All-Red Line Must Have Its Terminus on Atlantic Coast

Maritime Provinces will stand together in the fight for the fast mail port—enthusiastic audience endorses the Board of Trade's resolution at a mass meeting in the Academy of music, Halifax—many forceful speeches by representative men—all red line in the interests of the Empire, the Dominion and the Maritime Provinces.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at the mass meeting in the Academy of Music, last night:

Whereas, the project of a fast mail and passenger steamship service to connect Canada and Great Britain has been continuously discussed by the people of the Dominion for more than a quarter of a century, and in the light of great Imperial and National prospects involved in the enterprise, it has always been held that only a service of the highest type of marine architecture and speed could satisfy the requirements and aspirations of the Dominion, and successive Canadian governments have steadily recognized this feature of the undertaking by renewed offers of immense public subsidies, while the specifications for the service to be supplied require it to be at least equal to the best afloat; and

Whereas, it has been demonstrated that the quickest route for European mails and passengers destined to the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario, and the West is through a port on our Atlantic seaboard, and vice versa, and consequently that this route is the best for Canada at large and her Imperial connections, and it has been further shown that the fast service desired by the people of the Dominion and popularly described as a ferry, operating swiftly and with regularity, and giving the Dominion the results and benefits that should flow from the expenditure of the large proposed subsidy, can only be effectively accomplished by an all-the-year-round terminus on the Atlantic seaboard;

Therefore Resolved, in the interests of the Empire, the Dominion at large, and the Maritime Provinces, this meeting is of the opinion that any contract which may be entered into by the Canadian Government for the payment of a large subsidy for a Fast Atlantic Service should stipulate that the Canadian terminus be at a port on the Atlantic seaboard of the Dominion the year around;

Further Resolved, that copies of this resolution be sent to the members of the Senate and House of Commons at Ottawa.

Startling Story of a 17-year-old Girl

New York, March 14.—A startling story of how five girls, who came to New York from St. Paul a year ago, took their own lives, was told today by seven-year old Helen Baxter, after she had made a vain effort to commit suicide also. Helen said she was one of the party of six girls who went to New York to make their fortunes after receiving a course of training in a business school in Minnesota City. She turned on the gas in her furnished room in 43rd street last night, but was resuscitated this morning.

When asked why she had tried to end her life, the girl replied: "We should not be allowed to die? My five girl friends who left St. Paul with me a year ago, after we left school, have all committed suicide. I want to die as they died and join them."

"Was it a suicide pact?" she was asked.

"My five friends are all dead, and they died as they chose," was her reply.

The girl said she and her five friends decided while in the business school in St. Paul to come to New York together, thinking there was more of a future in the metropolis. She refused to give the names of any of her girl friends. A short time after their arrival in New York, she said, one of the girls married. She did not live happily with her husband however, and killed herself a few months after she became a bride. In the meantime another girl has been seeking employment without success. She sought death and found it by the same means her friends had used. The next to go in the same way, according to Helen's story was one of the girls who had fallen a victim to a man's false friendship. With three of her companions, the three that remained worried constantly and when hard times came and employment was hard to find, two voluntarily followed their friends to the grave. That left Helen alone. Then a man came into her life. The man was represented to her as immensely wealthy, she said, and for a time she was happy. Then he suddenly started for Europe, she said, nothing to live for after that she said, and decided to join her five friends in death.

Helen said her father is dead, but that her mother still lives at St. Paul. She refused to give her mother's address. When it was found that the girl would

Alcohol not needed

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a strong drink. As now made, there is not a drop of alcohol in it. It is a non-alcoholic tonic and alterative. Ask your own doctor about your taking this medicine for thin, impure blood. Follow his advice every time. He knows.

We publish our formulae. We furnish alcohol from our distilleries. We make our own medicine. We make our own medicine.

Ask your doctor, "What is the first great rule of health?" Nine doctors out of ten will quickly reply, "Keep the bowels regular." Then ask him another question, "What do you think of Ayer's Pills for constipation?"
