Children Cry for CASTORIA.

REFLECTIONS OF A SPINSTER. (New York Judge). If love's eyesight were good, pyramids would never have been invented. Good men are products of the imaginations of religious women who have never married. If God only leads people something to love, what had judgment has sometimes uses in not calling the loan. A handsome man divides women into two classes-those he knows he can kiss and those he thinks he can see soon as he has time. Contusion between a man's sorrow at being found out and sorrow for what he has done has been one of the scandals of morality. A girl kissing a married man is like a child playing with electricity, who does not like the shock when it comes but cannot resist trying it once more. Some men are as easily entertained as the one who had a habit of taking off his wife's wedding ring whenever he wanted a little excitement.
