection pure and simple. In his early campaign speech at Huddersheld, for instance, full reports of which are to hand, and which was directed to an almost exclusively working-class population, he had not aword to say of any effects of tarily reform other than those of the purest protection. The substance of his speech was as follows:

He commenced by describing the outcry against the Lords for rejecting the budget as "pumped up indignation," which was designed to divert attention from the constructive policy of the Unionist party, but which would fail. The Liberal manoeuvre, he said, consisted in trying to divert public attention from the constructive policy of the Unionist party, which their enemies greatly feared, by raising the bogey of an aristocratic conspiracy against the liberties of the people. They were not going to waste their breath, or their time by disproving the existence of a danger in which nobody really believed. They might be great fools in the House of Lords—he thought the recent debate hardly proved it—they were not guch fools as to think it pose.

In three successive years during the Boer war, altogether by fifteen millions a year, and there was not a murmur. The wealthier classes of the community recognized that the charge was necessary, that its distribution was fair, and there was absolutely no resistance, hardly even discussion. "Is it decent in the face of facts like that to say that it is selfish dislike of taxation which has caused resistance to a much smaller amount of imposition in in all the lands over which the British ount of imposition in in all the lands over which the British flag flies. They should shake themselves free from the insane delusion that
